Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Nov. 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Instead of observing Armistice Day Monday Wall street decided to hold a little session for the boys that crave more action than ordinary peace affords, and everybody was jarred loose from a five to fifty-point drop. That will make some of 'em remember that the day has some significance anyhow.

Only two more weeks of this special session of Congress which Mr. Hoover would give his high-top rubber boots if he had never been short-sighted enough as to have called 'em. He has one consolation. They have annoyed each other as much as they have him.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

United States Backs Leader on Peace Appeal and His Navy Parity Offer

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (Exclusive)—President Hoover's Armistice Day address evoked more interest and favorable reaction than any he has delivered since he initiated the movement for naval reduction. This is attested by thousands of telegrams received at the White House from all sections of the country.

No official dispatches were received from abroad, but press reports from London, Paris and Berlin were read to the White House and, it is understood, the President was gratified with their tenor. These foreign reports dealt chiefly with Mr. Hoover's suggestion that in time of war the freedom of the seas should be assured to neutrals and traders by international agreement placing food ships in the category

ST. HELENA'S PEAK AFIRE

Mountain Burns Like Beacon

Women of Calistoga Join Men in Battle to Rout Demon of Forest

Dramatic Deeds Mark Fight; Workers Labor to Save Historic Landmarks

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—Standing out against the night like the fiery beacon it must have been in its days as an active volcano thousands of years ago, Mt. St. Helena tonight was at grips with a fire-fighting force estimated between 400 and 750, seeking victory in what is described as the worst and most spectacular forest fire in the history of Napa county.

Flames, unconquered, even though their spread had been checked by a dying wind and back firing, climbed from the base almost to the tip of the mountain. The alarm is so general in the region that able-bodied women of Calistoga forsook their household to join the men with wet sacks, shovels and picks. They worked shoulder to shoulder with men and boys who joined the fire fighting brigade when the high schools were emptied. Other women trundled rolling kitchens through fire lines, serving hot coffee and sandwiches to men who have struggled for thirty-six hours with little, if any, relief.

SAVE LANDMARKS

A rising wind at midnight or after, which is a usual thing, was declared to increase the peril of the entire community around the mountain. The battle centered chiefly on saving historic spots with which the district abounds, expensive summer homes and extensive landholdings.

Among homes in the vicinity is that of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mathews, cousins of Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

Countless stories of dramatic and heroic actions filtered out of the fire zone.

Outstanding among these was a dash of Police Chief Pierce of Calistoga, who ran the fire lines with an automobile to the Mt. St. Helena Inn, where he rescued Mrs. Molly Patton, 80 years of age, carried her to the car under an arch of fire, and retraced his path into Calistoga.

WIDE FIRE FRONT

With its various offshoots, the fire front is said to have stretched over an area of thirty-five miles in length, a territory strewn with old buildings and other landmarks dating back to the days of early California history. Its threat is directed at Napa, Solano and Lake counties. State Forester Pratt, who came to the district from Sacramento after a strenuous session against blazes in Lassen National forest, estimated the area already burned at 25,000 to 30,000 acres. The top of Mt. St. Helena, he said, has been denuded of tree growth and stands bald.

The home of Chapin L. Tubbs was saved after the lawn caught fire but $30,000 worth of farming machinery was destroyed. Silverado cabin, once escaped by Robert Louis Stevenson, is believed out of danger, but several expensive homes and the $300,000 properties of the Grigsby silver mines continued in danger.

EATS INTO FOREST

The new blazes were reported from Lassen Forest, avowedly eating into some virgin and much second growth timber and fanned by a steady east wind. Fifty-seven men were dispatched from Chico to aid forces on the ground.

Green Valley's cherry orchards in Solano county, from which come the first crops each year, were saved by 200 men who conquered an eighty-acre fire.

NEW BRITISH ENVOY NAMED

Sir Ronald Lindsay to Succeed Sir Esme Howard Early Next Year as Ambassador to Washington

LONDON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Sir Ronald Lindsay, permanent Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs, today was appointed Ambassador to Washington.

Sir Esme Howard, the present Ambassador, whose tenure of the post has been extended beyond the retirement age, will retire early next year.

The first wife of Sir Ronald was Martha Cameron, daughter of Former Senator J. Donald Cameron of Pennsylvania. She died in 1918. His second wife, whom he married in 1924, was Elizabeth Sherman Hoyt, daughter of the late Colgate Hoyt of New York.

SUCCESSOR NAMED

Sir Robert Van Sittart, principal private secretary to Prime Minister MacDonald, who himself was considered a likely candidate for the Washington post, was appointed permanent Undersecretary of State to succeed Sir Ronald.

The new Ambassador is 52 years of age and was the fifth son of the twenty-sixth Earl of Crawford. He entered the diplomatic service in 1898 and first served at Washington from 1905 to 1907. In 1919 and 1921 he was Counselor of the Washington Embassy.

WIDE EXPERIENCE

He had been Ambassador to Turkey and at Berlin before becoming permanent Undersecretary of State in 1928. He also had served at St. Petersburg, Teheran, Paris, The Hague and in Egypt.

Sir Esmond Ovey, only recently appointed Ambassador to Brazil, and who had not yet taken up his post, was appointed instead Ambassador to Russia, as was made possible by the recent agreement for resumption of diplomatic relations.

APPOINTMENT VIEWED AS COMPLIMENTING US

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Appointment of Sir Ronald Lindsay to succeed Ambassador Howard is viewed in high administration and diplomatic circles tonight as a compliment to the United States government, evidencing the importance the Labor government attaches to Anglo-American relations.

As Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs he had active charge of the British Foreign Office. The name of Sir Ronald has been well known in Washington for a number of years, numerous friends having been made by him while attached to the Embassy here from 1905 to 1907 and in 1919 and 1920.

Secretary Stimson was not available for comment tonight, having planned a hunting trip in Virginia.

President Hoover is expected to receive Sir Ronald's credentials in February, at which time Sir Esme

REMOVAL OF RELICS OPPOSED

Arizona Fights to Keep Scientists from Carting Away Dinosaur Tracks

PHOENIX, Nov. 12. (AP)—Gov. Phillips today directed the Sheriff of Coconino county to stop a party of eastern scientists from moving dinosaur tracks from Dinosaur Canyon, near Tuba City, seventy-six miles from Flagstaff, Ariz.

At the same time the Governor sent a telegram to Secretary of the Interior Wilbur at Washington, protesting against the tracks being moved from the State and carried to an eastern museum. The protest was filed with the Federal official in that Dinosaur Canyon is located on Indian lands.

The Arizona Republican, Phoenix newspaper, joined with the Governor in protesting against the proposed removal from the State of the relics. The Republican sent a telegram to Senator Hayden, asking him to use his influence to prevent "removal of any of these inheritances from the borders of the State."

The expedition of scientists, which reached Tuba City yesterday, is headed by Gilbert Gable of Philadelphia and Hollywood, Cal.

GIGANTIC PLANE PROJECTED

Would Cost $5,000,000, Carry 600 People and Cross Atlantic Ocean in Six Hours

NEW HAVEN (Ct.), Nov. 12. (AP)—New York to London in six hours in an airplane accommodating 500 passengers and a crew of 104 is a possibility of the near future, according to Harry R. Westcott, president of Westcott & Mapes, engineers, of New Haven, who said his firm has been asked to bid on structural work for the plane.

The superplanes, Wescott said, may be built in New York at a cost of $5,000,000 each. His firm will submit bids within thirty days.

The gigantic aircraft, Wescott said, would have twelve 1000-horsepower motors, and would be designed to overcome wind resistance at an extremely high altitude.

Beyond the fact that German engineers are advising an American concern on motive power, Westcott would divulge no further information.

East Slopes of Rockies Swept by Snowstorms; Colorado Cold Kills Boy

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—A flurry of snowflakes will swirl down upon this section on the wings of frigid gales from the Northwest where they are enjoying weather of 2 deg. below zero, it was announced tonight by the local Weather Bureau.

Snowstorms of old-fashioned mid-winter proportions were reported over several States on the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains today while the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas reported snowfall with temperatures ranging in the lower thirties.

The 2-deg.-below weather was registered at Yellowstone Park. A prediction similar to that issued for this section has been sent out by the United States Weather Bureau at St. Louis.

A winter storm in Colorado was held accountable for the death of one boy, Fred Salazar, 16 years of age, near La Jara.

One hundred and fifty automobiles were sent to the scene from Butte to bring passengers to this city for medical treatment and lodging.

STOCK SLIDE CONTINUES

Many Issues Go to New Lows

Active Securities Drop from $2 to $20 Per Share in Hectic Short Session

Many Rumors Float Around Wall Street as Leaders Seek Cause of Break

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—A fresh collapse in stock prices today sent nearly 300 issues on the New York Stock Exchange crashing to new low levels for the year.

Net declines in scores of active stocks ranged from $2 to nearly $20 a share, with a sprinkling of ordinarily inactive specialties down all the way from $35 to $106 a share.

So great was the volume of trading that the stock exchange ticker did not stop running until two hours and twelve minutes after the three-hour session had ended. The day's sales were 6,452,700 shares, as contrasted with 3,367,180 yesterday.

The market closed with most stocks at or near the day's low levels, offering little hope that the flood of liquidation which has wiped out many billions of dollars in quoted values since the first bad break of October 24 has run its course. Scores of issues closed today at prices which represent only a small fraction of the year's high levels. No responsible person in Wall street will venture a prediction as to how much longer the decline will run.

MANY WILD RUMORS

Wall street sought vainly to find out what, if anything, was overhanging the market as wild and unconfirmed rumors flew thick and fast through the streets of the financial district. One of the most persistent of these rumors, namely that Charles E. Mitchell would relinquish the chairmanship of the National City Bank board of directors, was denied officially by Percy A. Rockefeller, a director and large stockholder in the bank.

In the absence of any strikingly adverse trade, business or financial news, Wall street concluded that distress liquidation has not yet been completed, but failed to locate its source. It is regarded as inevitable that a series of declines such as have taken place in the past fortnight will force the closing out of weakened marginal accounts which survived the original break.

The market opened lower for the sixth successive session as blocks of 5000 to 10,000 shares were dumped overboard. A rally started in the second hour, but quickly petered out, and prices tumbled again as heavy selling was resumed in the last hour.

LONG LIST LOWERING

United States Steel common, American Can, General Electric, National Biscuit, New York Central, Union Pacific, American Water Works and Public Service of New Jersey were in the long list of issues to break to new lower levels for the year.

No meeting of the New York banking group was held today and its spokesmen made no comment on the situation.

The decline in securities prices extended to the commodity markets. Wheat futures declined about 6 cents a bushel and corn about 3 cents a bushel in the Chicago market, and cotton futures fell $1 to $1.60 a bale to new low levels for the year on the New York Cotton Exchange.

Shares on the New York Curb Exchange, the over - the - counter market, and other leading security exchanges, also declined sharply. Fewer shares broke to new low levels on the curb than on the stock exchange as curb shares recorded greatly lower levels in the panic of selling two weeks ago.

FEAR OF TARIFF BLOC DECLARED RESPONSIBLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—The recent stock-market crash, in the opinion of Fred I. Kent, director of the Bankers' Trust Company, is due largely to fear engendered in the minds of business men by the opposition of the coalition bloc in Congress to the proposed tariff bill.

Speaking before 400 bankers at the annual dinner of the American Acceptance Council, he said:

"The activities of this bloc and

NEVADA BIDS FOR POWER

Entire Output of Dam Sought

Ambitious Plan Involves Developing Huge Factory Center in State

Los Angeles Water District Demands Sole Control of Transmission Lines

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—Secretary of the Interior Wilbur started hearing protests today on the allocation of Boulder Dam power announced three weeks ago, and the number and conflicting nature of the complaints must have convinced him that there is no possibility of the applicants coming to an agreement among themselves and that it will be up to him again, as in the first instance, to take matters in his own hands and lay down a final apportionment upon which the government will go ahead with the Colorado River project.

The same is true of the condition set forth by Secretary Wilbur for nongovernmental equipping and operation of the power plant.

The high spot of the hearing was an ambitious offer on the part of Nevada to take "all the power" from the project and "lay the money to finance it on the table within thirty days." This proposition was put forward by George W. Malone, State Engineer and secretary of the Nevada Colorado River Commission, and took the breath away from everybody, including, it appeared, Senator Pittman of Nevada, who had just gone through saying that his State was not in position at the moment to contract for more than a quarter of the 18 per cent offered it under the Wilbur allocation.

MANY PROTESTS HURLED

Protests were hurled at the Interior Department program from every direction. The city of Los Angeles and Metropolitan Water District demanded sole control of the power plant and transmission facilities, contending that joint operation with the Southern California Edison Company as proposed by the government would make for dissension, inefficiency and waste of funds and would jeopardize the government's interests.

The Southern California Edison Company came back with a claim that the 25 per cent of power allotted it was unfair, in view of the proportion of cities, farms and factories it serves in Southern California, and offering itself as the "unit contracting agency" to do business with the government, taking all the power and subletting to Los Angeles, the water district, and other private and public purchasers. The company argued that with its 120,000 stockholders and its regulation by the State on rates, it is as much a public agency as any power organization set up by the city or water district and is entitled to as much consideration under the "public interest" guide lines of the Boulder Dam project.

The cities of Glendale, Pasadena and Burbank, speaking for themselves and other small municipalities, protested that the 4 per cent of Boulder Dam power allocated to them was insufficient to meet their needs and suggested a new set-up which would give communities other than Los Angeles one-third of all the power. Representative Swing of El Centro, co-author of the Boulder Dam Act, presented a similar plea on behalf of Anaheim, San Bernardino, Riverside and Santa Ana, saying the power allocation should be such that these and other small cities would get "whatever power they need."

NEVADA HOLDS STAGE

Nevada held the stage during most of today's hearing. Although Malone and Senator Pittman differed widely on how much power the State could contract for and immediately they were together on the basic Nevada proposition that the State was entitled to have reserved for its future use more than the 18 per cent now contemplated. They were joined in this contention by Senator Oddie, who declared at one point with considerable heat that "the Boulder Dam Act never would have passed Congress if it had been realized that Nevada would have

MOONEY'S ALIBI BLOWS UP

Ohio Man Refutes Reported Confession of Dead Brother That Was Asserted to Exonerate Bomber

WHEELING (W. Va.) Nov. 12. (AP)—Alonzo Smith, brother of Lewis Smith, who was said to have absolved Thomas J. Mooney in the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing in 1916, today said his brother could not have been guilty of the bombing, as he was in Ohio at the time. Lewis Smith was said to have made a death-bed statement in Cleveland confessing the crime.

Smith said he had told newspaper men of outrages his brother had committed, but that he was "kidding them along." He asserted he wanted to give them a "good story," and answered in the affirmative to many leading questions they asked him.

STATEMENT SCORED BY EX-BAY CITY PROSECUTOR

The asserted death-bed confession of Lewis Smith purporting to clear Tom Mooney of culpability for the San Francisco preparedness parade bomb killings, as reported in recent dispatches from Bellaire, O., is scored unqualifiedly as not founded on fact in a statement issued yesterday by Charles M. Fickert, Los Angeles attorney, who was District Attorney of San Francisco county during Mooney's trial in 1916. The statement was issued by Fickert from his offices at 530 West Sixth street, where he is engaged in private practice.

According to the former prosecutor, the ante-mortem statement attributed to Smith in affidavits by his surviving relatives is either one of two things—the result of a mentally or physically sick man's hallucinations or a purposeful lie calculated to aid the cause of Mooney's release from prison.

HIS STATEMENT

Fickert's statement in full follows:

"The alleged confession of Lewis Smith, who died in Cleveland in

Freedom of Seas Idea Gets Europe's Attention

of hospital ships. Only in France was doubt expressed of the practical value of Mr. Hoover's idea, and even this doubt did not express a lack of interest in the suggestion.

On all sides it appears to be agreed that the issue of the freedom of the seas will not be discussed at the London conference. This interpretation is placed on Mr. Hoover's statement that he will not propose his suggestion to the conference "as that session is for a definite purpose and this proposal will not be injected into it."

APPROVAL VOICED

It is considered that if there ever had been any intention of discussing the freedom of the seas Mr. Hoover would not thus definitely declare that an idea designed to dispose of that ancient problem by the simplest possible means will not be proposed for consideration.

In the reaction to the address the stipulation by the President that he will not inject this issue won hearty approval. There appeared a rather widespread fear that an academic debate over such a problem would delay, if not entirely prevent, a conclusive agreement on the disarmament or reduction proposals.

Notwithstanding it was largely the issue of neutral rights on the seas that drew this nation into the World War there appears to be a great volume of opinion supporting the President's view that the freedom of the seas should not be taken into the London conference. Hence the reaction to Mr. Hoover's suggestion as to food ships is favorable in two directions. It is felt in the first place that he has made it unnecessary to inject it into discussion of naval reduction and secondly, that such an agreement in itself would reduce the necessity for continued naval construction.

OPTIMISM FELT

It is pertinent in this connection to point out that the President is understood to view the problem of the freedom of the seas in much the same light as he regards the problem of the Mediterranean and the submarine. His position is understood to be based on the thought that if a definite reduction program can be achieved it will not be difficult to reach some such agreement as he outlined last night and that in this event the problem largely would settle itself.

He is just as optimistic regarding the Mediterranean question. That involves the attitude of France and Italy toward the London conference, and has to do with submarines. Mr. Hoover feels confident that if these two nations enter the conference a general naval reduction program can be worked out, but he is equally confident that if they do not a three-party agreement will be effective in advancing the cause of world peace and that obsolescence will solve the submarine problem.

It was not only on his suggestion in respect to food ships that favorable opinion was expressed. The whole tenor of his plea for peace found ready response throughout the nation. His basic declaration that in all efforts toward peace the country will preserve the means of adequate defense so that "no foreign soldier shall ever step upon the soil of our country," plumbed the depths of patrotism throughout the country and brought to him messages glowing with enthusiastic expressions and pledges of support.

COURAGEOUS OFFER

Likewise his clear-cut declaration that this nation will reduce its naval strength in proportion to any other nation and that it only remains for them to say how low they will go since "it cannot be too low for us," won the highest commendation as a courageous statement of policy which can admit of no doubt of this government's policy of no quibbling over details.

Above everything else there was high praise for Mr. Hoover based on the fact that he again took the lead in pointing the way, not only to possible settlement of one of the great problems of peace, but more definitely than ever before dedicated himself and this nation to the cause of peace.

Describing the President's suggestion as an excellent one, Chairman Hale of the Senate Naval Committee, said it remains to be seen whether it can "be worked out in practicality."

Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations and Naval committees, said the proposition "is worthy of serious consideration and if accepted by all nations would be promotive of peace and would reduce the hardships and brutalities of war."

OTHERS COMMENT

Senator Norris, Republican independent of Nebraska, said he thinks it would be a fine idea and "a humanitarian effort to eliminate food ships from war if it is possible."

Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, declined to comment, but he has been one of the foremost among those in the Senate who have advocated an agreement guaranteeing the freedom of the seas as a prelude to naval limitation agreements.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, described the idea as "most laudable," but said it ought to be included in the agenda of the conference at London.

"We have gone to war twice over freedom of the seas," he said. "Let's get it now."

This picture of Santa Maria taken from an airplane 7000 feet above the crater of the volcano while it was belching death and destruction upon the country side is the first picture of the Guatemalan disaster to reach Los Angeles. The eruption started about midnight on the 2nd inst., and this picture was taken shortly after sun-up the following morning. The stream of lava shown in the picture was followed by the photographer for more than fifteen miles and was then lost from sight in the jungle. At more than 7000 feet altitude, the photographer reports, the air was so hot that it was necessary to open all windows in the cabin of the plane, and considerable trouble was experienced in keeping the engine from overheating.

REGAIN CHARM OF BEAUTIFUL TEETH

You may say, "I'm too old to regain beautiful teeth." But are you? Aren't you underestimating how PEBECO has helped thousands, and can help you? Pebeco is not a candy-like tooth paste. It is built scientifically to work—and it does. It cleans. It whitens. It checks "acid-mouth"—which hastens tooth decay. And what an exhilarating tang it leaves! A week's use is the best test. Be fair! Give Pebeco this chance. —Adv't.

NEW BRITISH ENVOY NAMED

Howard will retire from the British Foreign Service.

Sir Esme has held the Ambassadorship here since March 5, 1924, and is dean of the Diplomatic Corps. Ambassador Hernan Velarde of Peru, who took his post twenty days after Sir Esme arrived, will become dean of the corps.

Prison Decreed for Embezzler

CAMDEN (N. J.) Nov. 12. (AP)—Samuel R. Worthington, former assistant real estate officer of the Broadway Merchants' Trust Company of Camden, today was sentenced to five years in State prison for embezzling $75,000. The money was lost in the stock market crash, he said in pleading guilty.

MUMPS WORRY ARIZONA

PHOENIX, Nov. 12. (AP)—An epidemic of mumps, with 117 new cases developing in Arizona last week, was reported today by the State Board of Health.

FOOD SHIP PLAN TAKEN UP

Hoover's Immunity Idea Interests All of Europe, But Widely Divergent Reactions Provoked

LONDON, Nov. 12. (AP)—The Armistice Day speech of President Hoover and particularly its suggestion that food ships be granted the same immunities as hospital ships in war-time interested Europe from one end to the other today, but provoked widely divergent reactions.

The heartiest reception was forthcoming immediately in Germany. England as a whole appears to regard it as another contribution toward world peace, but sees some difficulties still remaining. Although the text of the speech was printed nearly in full in both Paris and Rome, editorial comment developed more slowly and in several cases was strongly critical of the arguments of the President.

ROME PAPER CRITICAL

The Rome Daily Tevere professed to find the ideas of Mr. Hoover entirely contrary to British traditions, but admirably serving American expansionist interests. "The reality proves that the most formidable antagonism between the two powerful imperialisms, English and American, is ever alive and perhaps insuperable."

It remarked that the United States remains hostile to the League of Nations, preferring the Kellogg pact, which, it said, not only leaves it free to choose the way suiting it best, but leaves it the arbiter no matter what the situation.

The Conservative Journal Des Debats in Paris strongly disagrees with the President's plea for immunity of food ships. "We do not hesitate to say that this solution of the problem tends to render war more than ever ferocious."

SEA RIGHTS ISSUE RAISED

Lieutenant-Commander J. M. Kenworthy, Labor Member of Parliament, and an authority on naval questions, in an interview today expressed belief that the suggestion concerning food ships raises the whole question of future belligerent rights at sea.

"It must be read in conjunction with the covenant of the League of Nations and the Briand-Kellogg pact for outlawry of war," he said. "These two instruments would make it necessary to divide future wars, should they break out, into classes of public and private. As the United States is out of the league, some independent court must set up in the future to affix the blame for a war and to define the aggressor.

"President Hoover's suggestion is immediate and practical and should be welcomed as such, but it is only a step and we have a long way to go yet in the education of public opinion to a new world order for the preservation of peace."

NOT SO SIMPLE

The Conservative Daily Telegraph described the food ships proposal as revolutionary and less simple than it sounds while the Times held that such suggestions "coming from such quarters are sure to receive the most prolonged consideration. The arguments he brings forward to support it are a most important contribution to the problem."

The best part of the speech, the London Times said, was that expressing his conviction the world is becoming more genuinely inclined toward peace.

"Certainly," the paper commented, "the omens for the naval conference in January are becoming more favorable and an atmosphere has been created wherein the conference will have every chance for success."

The Daily News, Liberal, warmly eulogized the President's "practical, vigorous initiative in implementing the Kellogg pact." While holding that the food-ships suggestion must receive the attention of the civilized world, it doubted very much "whether all attempts to humanize war are anything but a pitiful illusion."

PIONEER OF LOCOMOTIVE FAME DIES

Engine Kingham Brought Around Cape Horn Now in Museum at Stanford

SAN JOSE, Nov. 12. (AP)—John Kingham, 83 years of age, who brought west around Cape Horn on a sailing vessel in 1864, the locomotive that later made the first transcontinental trip on the Central Pacific Line of which the late Gov. Leland Stanford, Sr., was one of the founders, died here today in the County Hospital.

During the railroad's construction the locomotive was used to carry Stanford's private car over the line. It now is in the museum on the Stanford University campus, where it was assembled by Kingham. It is named the Gov. Stanford.

Kingham leaves a son, Joseph, a member of the San Francisco Police Department.

CONFESSION OF BOMBING DENIED

1922, is just some more misinformation that has been imparted to Senator Schall. This so-called death-bed confession was either the hallucinations of a man who was suffering from some ailment, physical or mental, or else it was fabricated after his death for the purpose of securing further contributions to the cause and to help continue the Mooney agitation.

"Grove L. Johnson, the father of Senator Johnson, in an article in the Sacramento Star in 1921 made the following prediction:

"'It would not be surprising if all other means fail to open the prison doors for Mooney if the I.W.W. forces would produce a man who would confess that he and not Mooney manufactured the bomb used in San Francisco and that he and not Mooney fired it on that fatal day when men and women alike were killed and injured. Such things have been done by people, and, judging from the desperate efforts made by these associates of Mooney in his behalf, they are ready to go any length to secure his release.'

"The statements contained in the affidavit of Mrs. Monroe, Smith's sister, show that he was unfamiliar with the locality where the bomb was exploded. Also his statement that the bomb was thrown shows that he was ignorant as to what occurred there. All of the physical facts prove that the bomb, with a time clock to detonate it, was inclosed in a suit case and left at the scene of the explosion and that it could not possibly have been thrown. At the trial were produced pieces of the bomb, showing that it was approximately fourteen inches in length and weighed about thirty-five pounds. Besides, some of the metal parts of the suit case were found in the bodies of the victims.

"It is no mere coincidence that Billings's application for pardon was filed one day and on the following day Senator Schall makes public this alleged confession. However, I do not believe that the defendants will present the affidavit of Mrs. Monroe to any State authorities, because it is directly in conflict with the facts established at the trial by irrefragable evidence. In my opinion, no one intimately associated with the defense and familiar with the facts had anything to do with the preparation of the affidavit."

Wife Clings to Accident Story in Murder Trial

OROVILLE, Nov. 12. (AP)—Mrs. Pearl Baldwin, charged with the murder of her husband, William Baldwin, today took the witness stand in her own defense and for more than two hours gave her version of the slaying as brought out by her attorney's questions, and ran the gauntlet of the prosecution's cross-examination.

Mrs. Baldwin was the last witness announced by the defense and indications were that the case would probably reach the jury tomorrow night.

The witness testified repeatedly that she had picked up a gun from a table "to defend herself" and that she did not at any time intend to shoot.

STOCK DECLINE STILL KEEPS UP

their method aroused a feeling of uncertainty on the part of industry, and uncertainty is the most difficult thing for business to face. There was a fear that if this bloc succeeded in rewriting the tariff bill in its own way it might come to believe that it had the power to reduce existing tariffs."

BORAH SUGGESTS INVESTIGATION OF CRASH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Investigation of the stock exchange to determine the cause of the recent crash in prices was proposed today by Senator Borah of Idaho, a leader of Republican independents, in answer to a charge of some bankers that Democratic-Republican coalition majority in the Senate on the tariff bill is responsible for the condition.

Senator Borah suggested the investigation in a statement replying to a speech by Fred I. Kent, director and former vice-president of the Bankers' Trust Company of New York, attributing the stock-market situation to the activities of the coalition in the Senate.

"We are simply endeavoring," said Senator Borah, "to establish the principle of equality in the protective system as between agriculture and industry. If equality under the protective system between agriculture and industry shakes the stock exchange to the earth, let it go. An institution which gets frightened because agriculture is making an honest fight for existence is not worth preserving. But that is not what was the matter with the stock exchange, and likely Mr. Kent knows more than he wants to tell."

MEXICAN CLASH FATAL TO EIGHT

the War Department has ordered the troops held in barracks to restore order at a moment's notice.

Pascual Ortiz Rubio, Presidential candidate of the Revolutionary party and heir to the mantle worn by the late Gen. Obregon, former President Calles and Provisional President Portes Gil, generally is expected to be chosen as the next chief executive. Jose Vasconcelos, his chief rival as candidate of the Antire-electionist party, has said that if Ortiz Rubio is given the victory he will declare himself President of Mexico on the grounds that the elections were not fairly conducted.

STUDENTS FAVOR HIM

This, however, has not been taken as necessarily meaning that Vasconcelos will remain in Mexico. His strength is principally in the cities, where his most ardent supporters are students.

Ortiz Rubio, on the other hand, has a highly perfected political organization which extends into the remote regions of Mexico. There are said to be many places where the entire body of voters will cast ballots for Ortiz Rubio because the existence of an opponent is unknown to them.

While most impartial observers seem to believe that Ortiz Rubio will win, tehy believe strongly in the sincerity of President Portes Gil. He has even been referred to as "fanatically sincere and honest." It is considered unlikely therefore that he will take advantage of any opportunity that may arise to prolong his term in office.

Woman's Slogan Wins $50 Prize

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—Mrs. L. M. Anck of Santa Monica won first prize in the Statewide fire-prevention slogan contest of the State Chamber of Commerce, the board of judges announced today.

"A Fire Prevented is a Forest Saved," are the seven words for which Mrs. Anck will receive the $50 prize for which more than 10,000 Californians competed.

L. E. Dix of Inglewood and Minnie Childs Lewis of Tustin were given special mention for the artistic presentation of their slogans. Honorable mention was given Robert P. Fickle, Arcata; C. J. Sellman, Jr., Glendale; Ina De Foe, Santa Rosa; Mrs. C. M. Enos, Morro Bay, and J. F. Capatanich, Stockton.

PRELATE VISITS MIRACLE GRAVE

Archbishop of Boston Sees Pilgrimage Crowd

Official Significance of Event Denied

Many Thousands Seek Cure During One Day

MALDEN (Mass.) Nov. 12. (AP)—William Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, today visited the grave in Holy Cross Cemetery of Rev. Patrick J. Power, which for two weeks past has been the shrine of pilgrims from all quarters of New England and from Canada seeking relief from bodily ills in its reputedly curative qualities.

The carnival arrived, alone and unannounced after the little crowd of several hundred which gathered outside the cemetery gates before dawn had swollen to many thousands. He stood silently aside watching the crippled, the maimed and the blind file to the grave's edge in a seemingly endless line, pray for a moment or two, snatch a handful of earth and file away. He said he had come merely to witness the situation for himself and that his visit had no official significance.

POLICE CALLED ON

Before noon the crowd that had visited the cemetery was estimated as being more than 30,000 when caretakers finally closed the gates for the night.

Cemetery officials first became aware of extraordinary interest in Father Power's grave several weeks ago. Small groups began visiting the grave and scooping rain water from a chalice carved in the gravestone. Rumors of miraculous cures became widespread and the crowds of pilgrims increased in size until, two weeks ago, it was necessary for the cemetery officials to enlist police aid in keeping the line in order. Over the week-end it was estimated that more than 200,000 persons had visited the shrine and to save the grave from damage, a low wooden fence was built around it with openings on two sides, through which the pilgrims might file.

CURES ASSERTED

Father Power died at the age of 25 years and was buried about sixty years ago. Until the pilgrimages became popular, little was known of his life and no one has advanced an explanation as to why his particular grave should have been chosen from among those of scores of priests buried in the cemetery.

Several of those who visited the shrine today claimed to have been cured of illnesses, as have others each day since the pilgrimages were started. Some left crutches and canes behind them in the cemetery and chapel.

SENATORS MAY REST FOR WEEK

Respite from Long Grind on Tariff Sought by Many

Independents Seem Opposed to Adjournment

Duties Lowered on Tinsel Wire and Products

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Adjournment of the Senate for a week's respite from the long grind on the tariff bill before the opening of the regular session December 2 is regarded as the likely outcome of conferences begun today by various group leaders.

The only faction that appears opposed to the move is the Republican independents, who will meet tomorrow in an effort to reach a decision.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who, as ranking minority member of the tariff-framing Finance Committee, speaks for his party on this issue, said he favors adjourning the 22rd inst., to give Senators a little time to attend to personal business and to rest up for the winter session.

SMOOT ACQUIESCES

Chairman Smoot of the committee, spokesman for the Republican regulars on the tariff, acquiesced and said if the prevailing sentiment seems to be for an adjournment a week before Thanksgiving he will make a motion himself to end the special session the 21st or 22rd inst.

Senator Borah of Idaho, a leader of the Republican independent group, which is rewriting the tariff along with a majority of Democrats, said a week is a long time to waste with the tariff bill in its present stage, but indicated there probably will be no serious objection to the early adjournment if it is moved on personal rather than political grounds. He said the western Republicans will meet tomorrow to attempt to agree on the adjournment question.

Smoot predicted that with such an adjournment the Senate could resume consideration of the tariff after the disposition of the Vare case, the first order of business for the December session, and, with the coalition in control, pass the bill before Christmas.

TINSEL RATES CUT

The only action on rates taken today by the Senate before it began an incompleted debate on the shingle tariff question was to lower present duties all along the line on tinsel wire and articles made of this and similar material. Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, was successful in moves to lower existing rates on tinsel wire, lame or lahn, bullions and metal threads made of these articles and woven fabrics manufactured from the same materials. The Finance Committee Republicans had recommended only the elimination of increases proposed by the House.

Reaching the wood schedule after an understanding was reached to take up the watch-and-clock duties of the metals group tomorrow, Senator Jones, acting Republican leader, and Dill, a Democrat, both of Washington, led an assault on the Finance Committee's action in knocking out the 25 per cent ad valorem duty on shingles proposed by the House and restoring them to the free list, where they have been since 1913.

VOTE DUE TODAY

A vote on this item, which has figured prominently throughout the tariff hearings and floor debates, was deferred until tomorrow when Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, will speak. He and Senator Thomas of Oklahoma are in charge of the wood schedule for the Democrats, both being members of the Finance Committee.

LYTELL AND ACTRESS TO BE MARRIED

Former Film Player Now on Stage Admits Truth of Months' Old Rumor

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (Exclusive) Bert Lytell, late of the silver screen and now starring in a legitimate production here, tonight confirmed reports that he and Miss Grace Menken, who plays opposite him in the cast, will be married when they return to New York after the Chicago run of the play. Their engagement has been rumored for several months. Miss Menken is a sister of Helen Menken.

"Of course, it's impossible for us to say just when we will be married," Lytell admitted. "It isn't possible to gauge how long our play will be kept here. We came on a tentative engagement and it just depends on the popularity of the show. But we plan to be married when we return to New York, where the Menken family will be reunited."

This will be Lytell's third matrimonial venture. He first was married to Evelyn Vaughan, who divorced him in October, 1924, following torrid love scenes in which he participated with Claire Windsor during the filming of "Son of the Sahara," made in Algiers. Mrs. Lytell charged indignities. In May of 1925 he married Miss Windsor, one of the most beautiful of screen actresses. That romance crumbled in July of 1927, when Mrs. Lytell the second sued, charging mental cruelty and unnecessary long absences from home.

Jerusalem Arab Knifes Oculist Who Aided Race

JERUSALEM, Nov. 12. (AP)—A knife attack was made today on Dr. Tycho, well known oculist, by an Arab as he was entering his clinic. The Arab stabbed him twice, the knife remaining in the doctor's back. He was taken to a hospital.

Dr. Tycho is known far beyond the boundaries of Palestine for his successful fight against Trachoma among the Arabs of Palestine. He is credited with having saved hundreds of Arabs from blindness since he settled in Jerusalem about twenty years ago.

There have been many new attacks on Jewish pedestrians recently and fresh outbreaks of raids on Jewish colonies in several parts of Palestine.

NEGRO POLITICS SCHEME TRACED

Black Candidates Were to Run as Democrats

Promotion of Plan Laid to Tariff Group Leader

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Promotion of a plan to put negro candidates in the race for Congress in the North as Democrats in order "to hold in line" the Southern States which went for Herbert Hoover in the last election was attributed to J. A. Arnold, manager of the Southern Tariff Association, today by the Senate lobby committee.

Examined for the seventh day by the committee, Arnold acknowledged correspondence and documents which disclosed the program for "blackening the Democratic party." The correspondence said Arnold had taken the proposal up with Vice-President Curtis, who, it added, suggested the scheme should be referred to President Hoover.

HAS BAD MEMORY

Again accused by Chairman Caraway of the lobby committee of having a "bad case of failing memory," Arnold after some hesitation acknowledged his handwriting on some of the mass of additional correspondence produced.

As for the "blackening of the Democratic party," Arnold ascribed that scheme to Vance Muse, a field representative of the Southern Tariff Association, saying he had told Muse to "go ahead" but that he thought "it was too much of a dream and impossible of application."

A document showing that the idea was to organize a southern Republican council and get negro candidates in the race as Democrats for Congress in St. Louis, Chicago and New York, was produced by the committee.

ORGANIZATION FLIVVERS

"Nothing came of the organization," Arnold asserted.

A letter from Arnold to Muse was read by Chairman Caraway of the lobby committee which said Arnold went "with the darkey today to see Vice-President Curtis and he thought well of our negro Congressman idea, but said it was a matter that should be taken up with Mr. Hoover and that he would talk with Hoover about it." The "darkey" was not identified.

"Curtis said he thought of getting a better grade of negroes to lead in the South," the letter continued, "but I told him that would not be in the complete remedy.

"Our line of approach is much more acceptable to politicians and the negroes of equalizing by blackening the Democratic party than by whitening the Republican party; the negroes will go in revolt over the plan of kicking them out of the party or of leadership; they will have to take themselves out of the way for the present."

NEGRO QUESTION UNSOLVED

Another letter written by Arnold to Muse said, in regard to the council, that "it all seems to swing around Hoover."

"He seems to have given the impression among his associates that he is personally interested in the South and wants to handle it," the letter added. "I have no doubt he will welcome any aid or assistance but the only thing to do is to go ahead with it."

Later the letter said the "crux of it all is the negro question which the regular Republican party cannot solve; they have tried it for fifty years and made no progress."

Angelenos Let Off by Judge

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—Frank and Ruth Leach and Warren and ... e Duren, all of Los Angeles, went their ways today with a resolution ... tame down their whoopee in the future. Booked on fifteen separate charges by Patrolman Hoopner as the conclusion of a party which ended in a fist fight and a slap in the face which caused the officer to swallow a lighted cigarette, they faced Police Judge Golden today and heard themselves sentenced to jail for 190 days.

Then because they were so repentent, the judge suspended the sentence.

LAST CHANCE GIVEN GRUNDY

Veteran Lobbyist Must Name Senators from "Backward" States or Face Contempt Charge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—Joseph R. Grundy, veteran Pennsylvania lobbyist, will be given one more chance by the Senate lobby investigating committee to name the Senators from "backward" States he would deprive of a voice in the framing of national policies. The alternative before Mr. Grundy will be contempt proceedings, it was indicated tonight.

Today, instead of submitting the list promised two weeks ago when he asserted that States contributing little to the Federal Treasury should have little or nothing to say in the adoption of policies, particularly tariff policies, affecting the great industrial States which form the country's tax reservoir, Mr. Grundy presented another brief in support of his theory.

NEW BRIEF REJECTED

Senator Caraway of Arkansas fairly spluttered with anger as he riffed through the many pages of Grundy's brief and failing to find "the list of Senators, preferred, and Senators, common," tossed it back to the committee clerk.

"Mr. Grundy has submitted something here which is not acceptable," he declared. "Return it to him and direct him to be present tomorrow. We are not going to tolerate such a subterfuge as he seems inclined to indulge in."

Later the Arkansas Senator, chairman of the committee, asserted that after he has been warned of the consequences of a refusal or failure to comply with the committee's demand, Grundy will be given a list of the members of the Senate and will be ordered to check those Senators he believes should "talk darned small" in discussions of tariff or major policies.

In today's brief, Mr. Grundy reiterated and reinforced with additional statistics his denunciation of the "backward" States, but pointed out to the committee that he had been led reluctantly into a discussion of personalities which could have no possible bearing "on the committee's objective, namely, an investigation of asserted lobbying in Washington."

STATES COMPARED

He recalled to the committee that he had shown that his home State, Pennsylvania, is more of an agricultural State than Idaho, Arkansas, Montana, Wisconsin, Arizona, Mississippi and South Dakota, whose representatives in the Senate have been most vocal in their efforts to prevent industry from deriving any benefit from the pending tariff revision.

These same seven States, he pointed out, pay less than 2½ per cent of the total income tax, and there are twenty-two States, he added, whose total income tax payments do not come within $5,000,000 of that paid by Pennsylvania.

Those and similar comparisons which he made, justify, Mr. Grundy said in the brief, the conclusion that the "volume of voice in the Senate" were proportioned to population, productive power or the total sum contributed toward the national upkeep, "some of those States which are now most vocal would need amplifiers to make their whispers heard."

ALL WET BEES DEFY DRY LAW

Colony Makes Rum Honey With Mighty Kick

Sugar Warehouse Furnishes Unlawful Supplies

Owner Flooded With Orders for Dizzy Nectar

NORFOLK (Va.) Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—Because Mrs. Queen Bee displayed the customary wifely objection to having her husband come home under the influence of intoxicants, a swarm of several hundred honey bees raided the steel warehouse at the army base here, stole as much raw sugar as they pleased and filled their hives with the finest kind of "rum sugar."

The bees are the property of H. E. Eichelberger and the sugar, 60,000 tons of it, is the property of various New York speculators who are holding it in storage in hopes the tariff will be increased so they can make an additional profit without having to pay extra duty.

THE RUM HONEY

Mr. Eichelberger says he noticed his favorite Queen Bee having a quarrel with what he calls a King Bee. The latter appeared to be acting queer. The King Bee must have told where he found the stuff that gave him the queer feeling and right away the secret was spread among all the other bees, according to Eichelberger. They made a "bee line" for the sugar warehouse and kept carrying sugar back to their hives. In a few days, Mr. Eichelberger says they had made several hundred pounds of "rum honey."

"It has a kick like a mule and when I gave a friend a sample he ordered 200 pounds," said Mr. Eichelberger. "Now I have orders for more than 100,000 pounds. The bees are still making rum honey. I don't know whether the prohibition law can apply to my case. I am not making the honey. The bees are doing all the work for me. They appear to enjoy the 'kick' they get out of the honey and so does everybody who has tasted it."

CAN'T CLOSE BUILDING

The authorities at the army base are puzzled. They cannot keep a guard at the warehouse doors to keep out the bees. In fact, no one can be found who wants such a job. They cannot close the ventilators in the roof because that would spoil the sugar. So the bees can enter the building from several places and they are entering it in countless swarms.

Prohibition leaders here don't know how to stop the bees from making rum honey. The prohibition laws prohibit "any person" from manufacturing intoxicants but it does not say anything about bees. Bishop Cannon is in Brazil and there is no one in Virginia who can speak authoritatively on just what can be done.

Federal District Attorney Kaer says he does not know of any law that prevents bees from making honey and if it contains a kick the only one who can be punished is the person who sells it. Then a serious legal question will be involved as to who is responsible for the "kick."

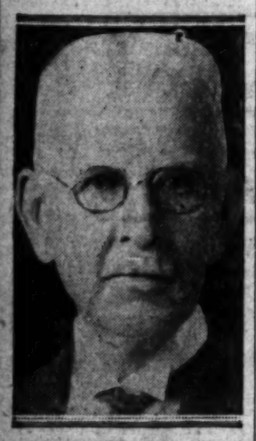
Pres. of Firm Indorses It in Highest Terms

When a business executive like David S. Beekman, President of the Beekman Steel Fence Co., of San Francisco and Oakland, lends his name and unqualified indorsement



DAVID S. BEEKMAN

to the new, scientific medicine, Sargon—there can be no earthly doubt of its real, genuine merit. Mr. Beekman is well known in railroad circles and the building trade, controlling several valuable patents on devices used by railroads and water companies. The steel products from his factory at Oakland are sold and distributed over the entire United States. He recently made the following statement:

"At the age of seventy-nine I am still active in business and I attribute my entire present good health, energy and vitality to the benefits I derived from Sargon. I actually believe this wonderful medicine has added years to my life.

"For the past five years my health had been failing steadily, and I had become subject to severe stomach and liver trouble. I didn't have much of an appetite and what little food I ate soured the moment it reached my stomach. I'd have indigestion for hours after meals. My nerves were all to pieces and I hardly knew what a sound night's sleep meant. Due to a sluggish liver, I was continually bothered with constination and bilious, dizzy spells and in spite of all the medicines I tried, I kept losing weight and getting weaker every day. I was afraid that I'd just have to give up my work and retire, which would have cost me thousands of dollars.

"Then I started the Sargon treatment and in a few weeks time I was feeling like a different man. I've taken six bottles altogether and if I have an ailment left I don't know what it is. My appetite is keen and I eat anything I want now, without the slightest indigestion or bad effects. I've gained seven pounds, which I certainly needed badly, and I feel as well and strong as I was twenty-five years ago. My liver is toned up in fine shape and constipation, biliousness and dizzy spells are a thing of the past. I enjoy sound sleep and go to my office in the mornings ready and fit for a real day's work. It's a pleasure to indorse this remarkable treatment."

The Sargon Man at the Owl Drug Store, 6th & Broadway, is meeting the public daily and telling just what this revolutionary new medicine means to weak, sick, debilitated men and women. He cites actual facts, for Sargon's great reputation is based on actual results accomplished; not empty promises. Sargon may be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—[Advertisement.

RAIL HEARING OPENS TODAY

Road Executives Gathered in San Francisco

Western Pacific Arrangement to be Presented

Construction of Oregon Line Involved

BY FLOYD J. HEALEY
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—More railroad executives than this city probably ever has seen grouped together for any one occasion are gathered here tonight for the opening hearing tomorrow in the most important steam line controversy on the Pacific Coast in modern times. Many of them will testify, for or against, the proposal of the Western Pacific and the Great Northern to unite their lines by new construction of approximately 200 miles in Southern Oregon and Northeastern California.

The group includes presidents, chairmen of boards of directors and executive committees, scads of vice-presidents, chiefs of legal staffs and schools of assistants, and a host of others who will act as witnesses or observers. The bulk of the brain brigade, of course, represents the Great Northern, Western Pacific and Southern Pacific. Interested listeners, however, are in the city from virtually every railroad in the West, several in the East, and at least one in Canada.

HEARINGS BEGIN

Surveys have simmered the Western Pacific-Great Northern application down to construction of eighty-eight miles of line by the Great Northern from Klamath Falls to Bieber, in Lassen county, seven miles from Lookout, and Western Pacific construction of eleven miles from Bieber to its own Feather River Canyon main line at Keddie. It is not unlikely the pending application of the Western Pacific California Railroad for the spanning of San Francisco Bay near Dumbarton and construction from Redwood City to San Francisco, will take a place in the hearing, because the completion of such a road, giving direct rail access to this city, now has become an integral part of the program.

The hearings will be conducted by Charles D. Mahaffie, director of the bureau of finance and chief of the staff of examiners for the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The proposed new line would pierce Plumas, Lassen, Modoc and Siskiyou counties in California and Klamath county in Oregon. The petitioners place the population of the area at 65,000 and say they will establish stations at Crescent Mills, Greenville, Westwood, Bieber, Lookout and Merrill. Westwood is the largest of these, with a population of 2600. It is on the Southern Pacific and Merrill is on the recently completed Klamath Falls-Alturas cutoff of the Southern Pacific, giving an idea how the proposed new line will approximate existing rails of the Southern Pacific.

EXCHANGE ESTIMATED

In the first year, it is estimated the interchange of traffic between the Great Northern and Western Pacific will be 32,378 carloads, 10,549 of which will be forest products and 7271 fresh fruits and vegetables. The McCloud River Railroad is expected to furnish 2829 carloads to the Western Pacific and 1155 carloads to the Great Northern. The line, a lumber road, has been purchased by the Western Pacific.

The Great Northern proposes to finance construction from current funds with the expectation it will be reimbursed later through sale of stock or bonds. The Western Pacific expects to finance its share by issuance and sale of $5,000,000 worth of 5 per cent debenture bonds or notes maturing in 1950 and will supply the balance from cash assets and the issuance of 5 per cent first mortgage bonds maturing in 1946.

NEVADA WILL PROTEST RAIL LINK

RENO, Nov. 12. (AP)—The Nevada Public Service Commission today announced that it would intervene at San Francisco tomorrow against the application of the Western Pacific and Great Northern Railroads for permission to build a connecting link from Keddie, Cal., to Klamath Falls, Or. The commission said it would take the position that the link from Keddie to Klamath Falls is not a public necessity, that it will give no advantages to shippers and that if constructed it will injure the State of Nevada. Nevada's objections will be presented by John F. Shaughnessy, chairman of the Nevada commission.

"In effect," said Shaughnessy today, "they are proposing to build another line into a territory that is now being adequately served by existing railroad lines, which have been built at great expense and which the public must support. The new road holds no promise of better service or lower rates. It would only reduce the revenues of existing lines and confer no substantial benefit in return. It would also have the certain result of diverting to the north a large amount of traffic that naturally should pass through Nevada."

BOY ADMITS HIS KILLING OF HUNTER

Lad Says He Took Shot at Tresspasser on Farm With .22 Caliber Rifle

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Nervousness displayed by 13-year-old Freddie Nette at school yesterday led to his arrest for questioning and later to his being held for the killing of a hunter on his father's land Sunday.

Statements by the boy led police to the back yard of the Nette farm, where they dug up the boy's .22-caliber rifle.

The baying of a hound over the body led to the discovery Sunday that Herman Ahsen, 19 years of age, had been killed.

"Yes, I shot him," the Nette boy was quoted by police as saying. "He was about 400 feet away and I didn't think I could hit him. He had no business on my father's land."

The father, Herman Nette, was booked for accessory to murder. He denied the son's statements that he had found the boy burying the gun and had instructed him what to say in case of arrest.

A New Home Treatment for Gland Trouble

Medical authorities agree that 65 per cent of all men past middle age (many much younger) are afflicted with a disorder of the prostate gland. Aches in feet, legs and back, frequent nightly risings, sciatic pains are some of the signs—and now a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science has written a remarkably interesting Free Book that tells of other symptoms and just what they mean. No longer should a man approaching or past the prime of life be content to regard these pains and conditions, as inevitable signs of approaching age. Already more than 50,000 men have used the amazing method described in this book to restore their health and vigor—and to restore the prostate gland to its proper functioning. Arrange immediately for this book. Call in person if possible, otherwise mail your request to The Electro Thermal Company, Dept. B-160, 303 Van Nuys Bldg., Los Angeles—the concern that is distributing this book for the author—it will be sent to you absolutely free, without obligation. Simply send name and address. The awards made today follow.

Literature, 1929, Thomas Mann, German novelist who wrote "Buddenbrooks" and "The Magic Mountain."

Physics, 1928, Prof. Owen W. Richardson of Kings College, London, discoverer of "Richardson's law" on the motion of electrons, which forms the basis of the radio tube.

Physics, 1929, the Duc De Broglie of Paris, a research worker in the fields of electricity and the X-ray.

Chemistry, 1929, divided between Dr. Arthur Harden, professor of biochemistry at London University, and Prof. Hans Von Euler-Chelpin of Upsala University, Sweden, in recognition of their researches in the fermentation of sugars and the enzyme action in the process. Von Euler-Chelpin is a German who has long been associated with Swedish universities.

PRIZE DIVIDED

The medicine prize for 1929 is divided between Dr. Frederick Gowland Hopkins, professor of biochemistry at the University of Cambridge, Eng., and Dr. C. Eijkmann of the University of Utrecht, Holland.

Englishmen have thus placed their country in the forefront by winning one full award and sharing in two others. The United States which has provided several earlier winners of the Nobel awards, has not taken one since 1927.

McManus Death Trial Delayed Due to Illness

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—The trial of George A. McManus for the murder of his gambler associate, Arnold Rothstein, was adjourned today until next Monday because of the illness of an important State witness.

The witness is Alvin Thomas, better known as "Titanic" Thompson, asserted to be one of the men with whom McManus and Rothstein played cards a few days before the shooting and where, it is said, Rothstein lost heavily to McManus.

One juror was sworn on motion of Defense Counsel D. C. Murray, after which Judge Nott announced adjournment.

STIMSON MAKES BUDGET APPEAL

Secretary in Personal Call on Bureau for Funds

Move Starts to Carry Out President's Wish

Strengthening Diplomatic Machinery Desired

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—The desirability of a heavy increase in funds for the State Department and American foreign service, in conformity with the desires of President Hoover for strengthening the American diplomatic machinery, has been placed before the Budget Bureau by Secretary Stimson.

In his Armistice Day address the President referred to the inadequacy of the present methods for the pacific settlement of international disputes and said strengthening of the State Department will be the first means taken by the United States to overcome the deficiency.

CALLS ON BUREAU

Secretary Stimson, accompanied by Wilbur J. Carr, assistant Secretary, in charge of administration, appealed personally to the Budget Bureau for additional funds. This was the first time that a Secretary of State has appeared before the bureau and the Secretary expects to appear before the House Appropriations Committee during the forthcoming hearings on the 1931 estimates.

The amount requested for the State Department has not been made public. The President and Mr. Stimson hope that approximately $2,500,000, requested in the two previous years in addition to the $14,744,831 granted, but refused by the Budget Bureau, will be provided in the coming appropriations.

IMPORTANT ITEM

More than $1,000,000 would be devoted to foreign service additions and promotions, rent allowances, so-called "representation funds," such as are provided to diplomats by the other principal powers, clerk hire in the foreign service and the replacement of some forty foreign service officers now temporarily assigned to the department by permanent officers.

From the viewpoint of the foreign service, the most important item would be the rent allowance, since the present program anticipates no increase in diplomatic salaries. Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Japan provide rent allowances for their diplomatic representatives of virtually all classes in virtually all posts.

PIEBALD ARMY UNIFORM GIVES WAY TO NEW KHAKI

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Promise of a smarter-looking army in the summertime was held out today in an order issued by the War Department for extensive service tests of a new khaki-colored cotton cloth.

The cotton uniforms now used by soldiers in warm weather and in the tropics have proved unsatisfactory because of the wide variety of shades the cloth takes on after a little wear.

The new cloth, developed to retain its shape without starch and mercerized for the sake of appearance, together with a new dye which is considered permanent, have demonstrated in laboratory tests that they overcome the old objections.

Maj.-Gen. William Lassiter, commanding the Eighth Corps Area, has been directed to designate four units serving in different parts of his command to receive uniforms of the new material for a year of constant wear. If it stands up under that test, it is expected to be adopted throughout the Army.

BRITISH STORM FATAL TO EIGHT

Shipping Resumes Its Way as Gale Abates

LONDON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Shipping driven to channel ports by the gale which lashed all Britain yesterday and last night resumed its way today. Linemen and road repairers worked under sunny skies to restore communications blown down and washed out by the storm.

Eight persons in Great Britain were killed through accidents and drowning before the gale moderated. Heroic work by Coast Guardsmen kept the death toll down. The crew of thirty of the Italian steamer Nimbo were brought ashore by a lifeline at New Haven.

Half-Ton Block of Terra Cotta Jars Wall Street

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—A half-ton block of terra cotta broke loose from a hoisting crane today and fell to the street through three floors of the seventy-story Bank of Manhattan Building, under construction, in Wall street.

The successive crashes as the big block tore its way through the roof of the building at the setback line and then through the succeeding floors before it broke clear, reverberated again and again through the narrow streets of the financial district and brought thousands rushing to windows, fearing a bombing.

Two persons, neither of whom was hit directly by the block, received injuries from falling debris.

NEVADA SEEKING ALL DAM POWER

Boulder Parley Startled by Strange Offer

Full Financing of Plan Also Promised

Right to Sell Share Until Needed Asserted

been placed in this sort of position." He threatened to have the Boulder Dam Act amended by Congress "to give Nevada a square deal."

Representative Swing countered with the suggestion that he might move for an amendment which would make it even more plain that a State was entitled to only such power from the project as it can use within its own borders.

All three Nevada spokesmen argued that Boulder Dam is the only source of power open to their State and that it must get its proper share if it is ever to develop its natural resources. Although Malone declared the State stood ready to contract for all the power, what he was really driving for was one-third. That is what Nevada has been demanding, as one of the three States directly involved in the project.

But moreover, Nevada demands that she be allowed to market her share of power, one-third or more of the entire output, outside the State until such time as she can use it herself. This is contrary to the spirit and wording of the legislation, according to everyone but Nevadans. Senator Pittman argued at length today that it was not, but the Interior Department so regards it and is not likely to yield on the point.

BENEFITS REHASHED

The benefits Los Angeles and Southern California are to receive out of Boulder Dam were rehashed in a manner reminiscent of the old debates in Congress, Senator Oddie being particularly vehement in denouncing an asserted inequitable apportionment in California's favor. He declared that it might be fifty years before the power allotted to the Metropolitan Water District was needed for pumping domestic water—that, in fact, its use for this purpose was "even more remote" than Nevada's ability to use it for industries and development of her resources. "We do not want to take anything away from California," he said. "We want her to prosper but the more industries we develop in Nevada the more money we will have to spend in California."

The Nevada contingent trotted out Colin Fink, professor of electrical chemistry at Columbia University, and he argued that the economic thing was to use as much of the power as possible right at the dam site, instead of transporting it hundreds of miles away. "It will not pay to transmit this power away from the dam," he said. "I feel that ultimately most of it will be used close at hand, but I would hate to see a mistake made at the start. The current you transmit power for a great distance up goes the price. The industries of the country are in need of cheap power and if Nevada can invite industries at $15 per horsepower year it will not be long before all the Boulder Dam power will be gobbled up right at the dam."

He cited a long list of minerals in Nevada which would lead, in his opinion, to industrial development.

Representative Sam Arentz joined the Nevada brigade. He said that Nevada was entitled to a third of the power and should be given fifty years, if necessary, to absorb it.

Arents declared that the 25 cents per acre foot the government proposed to charge the Metropolitan Water District for stored water was "much too low." A charge of $1 would be "fair and moderate," he said.

Malone presented reports purporting to show that "within a reasonable time" Nevada could use 483,000 horsepower, or more than four-fifths of all the power to be generated at the dam. He mentioned the Union Carbide Company as one of a number of large industries which possibly would come into the State if they could get Boulder Dam power.

Nevada alone pointed out, is the sixth largest State in area but the last among the forty-eight in taxable property. He admitted it was one of the "backward States" as so classified by Joseph R. Grundy, of the tariff lobby, and declared this is a reason the Federal government should be interested in its development. He said that Boulder Dam is the sole source of power for the State and unless Nevada is given advantage of this project its natural resources, remaining undeveloped after sixty-five years of Statehood, "will forever lie dormant." California, on the other hand, has almost unlimited sources of power, according to Malone, and could go along unretarded whether it got power from Boulder Dam or not.

URGES PRICE BOOST

Malone suggested that the price for Boulder Dam power be boosted to 1.75 mills per kilowatt hour, instead of the Wilbur figure of 1.63, saying this would make a fair price and at the same time produce something like $700,000 in additional annual revenues. He said Nevada was ready to take all the power she can get at the higher figure.

Malone said that Gov. Balmer of Nevada was en route to Washington by airplane to back him up in his statement that Nevada would present a gilt-edged contract, as soon as its Legislature had time to act, for all or any part of Boulder Dam power. He said the State had two plans, one contemplating State bonds to underwrite the project; the other formation of a quasi-private corporation. In either event, he declared, Nevada would prepare herself and put up a bond and a certified check in plenty of time to fulfil all the government's demands for speed.

The proposal that Nevada, whose total power load is now only about 50,000 horsepower, contract for all the power was received with concealed smiles everywhere in Boulder Dam circles, but there was no doubting Malone's sincerity in offering it. He sees an unprecedented industrial expansion opening up in his State. And, of course, it was borne in mind that what he was aiming at, after all, was to make solid the Nevada claim to one-third of the power, and on deferred responsibility, at that.

Representative Swing, in addition to putting in power bids for four cities in his district, also suggested a modification of the Interior Department program so that the Southern California Edison Company would have but one representative instead of two, on the board in charge of the power plant and transmission lines. He thought that the Metropolitan Water District was entitled to two representatives and Los Angeles one with one from the private company and one sitting for the government. This brought from Secretary Wilbur the statement that it should be understood that "this is to be a technical operating board, and not one to pass on policies or contracts." Swing said he realizes this, but is of the opinion the public agencies are entitled to greater representation than the power companies.

LOS ANGELES DEMANDS

The demand that the city of Los Angeles, supported by the Metropolitan Water District and other municipalities in Southern California, be given sole operating control of the transmission lines from Boulder Dam was presented by W. B. Matthews, counsel for the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power, and the water district. He declared that the city was the logical operating agency, and that the Southern California Edison Company was in the position of a "passenger on a steamship" who had been taken aboard through courtesy on a public project and who has "no occasion to go into the engine-room."

He contended that the project is primarily one for the public and that the Edison company and other private power companies should be given secondary consideration.

Mr. Matthews said he had four main points of protest to present on behalf of Los Angeles and the water district, but he had gotten only to this first one when adjournment was taken until tomorrow. It is understood that one of the others is the demand that the government equip and operate the power plant. This is ardently desired by the city and district representatives because, for one thing, it would reduce by nearly $20,000,000 the capital outlay they must raise by bond issues before they can take advantage of the Colorado River project. Altogether the amount that must be voted by the taxpayers of the city and district will amount to upward of $250,000,000—all but about $50,000,000 of which will fall on the city.

NEW YORK GRANTS PLEA FOR SOFTER PARK SEATS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (Exclusive) The campaign that certain gentlemen of no importance but of leisure have been waging for many, many years, is about to bear fruit. The nice old department of parks is going to make the park benches softer. Not only that—easier to lie down on.

It seems that the park department has been trying out the new type of bench on such particular customers as patronize the ones on Fifth avenue and Riverside Drive, and has heard nothing but peans of praise. Such appreciation has encouraged the department to go ahead and by the time the park bench sleeping season gets well under way next spring the old back-breaking benches will be pretty well abandoned in favor of the softer ones.

COAST DEFENSE NEEDS OUTLINED

Artillery Chief Reports on Present Difficulties

Lack of Funds for Proposed Improvements Cited

Antiaircraft Betterments Detailed to Good

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Difficulties encountered through lack of funds in carrying out proposed improvements, changes and projects of the Coast Artillery were outlined today by Maj.-Gen. Andrew Hero, Jr., chief of that service, in his annual report to Secretary Good.

In this connection, he cited the "program for modernization of our most important harbor defenses which was approved in 1919," and the situation of antiaircraft defense.

FUNDS LACKING

"Attempt has been made," he said, "to establish a reasonable program for antiaircraft defence and estimates have been made to this end. The funds for the accomplishment of these projects have been lacking.

"The situation in overseas garrisons is somewhat better than in the continental United States. It is hoped to have the fire-control installations for the sixteen-inch batteries on the Pacific side of the Panama Canal completed with money now in prospect. In Hawaii, the installation for battery Williston (sixteen-inch rifles) will not be completed for some years on the basis of present appropriations."

PROGRESS REPORTED

He reported progress in the development of sound-ranging devices for detection of targets under water, in the air and on land, in some weapons and in training and gunnery practice, but asserted:

"The condition of material in harbor defenses, especially fire-control installations, has shown no marked improvement . . . This equipment continues to evidence a progressive deterioration due to the lack of sufficient personnel and funds to exercise, test, maintain and repair it.

ANTIAIRCRAFT BETTER

"For the fiscal year 1931, funds for the partial rehabilitation of this material are in prospect, but only at the expense of new construction which is urgently needed for the completion of new sixteen-inch batteries."

Presenting another aspect of the situation, he said, "Marked progress has been made in developing, testing and standardizing new antiaircraft equipment" and its efficiency "greatly exceeds that of the material now issued to our regular army antiaircraft organizations."

MESSAGES OF MISSING GIRL FOUND

Anna Koziner Declared to Have Been Writing Notes to Silver City for Year

SILVER CITY (N. M.) Nov. 12. (AP)—Isabel Eaton, Silver City girl, told Chief of Police Casey today that she has been corresponding with Anna Koziner, missing New York girl, for more than a year, but she does not know where the girl is.

Miss Eaton says she made a contact with Miss Koziner originally through an anonymous "cupid's column" in some magazine, and that they had written to each other regularly.

Several days ago Miss Eaton received a letter from the Koziner girl dated New York, the 1st inst.

The New York girl opened the letter with an apology for not having written sooner, but said she was injured in a motorcycle wreck while going to Somers, N. Y., and had been in a hospital.

The letter said the Koziner girl had just gotten out of the hospital and that she had met Carl McClurg, a rodeo star from Hachita, N. M.; Red McCain of Elko, Nev., and Blackie Russell of Vega, Tex., two other rodeo performers.

The letter did not give any future plans for Miss Koziner.

Argentina Riot Dead Now Three; Twenty Injured

MENDOZA (Argentina) Nov. 12. (AP)—Three persons have died and a fourth is dying as a consequence of rioting growing out of the assassination of Dr. Carlos Washington Lencinas, Mendoza political boss, and bitter foe of President Irigoyen, Sunday evening, last. Twenty-one were injured. Among the dead is Jose Caceres, believed by police to have been the assassin of Dr. Lencinas.

The city is under a modified martial law. Newspapers condemn the shooting as a politically inspired plot to remove a powerful enemy of the President.

Dr. Lencinas was shot while addressing a crowd of 5000.

"LITTLE COLONEL" PICKED BY CADETS

Adela Hale

KANSAS CITY (Kan.) Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—The cadet corps of the University of Kansas military unit today has a new "Little Colonel." She is Miss Adela Hale, and this title automatically gives her the additional honor of presiding as queen of the military ball, one of the campus's leading social events. The "Little Colonel" will have charge of the esprit de corps of the battalion and all that sort of thing. But how the cadets are going to keep their "eyes right" when the "Little Colonel" stands "front and center" is just something else.

MOTORIST PUMMELED BY WOMEN

Angry Mob Threatens Him as Auto Runs Down Two Girls, Killing One

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Two hundred women today threatened the driver of an automobile which had run down two little girls in Brooklyn, causing injuries from which one of them died.

The girls, Anna Horowitz and Corrine Singer, were on the sidewalk throwing kisses to Corrine's mother in an apartment window above when the car of Joachim Lieberman, out of control, jumped the curb and ran into them.

The screams of other children brought 200 women pouring from adjacent apartment-houses. Shrieking "Murderer" at Lieberman they dragged him from his wrecked machine and were kicking and pummeling him when a policeman appeared. Drawing his revolver the officer forced the women back and took his prisoner to a police station where he is held on a charge of homicide.

The Horowitz girl, 10 years of age, died in a hospital. The Singer girl is not expected to live.

Merwin was found guilty of second-degree murder, the jury also returning a verdict he was insane at the time of the murder.

ARMENIAN ACTOR DIES IN "TALKIE" ACCIDENT

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 12. (AP) The filming yesterday of the first Turkish talkie produced the first serious accident in the Turkish film world. An Armenian actor was killed and three of the other actor-smugglers were injured seriously.

CHINESE REBELS SUFFER DEFEAT

Losses at Mihsien Set at 10,000 on Each Side

Kuominchun Forces Driven Far to Westward

Entrenchments Being Built to Defend City

SHANGHAI, Nov. 12. (AP)—With unverified estimated losses of 10,000 killed on each side, Japanese press dispatches from Hankow stated today that Nationalist government troops defeated the Kuominchun "people's army" in the battle of Mihsien and have driven the rebels twenty-five miles westward to Tengfeng, Honan Province.

The Nationalists are said to have suffered heavily in expelling the Kuominchun forces from Mihsien, but after receiving reinforcements began preparing for another battle with the rebel army at Tengfeng.

The Kuominchun troops, numbering 100,000, said the dispatches, are building entrenchments around Tengfeng and preparing to defend the city. Aided by the terrain the rebels are expected to make a strong fight against the government army led by Chiang Kai-shek, the Nationalist commander-in-chief.

Severity of the fighting was indicated by the arrival of 1000 Nationalist wounded at Hankow and the internment of 1000 Kuominchun prisoners at Wuchang. Two ships loaded with wounded Nationalists are reported to have reached Woosung, near this city.

Thus far the Nationalists have been successful in preventing the Kuominchun rebels from seizing the Kinhan Railway in Honan Province in their reported plan to capture Hankow, chief port of Central China on the Yangtse River.

SHIPPING BOARD CHANGES LIKELY

O'Connor to Step Down as Merchant Fleet Head

Commissioner Denton May be Named Successor

Set-up of Dalton Regime Believed Possible

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—What may result in a reorganization of the Shipping Board is indicated in the request of Chairman O'Connor to President Hoover that he be relieved of his duties as president of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, which place he has held since October 19, 1927. He has held this place while at the same time chairman of the United States Shipping Board. In asking to be relieved of the fleet corporation post he submitted four names as candidates to succeed him, but it is believed that President Hoover will name his own man for the post and Commissioner Denton of the Shipping Board is mentioned as a likely choice.

In confirming his action in asking the President to relieve him of the merchant fleet presidency, Chairman O'Connor declared he has no thought of quitting the chairmanship of the Shipping Board.

The date of his retirement from the fleet corporation presidency is contingent upon the time when President Hoover selects a successor.

This expected reorganization of the Shipping Board may take the shape of returning to the same set-up that was in operation during the regime of Brig.-Gen. A. C. Dalton. At the time O'Connor supplanted Dalton as president; the Fleet Corporation was administered separately from the Shipping Board, with its own trustees. Under the present arrangement the seven members of the Shipping Board serve as trustees of the fleet corporation. O'Connor and other fleet corporation officials are of the opinion that the ship operating agency should be divorced as much as possible from the jurisdiction of the Shipping Board.

NEW AILMENT BALKS MEDICOS

So-called Radium Disease Hereditary

Mrs. Ethelwynne Metz and Her Son

NEWARK (N. J.) Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—Medical science today is puzzled over a new disease, which has assumed added proportions inasmuch as it is suspected of being hereditary. It is called by some members of the profession, radium disease, and pronounced incurable.

Mrs. Ethelwynne Metz of this city some time ago filed suit against United States Radium Corporation in which she asserts she contracted the disease while placing a composition on the dials of watches for the purpose of illuminating the figures. Now another suit has been filed in the name of Mrs. Metz's 6-year-old son, Edward, who, doctors say, has the disease, which he inherited from his mother.

A similar case has come up with regard to another woman employee of the corporation and has presented unusual points for the court to decide.

Meanwhile, members of the medical profession have become more interested in the disease, caused by assimilating the so-called radium, which, they say, disintegrates the bones and tissues. Now that it shows signs of being inherited, doctors fear that a new disease has come into the world, which can not be eradicated.

GRAVEYARD'S GLOOM GOING

Modern Cemetery Visioned as Sprightly Spot in Memorial Park Proponents' Prospectus

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—How to persuade the public that it is much better to be buried in a snappy up-to-date memorial park rather than an old-fashioned, mournful cemetery or graveyard was the subject up for discussion today among thirty-six memorial park enthusiasts meeting in convention.

It was the first day of the two-day meeting of the National Memorial Parks Association in its first convention. Its purpose, said its president, Cyrus A. Cook, Detroit, is two-fold—for the members to get acquainted with each other and to get together on the best way to merchandise memorial park property, or, to put it crudely, to sell burial lots.

"There are at present 306 memorial parks in the United States," Mr. Cook said, "but many are just being organized. It is a new idea—strictly modern. The idea is to make a graveyard a more cheerful spot. A memorial park has no tombstones."

Instead, the memorial park has neat little bronze tablets at the head of each grave, the tablets being no higher than the trimly clipped grass. In addition statuary is placed at appropriate distances throughout the well-appointed park.

"The old-time cemetery has that mournful atmosphere which is so extremely depressing," the association's secretary, W. F. Therkildser of Detroit, said in an address. "No wonder there is neglect of graves in those cemeteries. Who can justly censure this seeming neglect, this lack of enthusiasm?"

The memorial park owners would put the whole matter of dying and being buried on an efficiency basis, well ordered and dignified, but, in a fashion, sprightly.

Methodist Board Predicts Native Chinese Bishop

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—Members of the board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in convention session here, predicted today the first native Chinese bishop of the church probably will be created soon. The step toward self-management of the ecclesiastical affairs is declared a natural result of developing conditions.

Meanwhile, Bishop J. L. Nuelsen of Zurich, Switzerland, has been notified to proceed to China because of the illness of two prelates already there. Senior Bishop William F. McDowell of Washington, D. C., was elected a fraternal delegate to the Zurich conference next spring. Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf of Kansas City was given an assignment of Episcopal visitation to South America and Bishop Charles L. Mead of Denver a similar assignment to Mexico.

Furnace Blast Injures Eleven

ELMWOOD (Wis.) Nov. 12. (AP)—Eleven men were burned, two seriously, by a midnight explosion of a gas-filled furnace at the American Legion Auditorium last night. Five hundred dancers on an upper floor were thrown into temporary panic.

The furnace-room door was hurled thirty feet and the blast shattered all the windows.

VIRGINIA VOTE REGRETTED

Bishop Cannon Declares "Raskobian Liberalism Versus Southern Democracy" Still Party Issue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—In his first statement to the press since the Virginia gubernatorial election, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, cabled from Montevideo, Uruguay, today that while he regretted the decision of the voters, "Raskobian Liberalism versus Southern Democracy still remains the outstanding Democratic party issue."

Cannon supported William Moseley Brown, the candidate of the Republican anti-Smith Democratic coalition, against John Garland Pollard, the regular Democratic candidate. Pollard won by approximately 70,000 votes.

Commenting on a post-election statement of Pollard that his victory was "neither an approval nor a disapproval of Gov. Smith and Mr. Raskob," Cannon said, "the vote indicates that many thousands of dry Virginians disagree with the importance of emphasizing national issues in State elections."

"I regret that decision," the bishop added, "but prohibition warfare will continue with unabated vigor. Raskobian liberalism versus southern Democracy still remains the outstanding Democratic party issue, accentuated by the recent triumph of Tammany's graft, night clubs, speakeasies and Harlem.

"I shall be glad if the dry Pollard supporters are sufficiently influential to obtain Virginia's insistent demand for the elimination of the Raskob control, but I think the Virginia election will encourage the wet press to make it more difficult to overthrow the domination of Raskobian liberalism, continuance of which means continued Democratic national defeat and disintegration."

BONDING FOR ROAD WORK ADVOCATED

State Highway Officers in Annual Session Hear Government Leader

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Issuance of bonds for highway construction, rather than adoption of the policy of "pay as you go," will brings to the States quicker and permanent realization of their dreams of connected highway systems, members of the American Association of State Highway Officials, meeting here in fifteenth annual convention, were told today.

The bond-issue plan was advocated strongly in an address by Thomas H. MacDonald of Washington, D. C., chief of the Bureau of Public Roads.

Other speakers charged that the Federal government is falling far short of its duty in providing funds to the States for Federal-aid projects.

Legislation by Congress to place the interstate motor vehicle passenger and freight lines under control of some agency, and to regulate tolls on bridges constructed across navigable streams, was advocated by C. P. Fortney of Charleston, W. Va., president of the association, in his annual address.

Fortney declared that the States should "insist that future authorizations from the Federal Treasury be considerably larger than they have been in the past."

RADIO OFFERED NEW CHANNELS

Expert Points Relief Means by Closer Spacing

Commission Hears Caldwell's Plan With Interest

Repeal of Equalization Law Sequence of Scheme

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—Ten more cleared channels, made available by narrowing the spacing between regional and local wave lengths, have been proposed to the Federal Radio Commission as the scientific expedient whereby it can grant better operating conditions to large and important broadcasting stations now obliged to share time because of the territorial equalization restriction and the shortage of radio channels.

The proposition was laid before the commission by its former general counsel, Louis G. Caldwell, representing stations WTIC, Hartford; WBAL, Baltimore; WHO, Des Moines; WOC, Davenport, Iowa; KRLD, Dallas, and WAPI, Birmingham. It resulted from a conference here at which the following stations also were represented: WBBM and WENR, Chicago; WFBM, Indianapolis; WGY, Schenectady.

CONGRESSMEN ATTEND

Mr. Caldwell's suggestions were heard at an informal session of the commission which was attended by representatives of the stations and by members of Congress from sections where stations have been adversely affected by the radio reallocation of a year ago. Called at the suggestion of Senators Goldsborough and Tydings of Maryland, the meeting was attended also by Senator Brookhart of Iowa, Representative Palisano of Maryland, Representative Ramseyer of Iowa, and Representative Oliver of Alabama.

The stations involved are almost all on cleared channels which they use only part of the time, with the resultant loss of their programs to the listeners in their areas. More cleared channels, presumably, would make it possible to give them full-time operation. It was on behalf of what Mr. Caldwell called "an idea" that he appeared Monday to suggest ways and means for making the additional channels available.

CALDWELL'S PROPOSAL

He proposed—and his views on the scientific feasibility of the scheme were supported by John V. L. Hogan, consulting radio engineer—that the forty channels now cleared for high-powered broadcasting under the radio reallocation of 1928 be increased to fifty by narrowing the present ten-kilocycle spacing between regional and local channels to seven and one-half kilocycles.

First, he suggested, the commission should bunch all the cleared channels in the band from 550 to 1190 cycles (252 to 545 meters,) retaining the ten-kilocycle spacing between them. Then, he added, the regional and local channels should be grouped in the band from 1200 to 1500 kilocycles (too to 250 meters,) with a separation of seven and one-half kilocycles between them.

CHANNELS INCREASED

Mr. Caldwell pointed out that where the commission now has forty cleared, forty-four regional and six local channels it would, under the new scheme, have fifty cleared forty-four regional and six local. In other words, the number of wave lengths would be increased from ninety to 100.

Properly separated geographically, the regional stations, which have medium power, and the local stations, which use very low power, should not interfere with each other and would suffer no ill effects from high-powered stations, Mr. Caldwell said. In order to accomplish this geographical spacing he pointed out that the equalization amendment fixing an equal distribution of wave lengths, power and hours among the zones and States would have to be repealed or changed.

EUROPE CITED

In support of his plan Mr. Caldwell pointed out that nine kilocycle separations have been fixed in Europe, where Russian broadcasting stations operate at spacings of four and one-half kilocycles between other European stations. Moreover he asserted, the plan makes it possible to deal with Canada under more favorable conditions when the Canadians make their inevitable demand for more wave lengths. Canada now uses six exclusive channels and shares time on twelve others with this country.

That the scheme impressed the commission was quite evident, for it offers one way out of the major dilemma that has grown out of the reallocation of November, 1928, under which many stations were forced to remain off the air to avoid interference while others used their wave lengths. Otherwise, Mr. Caldwell stated before the gathering, the reallocation has undoubtedly worked a decided improvement in radio reception conditions throughout the United States.

CURWOOD'S DIVORCED WIFE SHOT

Mystery Cloaks Florida Affair in Which Man Also Wounds Himself

ORLANDO (Fla.) Nov. 12. (AP)—Mrs. Cora Leon Eden, divorced wife of the late James Oliver Curwood, the author, was shot and wounded seriously here late today by R. C. Patton, 50 years of age, of Lima, O. Patton, after shooting Mrs. Eden through the mouth, shot himself and is believed in a dying condition at a hospital.

The cause of the double shooting was not learned. Patton, who travels for a Brooklyn metal company, said he went to Mrs. Eden's home today and that she ordered him off the premises by flourishing a pistol. Patton told officers that when he saw the weapon in Mrs. Eden's hand he drew his own pistol and shot her. Mrs. Eden could not make a statement.

CHINA PLANS OFFENSIVE

Japanese Military Mission Reports Preparations for Drive Into Red Territory

(Copyright, 1929, by the Chicago Tribune.)

HARBIN, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—The Japanese military mission to North Manchuria which has been under the leadership of Col. Savada, is responsible for a sensational report here today that the Chinese are fed up on trying to observe the letter and spirit of the Kellogg pact which has restrained the Chinese but has permitted unrestricted soviet aggression, and have decided to launch an offensive military move into Russian territory.

The Japanese spokesman declared that the Chinese secretly are preparing an offensive, probably in the direction of Vladivostok, the Chinese object being to rectify the so-called wrongs of the treaty of 1860 whereby Russia gained control of the territory from the Usuri River to the Pacific which includes most of the present soviet Russia maritime province.

When the Chinese offensive is likely to develop was not stated, but the Japanese spokesman asserted that it is a fact as evidenced by the continued massing of Chinese troops here as well as along the eastern branch of the Chinese Eastern Railway, including large quantities of munitions and heavy artillery which have been purchased abroad and recently delivered.

FRIENDSHIP GROUP HITS MILITARISM

Army Training in Public Schools Opposed and New Japanese Treaty Urged

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Nov. 12. (AP) The congress of the World Alliance for International Friendship adjourned here tonight after expressing opposition to all military training in public schools and compulsory military training in institutions of higher learning, and re-elected President William P. Merrill of New York and all other officers.

Resolutions requesting the United States government to recognize the government of soviet Russia and ratify the Pan-American arbitration treaty were referred to the executive committee.

The alliance adopted the report of the committee on messages and recommendations which praised the Kellogg-Briand pact, approved the declaration of President Hoover and Premier MacDonald in accepting the Paris peace pact and urged a new treaty on the Japanese immigration question.

The report declared that from the Shearer case it is "abundantly evident that a part of that influence in our country which fosters international ill-will and suspicion proceeds from selfish and sinister interests."

QUIZ AIMED AT SUSPECT FRUITLESS

"Third Degree" Fails to Shake Woman's Story of Children's Deaths

CAMDEN (N. J.) Nov. 12. (AP)—Long and intensive questioning of Gladys May Parks, also known as Mrs. Baker, and by a number of other names, charged with the killing of one child and under suspicion of doing away with another, apparently has failed to break down her story that the children died by accident.

Today the prisoner, who is 35 years of age, passed through an ordeal similar to that of yesterday, when she was compelled to point out the shallow graves at Absecon, near Atlantic City, and at National Park, four miles south of here, where she buried the children.

Soon after she was given her breakfast the woman, who remains calm under the heavy fire of questions by prosecutor and detectives, was taken to the house where Dorothey Rogers, 4, died, and then to the dwelling where Timothy Rogers, 2, died.

At both places the prisoner was confronted by crowds, among them many neighbors she knew, and had to listen to wrathful remarks aimed at her. She showed no concern.

Tunney Defense Looks Into Past Life of Divorcee

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—The affections of Katherine King Fogarty, brunette divorcee, appraised at $500,000 in her divorced husband's alienation suit against Gene Tunney, were in demand by a variety of other men Tunney's attorneys revealed here today.

Several persons who made depositions swore that Mrs. Fogarty both before and during her marriage kept love trysts with various men in the homes of friends.

It is clear, from the number of witnesses summoned by attorneys for the ex-champion of heavyweights, that Tunney, now married to the former Polly Lauder, heiress to millions, does not intend to spare the character of Mrs. Fogarty, no matter how deeply attacks on her character may cut.

WOMAN DIES BY BULLETS OF CONVICT

Fugitive's Shots at Police Kills Wife Wheeling Baby; Fleeing Man Wounded

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—George Small, one of four convicts who escaped from Auburn prison during a revolt of 1700 convicts last July, was shot and seriously wounded today by a Brooklyn policeman after bullets fired by Small at the policeman had killed Mrs. Ruth Semmer, 30 years of age, as she was wheeling her baby in a carriage on the sidewalk. At Brooklyn Hospital, Small is said to be in a critical condition.

The shooting followed an attempt by Small and a companion to hold up a garage. One of the garage men called a policeman and the two robbers fled. Small commandeered an automobile and ordered the owner to drive away. Police in commandeered automobiles followed.

The pursuit continued for two miles through Brooklyn streets, the police and Small exchanging shots intermittently. Intercepted by Patrolman Fisher, Small jumped from the car and fired at the patrolman, aiming unsteadily. A woman was heard to scream and a crowd of women shoppers saw Mrs. Sutner fall. She was dead when an ambulance surgeon arrived.

BANDITS IN CHINA FREE NEW YORKER

Furrier Released After Five Days of Captivity; Huge Ransom Demanded

TIEN-TSIN (China) Nov. 13. (Wednesday) (AP)—Aaron Brenner, New York furrier, who had been kidnaped and held for high ransom for nearly a week, was released this morning.

Brenner is a member of Brenner Brothers of New York and has been in China several years. He was kidnaped Thursday afternoon, last, by a band said by the police to be Russian refugees from Harbin.

They communicated frequently by telephone with the authorities, demanding $250,000 (gold) for release of their captive. Brenner was permitted to send letters to his brother Joseph, who also is in Tientsin, and in these he said that his captors had threatened him with death if the ransom were not forthcoming or if information of his plight were given to the police or newspapers.

Hyde Advocates Dairy Monopoly

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 12. (AP)—Continued stability of the dairy industry in the United States requires complete possession of domestic markets and to that end should be protected by an adequate tariff, Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, declared in an address here tonight.

Speaking before the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation, in convention here, Secretary Hyde declared that both the American dairy market and the industry are expanding, but that they require protection which will guarantee to the American dairymen the American market.

COUNTRY SLIPS ON BANANA TAX

Costa Rica's Levy Backfires, Threatening Trade

Congress in Special Session to Allay Crisis

(Copyright, 1929, Chicago Tribune.)

SAN JOSE (Costa Rica) Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—The Congress of Costa Rica is now in special session in an effort to allay a crisis arising out of a recently-passed law placing a tax of 3 cents a bunch on bananas, because the United Fruit Company, the chief export medium of the country, threatens to discontinue trade with Costa Rica, an event which would ruin the country's second industry.

The law set October 30, the day on which the United Fruit Company's agreement with the government expired, as the date on which the tax was to take effect. The fruit company retaliated by suspending new plantings on the island and refusing to renew contracts with the independent growers, finding it preferable to open new fields in Guatemala, Honduras and Panama.

Limon, the only port of Costa Rica on the Caribbean, is a United Fruit Company town. The docks are owned by the company, the railway from the capital to the port is operated by the company, and 95 per cent of the town's population is employed by the company. Practically the only ships touching the port are those of the United Fruit Company, the lines running to New York, New Orleans and to England.

The fruit company which suspended some of the lines owing to a shortage of bananas, now plans to suspend the line to New Orleans, which would leave the country with practically no outlet for this highly perishable product.

BERLIN MAYOR GIVEN SLIGHT

Authorities Remove Picture of Recent Los Angeles Visitor From City Hall

BERLIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—City authorities today removed an oil painting of Lord Mayor Boess which hung in the City Hall and substituted a portrait of Kaiser William I, represented as riding his charger into Valhalla.

Since the Lord Mayor has become involved in the scandal growing out of revelations of asserted corruption in letting municipal contracts a heated argument has been waged about the propriety of the picture in the municipal quarters.

Hawaiian Youth to Die Tuesday for Killing Boy

HONOLULU, Nov. 12. (AP)—Myles Yutaka Fukunaga, 19-year-old slayer of Gill Jamieson, 10, son of a prominent Honolulu banker, must hang next Tuesday, Gov. Judd decreed today in signing the death warrant for the Japanese.

In placing his signature Gov. Judd characterized the kidnaping and subsequent killing in September, 1928, as "a dastardly crime, well planned and executed with exceptional brutality."

Fukunaga won several reprieves by appeals which finally were carried to the United States Supreme Court. That body recently refused to review the case.

WORK AGENCIES GET HUGE SUMS

Those in California Charged $2,000,000 Last Year

Employment Units in State Reach Total of 325

Enormous Fees Declared to be Taken in by Some

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—California employment agencies, 325 in number, collected in fees last year about $2,000,000, Dr. Louis Bloch, statistician for the State Division of Labor, estimated in a report made public today. He said some agencies make from $30,000 to $40,000 a year net. Dr. Bloch said:

"A year's gross profits of teachers' agencies was 46 per cent in Los Angeles, 41 per cent in Berkeley, and 44 per cent in all other California cities. The manager of an agency gets about 26 per cent of the money. Teachers' agencies charge about 70 per cent of the first month's pay or from 5 to 7 per cent of the first year's salary. Theatrical agencies charge 10 per cent of each day's pay, regardless of the length of the job.

"Some labor or employment agencies charge 20 per cent of the first month's wage for getting a job for an applicant, if the worker pays cash, or 50 per cent if the fee is paid in installments. Most employers prefer to deal with agencies charging a low fee. Some agencies announce their 20 per cent fee but make no mention of the 33 per cent rate. Thus the applicant who most needs the job and has the least money pays the largest fee.

"Employment agencies can charge any fee they desire, but must post on the walls a schedule of charges. An agency may not be operated in connection with a cafe, pool hall or place where liquor is sold."

Studio Managers Planning Extensive Programs

Wagnerian Music Will be on KHJ Tonight

Special Tribute to Sousa Evening Feature

The Times Forum, KHJ, 10:30 a.m. will present Fred Hogue, staff writer of The Times, in his fourth talk regarding conditions in the Orient. His topic today will be "Chosen, Korea."

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Studio managers, program directors, continuity writers and musical directors of the local broadcasting stations are wading into snowdrifts of preparations for the Christmas season and promise the finest standard of holiday musical presentations in the history of local radio.

"Santa Claus sent us a radio from the North Pole to get busy and we are going to give the merry old boy a real jingle this year," said Raymond Paige, musical director of KHJ, yesterday.

With the Don Lee Symphony of twenty-five trained musicians and a staff of twenty vocalists, Mr. Paige is in a position to respond.

"The radio message explained that Santa Claus will have to step lively to visit all the broadcast stations of the nation this year, but that it is a wonderful way of reaching the people and checking in on all the children before they turn in at night," added Paige

WAGNERIAN TREAT

Dial to KHJ at 5 o'clock this evening for thirty minutes of Wagnerian music to be presented by the Columbia Grand Opera group in the New York studios of the Columbia Broadcasting Company. You will hear the playing of the Versplel from "Lohengrin;" a mixed chorus will sing selections from "Tristan and Isolde," and then the orchestra will give the introduction to Act III. "Die Meistersinger" and introduction of Act III of "Lohengrin."

John Philip Sousa, America's march king, will be the hero of a program to be sent over the Don Lee chain at 8 p.m. An attempt is to be made to bring out the unusually varied and interesting nature of the famous band leader's life in a continuity prepared by Lindsay MacHarrie, which will present opera, waltzes and marches.

SCREEN FEATURE

This program will be followed by dramatic episodes from the M.-G.-M. rah-rah feature, "Be This Is College," a picture which finds its climax in the University of Southern California-Stanford football game of 1928. But a minute left to play—U. S. C. trailing by one point—our hero snags a forward pass out of the air—he's away—he's away and so forth. On the program tonight, such bits from the "talkie" as the U. S. C. rally before the game, moments of the game itself, a love scene and some campus capers will be presented. Sam Wood, director, will speak. Principals of the cast, who will handle roles before the microphone include Sally Star, Bob Montgomery, Elliot Nugent and Cliff Edwards. College songs and hits from the picture are to be sung and played by Ukulele Ike and the KHJ staff.

Three attractive half-hour programs from KFI tonight commencing at 8:30 o'clock will include Eva Olivotti and James Burroughs in the "Comic Opera Album" with Prior Moore's orchestra; Paul Roberts and the Schonberger Trio and the Paul Taylor Metropolitans.

KFWB will endeavor to give a substitute for the eternal "studio frolic" at 8:30 p.m. by presenting what they term a "Gang Musical." It is to be a thoroughly rehearsed program, with a plot, music, singing and a smattering of jokes.

NEON UNIT MERGER STILL IN ABEYANCE

At the directors' meeting of the Electrical Products Corporation of Washington, recently held in Seattle, no definite steps were taken regarding a consolidation with Claude Neon Electrical Products Corporation of Delaware, officials stated yesterday. The findings report of the northern unit for the nine months will be delayed owing to a change in the accounting system, it was stated. Paul D. Howse, president of the Delaware company, stated at Portland that negotiations between the two companies are proceeding satisfactorily.

KANSANS TO HEAR INDIANS

Kansans are promised Indian dances and songs for the program of their rally tomorrow night in Veterans' Hall, 248 South Hill street. FITTS ANSWERS MRS. M'PHERSON

Says Temple Investigation Will Continue

Pastor Demands Indictment or Exoneration

Her Attorney Denies Funds' Misapplication

That the investigation into the asserted mishandling of funds of the Echo Park Evangelistic Association will continue, was the statement issued yesterday by Dist.-Atty. Fitts, in answer to the request of Aimee Semple McPherson for speedy indictment or complete exoneration.

That an audit of the books of Angelus Temple also will be made was the statement of the District Attorney, who said the request for sufficient funds for the audit would be made at the proper time and place.

The statement came as the result of a demand for quick action made by George Acret, who succeeded Cromwell Ormsby as her legal adviser. In a statement issued to the press yesterday, Acret declared his client to be guiltless of wrongdoing and that she has a document which allows her the right to substantial sums of money from the church organization for the turning over of Angelus Temple, which she personally owned. The signed statement of the District Attorney follows:

STATEMENT BY FITTS

"Rev. John Goben, at one time associated with Mrs. McPherson, came to this office and laid before it certain information concerning the disposition of certain funds collected at Angelus Temple. He requested that this office make an investigation, basing his request upon facts purported to be of his own knowledge or furnished by him.

"The information presented by him was sufficient to justify an investigation by this office, and we are making it. At the conclusion of the investigation, we expect to act according to the law and the facts."

Acret, Mrs. McPherson's new legal adviser, said that his client "is demanding that she be completely exonerated or that she be indicted immediately and be given a chance in court to prove the falsity of the charge."

DEFENDS WITHDRAWALS

"The grand jury started this investigation, which appears to have been given world-wide publicity and it would seem to be a matter of common justice that the investigation should be completed and without delay," he said. "Mrs. McPherson desires to assist the grand jury in every way possible and requests that in fairness to her she be given a chance to tell her side of the case.

"There was nothing improper or unlawful in the withdrawal of funds nor was there anything wrong with an account being placed in another person's name. The people who are stirring up this tempest in a teapot overlook the fact that Mrs. McPherson acquired, as an evangelist, the valuable Angelus Temple property, and that she turned this property over to a church organization formed to receive it, with express authority in writing, permitting her to withdraw a substantial sum of money for her own use when the same should be available. The existence of this document has not been taken into account, and if the grand jury completes its investigations the case will collapse like a house of cards."

Funeral services for Harry Hargraves, old-time cricket champion of Canada, will be conducted at 3 p.m. today at the Will A. Reynolds mortuary followed by interment in Forest Lawn Memorial Cemetery. Mr. Hargraves died Sunday. He leaves his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Sue Bristow and Mrs. Chris Christensen, and a grandson, Jack Williams.

DISLIKE FOR WHOOPEE BRINGS DIVORCE PLEA

Because Mrs. Yvonne Thompson preferred staying home and caring for her children to "making whoopee" at gin parties, her husband, Rexford Thompson, told her she was a "big disappointment," she asserts in her divorce petition on file yesterday. Even when Mrs. Thompson was ill her husband told her her affliction was all imagination, she said. He told her that "poor people can't afford to be sick," according to her petition.

Divorce Halted by Reconcilation

"Your story of abuse is tame compared to some I have heard," Superior Judge Schauer told Mrs. Alma Lois Conrad in divorce court yesterday after Mrs. Conrad had admitted to the court that her husband was a good provider and that she didn't know whether or not she wanted a divorce.

"Go into my chambers with your husband and talk it over for a while."

And so Mrs. Conrad and her husband John agreed to postpone the case a week.

"She's given me a chance to show her how good I can be," the husband said. "I'm going to win her all over again. It's for the sake of our baby."

WOMAN WHO SHOT AT MATE NO GUN EXPERT

She shot at her husband six times . . . and missed, Mrs. Jessie May, 28 years of age, of 788 East Thirty-eighth street, yesterday told police and surgeons at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. Sounds of shooting in the house caused neighbors to summon Detective Lieutenants Clark and Conway, who found the woman alone. She said she became tired of enduring beatings yesterday, because she was ill, so she seized a revolver, and blazed away. She didn't hit her husband, but she got rid of him promptly, because he went away, she added. She was treated at the hospital by Dr. Saverien, and then was booked on charge of assault with deadly weapon. The Mays are negroes.

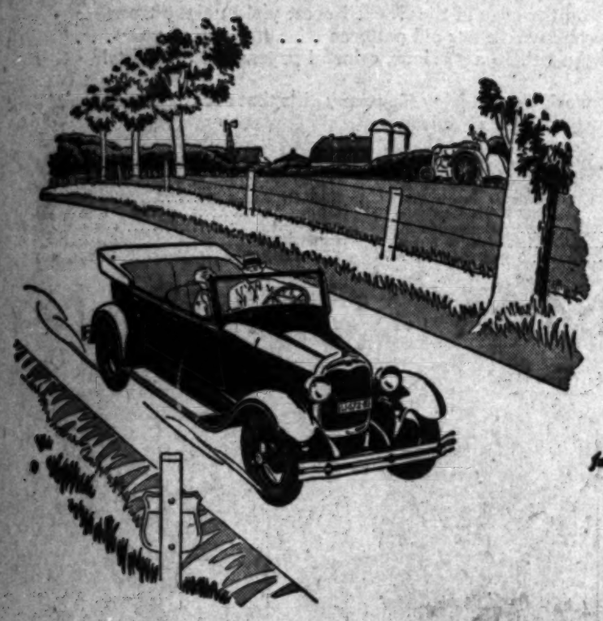
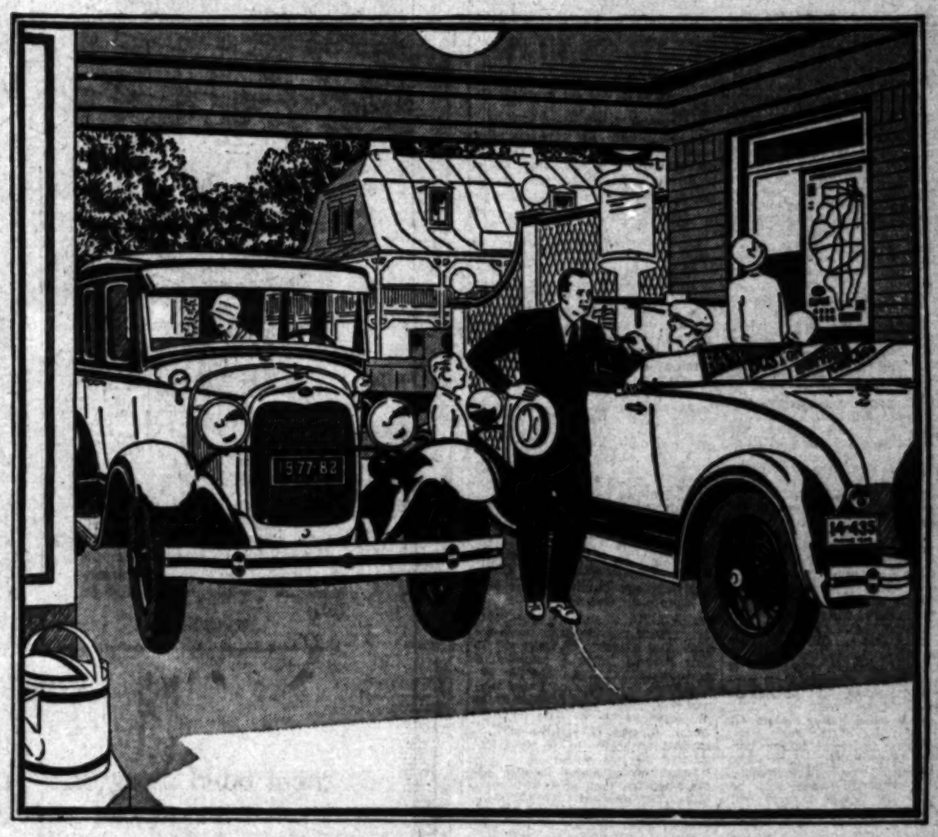
Extending the Limits of Man's Opportunity



Power has lightened the farmer's burdens and shortened the miles to town



Maine speaks to California—in Illinois!

ONLY A FEW generations ago the life of man was circumscribed by his own physical limitations . . . the dexterity of his fingers, the strength of his back, the speed of his limbs, and the labor of domestic animals.

The interchange of commodities was slow, difficult. There were no good roads, as we know them today, nor any way to travel swiftly, surely, over these roads. The deeply rutted wagon trail was a long, hard trail.

Though boundless acres were all about, it was only the adventurous few who traveled far. Many a man lived and died without ever having been more than fifty miles from home.

Then was born an idea that was destined to reshape the frontiers and the future of the entire country—the idea of making a small, strong, simple automobile so low in price that it might be placed within the means of all the people.

The coming of this new means of transportation not only changed the industrial life of the nation, but helped to change the private lives of every one for all the generations to come.

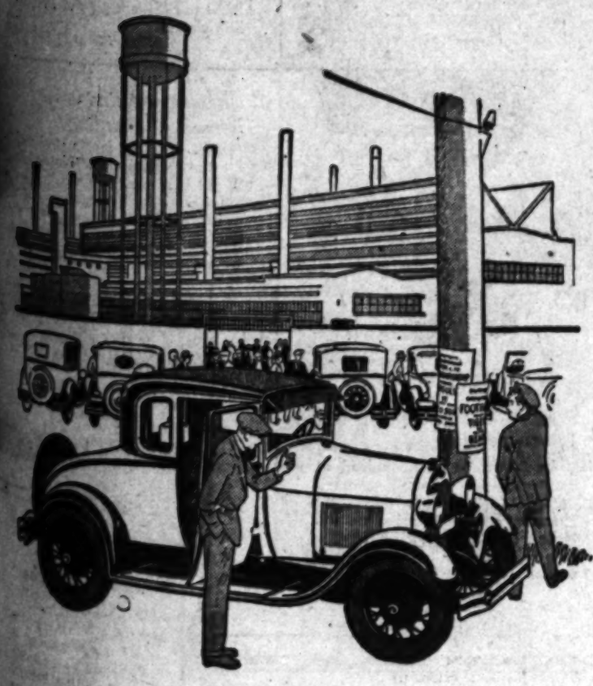
It leveled hills, extended horizons, created new opportunities, furnished the means to earn more money and to enjoy the leisure which that increased income should bring.

In creating and building a small, strong, simple automobile at a low price, and in using it, man became accustomed to thinking of machinery as a servant. He made power work for him.

More and more as time went on, in industrial plants and on the farm, heavy labor was taken off the back of man and placed upon the broader shoulders of the machine.

The Ford moved everywhere, blazing the way over miry roads and rocky mountain trails, through gumbo and sand, creating a rising demand for swifter, smoother travel that resulted in the construction of hundreds of thousands of miles of cement and macadam highways reaching to all parts of the country.

The benefits resulting from the introduction of the low-priced automobile have done more than perhaps any other single thing to increase the standards of living and to make this a truly united country.



To all men—everywhere —the advantages of economical transportation

All the people are blended together by the flexibility and swiftness of automotive transportation. The prairie farmer, the industrial worker and the city business man are governed by similar impulses, similar tastes, similar demands upon highly specialized machinery to serve them.

This civilization can show no greater example of disciplined machinery than in the operation of the Ford Industries.

The great miracle is not the car, but the machines that make the machine—the methods that make it possible to build such a fine car, in large numbers, at a low price.

Craftsmanship has been put into mass production. Millions and millions of parts are made—each one so accurate and so exactly like the other that they fit perfectly to the thousandth of an inch when brought together for assembly into complete units.

Men by the thousands and the hundred thousand are employed at the Rouge plant alone and there are hundreds of acres of plant equipment. Yet the purpose today is wholly the same as when the equipment of the Ford organization was housed in a single small building.

Everything that has been done has been done to give further scope and expression to the Ford Idea.

That idea is not merely to make automobiles—not merely to create so much additional machinery and so many millions of additional horse-power—but to make this a better world in which to live through providing economical transportation for all the people.

For that purpose the first Model T was made twenty-one years ago. For that purpose the new Ford is made today.

In 1929, as in 1908, it is again helping to reshape the frontiers and the future of the country and to further extend the limits of man's opportunity.

SUNNYVALE SITE HAS 1700 ACRES

North's Ace-in-Hole in Fight for Air Base Disclosed

Original Offer of 1000 Now Will be Enlarged

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—The San Francisco Bay dirigible base committee's ace in the hole on the Sunnyvale site for the Navy's Pacific Coast home is a 1700-acre tract, it was learned tonight. Committee members refused to confirm the information, but did not deny it, taking shelter behind the remark: "I have nothing to say for publication."

In this instance, the circumstances are such as to confirm the matter.

TWO CHOICES

The Camp Kearny site at San Diego, which has been offered the government free of cost, and which was recommended by the technical minority of the special naval investigating board, consists of 1000 acres. The choice, as now is known, lies between Camp Kearny and Sunnyvale, which is in Santa Clara county, a short distance north of San Jose on the peninsula side of the bay.

When Admiral Moffett, heading the special naval board, stirred bay district hopes by expressing a favorable opinion of the Sunnyvale site, sponsors of it faced the problem of competing with San Diego's 1000-acre site by a tract of only 300 acres at Sunnyvale. The dirigible base committee, organized to swing support behind the bay site, set in motion steps to equal San Diego's offer by the purchase of the additional 700 acres.

Today, however, the committee met to consider financing and the fight which Southern California is making for Camp Kearny. In the course of the discussion, which became personal as well as general, it was learned, mention was made of 1700 acres at Sunnyvale.

SUPPLE QUERIED

Frederic E. Supple of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the committee, was asked by The Times correspondent to explain the apparent discrepancy between printed reports of a 1000-acre site at Sunnyvale and the 1700 acres discussed at the meeting.

"The offer to the government," he said, "always has been 'at least' 1000 acres."

"Just what does that mean?" he was asked. "Does the committee offer 1000 acres or 1700 acres?"

"I cannot discuss the matter for publication."

Other, but confidential sources, verified the tract under consideration as 1700 acres. They were not prepared to say what measures are to be taken to acquire the entire parcel or if the 1700 acres has been or will be offered the government in one piece or 700 acres held in reserve as a teaser. Nor were they prepared to say if the committee will buy the entire tract. Obviously, if the owners will not donate it, purchase is the only means of acquisition.

CARTOONS DISPLAYED

At today's discussion, cartoons recently published in the Los Angeles Times were displayed to committee members, causing thoughtful, humorous and caustic comment, according to individual reflexes.

The story also was told of a visitor to the Sunnyvale stite over the week-end of a man identifying himself as Fred A. Carpenter, who said he was representing the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. This is presumed to be Ford A. Carpenter. He is said to have been accompanied by a photographer.

Commenting, D. H. Hughes, secretary-manager of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was quoted:

"Well, we can copper that with another bit of information. The navy has asked for a complete meteorological report on Sunnyvale and has had men taking observations for several months down there. So if they try to spring any fog reports on Congress we will have the facts."

OPTION FOR MORE LAND IN MARIN COUNTY SENT EAST

SAN RAFAEL, Nov. 12. (Exclusive)—An option to purchase 3000 acres adjoining the 640-acres site that Marin county will give the army for an air base was sent to Washington today in answer to an inquiry from T. Trubee Davison, who asked if any more land is available for army purposes near the Marin meadows site offered the government by the county.

BOY LOSES FIGHT FOR CLEMENCY

Kentucky Lad Must Serve Long Prison Sentence for Slaying, Court Decides

FRANKFORT (Ky.) Nov. 12. (AP) A twenty-one-year sentence in the House of Reform and the penitentiary, imposed upon a 14-year-old boy charged with murder and convicted of manslaughter, was upheld today by the State Court of Appeals. The opinion of the court said "the youth is greatly to be pitied, but we are without power to disturb the verdict."

The lad, Bennie Hall, was convicted in Floyd Circuit Court in connection with the death of Ralph Mullins.

Records of the case show that Mullins was shot fatally by Hall December 23, 1928, after an argument between the women and children of the Mullins and Hall families in which Bennie struck Mrs. Mullins, the victim's wife, over the head with a pistol.

At the trial in the lower court, Bennie asserted he shot Mullins because the latter was firing at his mother, Mrs. Hall.

Pending appeal Bennie Hall has been at liberty under $10,000 bond.

Grave Motin en Mendoza (Argentina)

MENDOZA, Noviembre 12.—Han perecido tres personas y se halla moribunda una cuarta, como resultado del motin que provocó el asesinato del doctor Carlos Washington Lencinas, cacique politico de Mendoza, y enemigo jurado del presidente Irigoyen. El crimen se perpetró la noche del último domingo. A más de los muertos, hubo veintiún heridos en el motín. Entre los que perecieron figura José Cásares, que cree la policia haya sido el asesino del doctor Lencinas.

Hállase la ciudad bajo una especie de ley marcial. Los periódicos condenan el asesinato como complot de inspiración politica para hacer a un lado a un poderoso enemigo del presidente. El doctor Lencinas recibió el tiro que le privó de la vida en los momentos en que pronunciaba un discurso ante una muchedummbre de 5000 personas.

Los Senadores Aplauden la Idea de Inmunidad Plantenda por Hoover

WASHINGTON, Noviembre 12.—La proposición del presidente Hoover de conceder inmunidad en tiempo de guerra a los barcos de comestibles ha sido aplaudida hoy en todo el senado, por más que algunos de los senadores han expresado que lamentan que el presidente no se proponga plantear esa cuestión ante la próxima conferencia naval de Londres.

Los republicanos del senado aprobaron unánimemente la idea de Hoover para salvaguardar los buques con comestibles. El senador McKellar, demócrata de Tennessee, cree que se le deberia incluir en el memorandum de la conferencia de Londres.

El senador Borah, de la comisión de Relaciones Exteriores, se calló sus comentarios; pero es uno de los que han insistido en que la paz, la de las armadas y la libertad de los mares deben marchar de la mano.

Las declaraciones del mocito dieron lugar a que la policia encontrara enterrado en el corral de la granja de los Nettes un rifle calibre 22, perteneciente a Freddie.

Los latidos de un perro hicieron descubrir el domingo el cadáver de Herman Ahsen, de 19 años, que es el cazador muerto por Freddie.

"Si, yo le tiré," declaró el mozalbete. "Estaba como a 400 pies de mí, y no creí poderle dar. Nada tenia que andar haciendo en las tierras de mi padre."

El padre, Herman Nette, ha sido acusado de complicidad, pues desmintió la declaración de su hijo de haber encontrado a éste enterrando el rifle, y de haberle indicado lo que debia contestar al lo aprehendian.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

HIGH WINDS IN FOOTHILLS

San Bernardino and Santa Ana Report Storms

Small Damage Scattered Over Wide Territory

Temperature Drops to Near Freezing Point

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 12.—Blowing continuously for more than twelve hours, terrific wind swept the San Bernardino Valley last night. The damage, although scattered over a wide area, was regarded as nominal. In San Bernardino, the broadcasting tower of the KFXM station was blown down, two windows in a downtown store crashed and signs were torn loose from buildings.

The Valley Boulevard was blocked for several hours between Bloomington and Ontario by sand, while traffic over the Foothill Arrow Route and Highland avenue between San Bernardino and Upland moved slowly as sand-blinded motorists toiled through the storm.

The damage to the citrus fruit crops in unprotected areas was not great, according to Horticultural Commissioner John P. Coy. Possibility of orange ranchers filing their smudge pots for the first time this year loomed late today, when A. W. Cook, Federal meteorologist, broadcast a forecast of temperatures of 30 to 31 deg. in low areas, the forecast contingent upon the wind dying down.

Near Etiwanda a brush fire reported under control Monday was fanned into flames again and embers scattered over a wide area. At noon more than 100 were fighting the fire which had advanced as far south as Highland avenue, burning in the heavy brush. Fire-fighting equipment from the San Bernardino and Riverside county forestry bureaus was being used to keep the fire from spreading.

ORANGE COUNTY GIVEN TASTE OF WINDSTORM

SANTA ANA, Nov. 12.—High winds which whistled through Orange county last night and today caused considerable damage to telephone and electric company property and blew over many ornamental trees, it was learned today.

The Southern California Edison Company had a crew of workmen out all night repairing lines which were damaged by falling trees and branches.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company also had crews of workmen repairing lines, but reported that communication between various cities of the county had not been hindered. Short circuits and burned-out transformers constituted the bulk of the damage.

Most of the trees blown down were found to have been rotten.

With a view to inspecting possible damage to citrus trees, A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, this afternoon visited various orange orchards in this district. He said that preliminary reports from the Garden Grove section were that new crop Valencias were unaffected by the wind, and that only off blooms had been knocked from the trees.

Brock added his belief that damage to foliage would not be extensive. "Because of moisture in the air," he said, "it is likely that comparatively little foliage will be loosened."

In one respect the wind proved a boon, through loosening scattered walnuts left on trees at the end of the harvest, according to Farm Adviser H. E. Wahlberg. Because most of the Valencia crop has been picked, little damage was possible to ripened fruit, Wahlberk said. The new crop may have suffered somewhat through oranges being loosened from branches, and ripened avocados may have suffered similarly, he added. Wahlberg was optimistic concerning the situation, because of the low humidity of the atmosphere and because of the absence of heat.

TERRIFIC NORTHER FELLS TREES AND POLES IN PATH

ONTARIO, Nov. 12. — Striking with suddenness at an early hour today, a terrific northern wind raged over the valley that made automobile traffic on Riverside Drive and Colton Road, east of Ontario hazardous, felled several trees in Ontario, blew down telephone cable lines and filled homes with sand. No damage was believed done to citrus crops as oranges are still green and firmly attached to the trees. Several motorists who paid no heed to auto club officials, found themselves stranded in sand dunes that covered the highways leading to Colton and Riverside. Large motor busses met with difficulty in forcing a way through the wind and sand.

The telephone cable lines were quickly repaired and service was interrupted only a short time. As all students at Chaffey Union High School were at class when a large tree crashed to the ground on the campus, no one was hurt. Dead limbs and debris littered the streets.

LAUGH ON FORESTRY SUPERVISOR

Supervisor Joe Elliott in Mountains All Night After Losing Himself in Brush

REDLANDS, Nov. 12. — Now that they are certain he has suffered no ill effects from the experience, forestry officials of the county are having a great deal of fun at the expense of Forest Supervisor Joe Elliott who, they say, lost himself in the San Bernardino Mountains. Though he spent the night in the mountains without even a coat, he says he did not suffer exceedingly from the cold and he is feeling fine.

He had gone to the divide between Glen Ranch and Glen Helen, to look over the ground for a fire break, telling the driver of his car to wait for him at the end of the divide in Cajon Canyon. But he found heavy underbrush, which he could not get through and was caught by the dark.

Elliott realized the hopelessness of trying to find his way out of the dense growth of the mountain divide in the darkness, and found a comfortably soft pile of leaf mold on which he made his bed for the night, minus even cogs, in the chill atmosphere of the high elevation. As the night advanced without a sign of their supervisor, the alarm of the rangers and patrolmen increased and they launched a search of the mountain district. At daylight Elliott started out again and startled Smith by climbing into the parked car where the driver had spent the night in a vain vigil.

Elliott states that he feels no ill effects from his experience.

Science Wins in Battle to Save Baby, Then Loses

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 12.—Science fought a remarkable battle last night and today to save the life of a baby. Science lost, but only after an accomplishment which approaches the miraculous.

At 10 o'clock last night at the Alhambra Hospital a baby boy was born to Mrs. Stafford Hannon of 110 Newby street, San Gabriel. There was no sign of life in the little body, either lung or heart action. Dr. Ben Chamberlin, the attending physician, summoned Dr. Paul B. Hamilton, a children's specialist of this city.

After Dr. Hamilton had worked over the infant with artificial respiration for fifteen minutes a slight heart beat was detected. For the next two hours and twenty minutes, during which Dr. Hamilton continued his efforts, the baby was apparently lifeless. Then the physician was rewarded by a faint natural breath. Gradually life came to the infant and for three hours the breath came normally. Medical treatment was continued and hopes were bright.

The child relapsed into an unconscious state and the battle was waged with greater determination. All the facilities at the command of science were resorted to but the life slowly ebbed away and the baby was pronounced dead at 9:30 a.m. today. The infant weighed seven pounds and three ounces.

First Navel Car Goes East Today

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 12.—Southern California's first car of navel oranges will be shipped by the Highland Citrus Association tomorrow. The fruit, Thompson navels, was picked from the J. E. Weller grove in East Highlands, which yielded the first car shipped last year. The fruit, consigned to the New York and Chicago markets, had not been sold today, although executives of the packing association were negotiating with eastern buyers.

The first car of the 1928-29 season was shipped from Highland on November 10 of last year. Frequent shipments of early fruit will be made during the next few weeks, it was announced, as the fruit is ripening rapidly.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD BOY KNOWS HIS WORDS

Jean Polley

SEPULVEDA, Nov. 12.—While grammar and high school pupils are having a hard time worrying over their spelling lessons, they should take a look at little Jean Polley, 4 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kay Polley, who reside on a ranch near here. Little Jean, according to his father, was born a speller, and learned his alphabet about the time he learned to walk. So far, little Jean hasn't been taught to spell any word longer than a monosyllable. He knows more than 400 of them and can spell them all without a miss. Polley, a former school teacher, says some persons have an instinctive spelling sense, and that he believes that by the time Jean reaches the age of fifteen he may know all the words in the dictionary.

Savant Asserts Armistice Day Greatest of All

PASADENA, Nov. 12.—Armistice Day, because it marks the end of the greatest conflict and misery in history, will go through the ages as the greatest anniversary of all times, according to Dr. William B. Munroe of the California Institute of Technology and Harvard University faculties, who spoke on the World Court at the Shakespeare Club last night.

The noted authority on history and government pointed out that from April, 1917, to November, 1919, while the United States was engaged in the World War, the government expenses were greater than from the entire period from the inauguration of George Washington to 1914.

Dr. Munroe asserted that President Wilson sensed the aspiration of the men in the trenches that there should never be another war. It was this, declared the speaker, that caused Wilson virtually to sacrifice his life by making a long journey to foreign soil to help devise the document of the League of Nations, a provision of which was the establishment of the World Court.

Dr. Munroe predicted that another war would be greater than any previous war and that in the event of such a conflict the United States undoubtedly would be drawn in.

In cities, he asserted, great conflagrations are prevented by stopping the small fires, and thus future wars may be stopped by preventing trivial conflicts.

"For more than a century," he said, "the United States has been the foremost exponent of judicial settlements, and it is now our duty to join and uphold instruments devised for that purpose, namely the World Court."

DISABLED VETERAN'S PAPERS RECOVERED

REDLANDS, Nov. 12.—The suit case of William Truitt, disabled war veteran, which contained all the valuable papers he has in the world, was found in the mails near the university today, where thieves who had stolen it from an automobile threw it after finding nothing of value to them.

In the suit case were papers and records containing the history of Truitt's military service and other records of correspondence which he had with government officials. These were given into the care of Frank M. Godshalk, commander of the Redlands post of the American Legion.

Truitt for the past year has been a patient at the Sawtelle government hospital. With a friend he is now en route to the desert, where he hopes to spend the winter months in an effort to benefit his health. The automobile in which they are making the journey was parked on the street here while the service men were in a restaurant.

VIOLIN INSTRUCTOR'S DEMISE MOURNED

ONTARIO, Nov. 12. — Students of Chaffey Union High School and Junior College and hundreds of friends in Ontario and Upland, today mourned the death of Mrs. Grace E. Huebner, who, for the past six years has been instructor in violin in Chaffey music department, and was also organizer and director for Chaffey violin choir.

Mrs. Huebner died at San Antonio Community Hospital, at the age of 58 years, 9 months. Mrs. Heubner leaves her husband, Frank L. Huebner, and her father, Loren Townsend, who made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Huebner.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at 10 a.m. at Draper's chapel, followed by cremation at Pomona.

STORE TEETH TURN "WOBBLIES"

Glendale Police Chief Gets Bitter Complaint About Molars That Won't Work, Eschewing All Forms of Mastication, Even When Jawed by Owner

GLENDALE, Nov. 12.—Teeth that rock from side to side and refuse to meet in a man's victuals when he tries to chew them may offer a perfectly reasonable ground for complaint against the dentist who made the wabbling molars, but Chief of Police J. D. Fraser cannot see why the owner should expect the police to take action in the matter. A letter from a resident of Glendal, today complained to Fraser that the writer had bought a set of teeth from a Los Angeles dentist six months ago. He had given the teeth every chance to settle down to work in that time, but they still went on the bias when he tried to eat anything more substantial than mush, and the green corn season had been a total failure so far as the owner of the teeth was concerned.

Chief Fraser's request to the City Council for an appropriation to organize a false-teeth detail and to employ extra officers for this duty was met with a curt refusal by the city officials, who told him that all the city's funds for this year had already been budgeted, and that the owner of the teeth should get a few straws and inhale malted milk or some similar sustenance.

JURY CALLS WITNESSES

San Diego Men to Appear Before Body to Tell About Famous Liquor Case

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 12.—Councilman S. P. McMullen, William Wilcoxen, secretary to Mayor Harry C. Clark, and Newell N. Jones, local newspaper man, were served with subpoenas today ordering them to appear before a session of the Federal grand jury in Los Angeles tomorrow in connection with San Diego's $37,000 "liquor fixing" case.

S. D. Ramseur, local special border service agency head, left early this morning for the northern city and expects to attend tomorrow's session at which, it is said, the "fixing" case will be reopened and reviewed.

Tomorrow's session of the Federal inquisitorial body will mark the third to be held in as many weeks, Ramseur having been present at each of the two former meetings. Indictments were looked for at the session last Wednesday, but the matter was continued a week in order that a complete review of the case might be made. Reports at the Federal Building today states that indictments are expected to be returned in the case tomorrow.

Charles Mulock, asserted local bootlegger, who appeared before the grand jury at Los Angeles a week ago tomorrow, still is being held in the County Jail here in default of bond of $5000, an amount set by United States Commissioner Henry C. Ryan when Mulock was arraigned before him several weeks ago on charges of conspiracy to violate the national Prohibition Act. No information has been received here as to whether Mulock will testify at tomorrow's meeting.

Chief of Police Arthur Hill is against entering into any public discussion over what the police did or did not do to uncover the so-called $27,000 liquor-fixing conspiracy, he declared yesterday. He made the declaration after having been taxed by George H. Sherlock, president of the Federated Church Brotherhood, with laxity.

Board Rejects All Park-Civic Center Site Bids

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 12.—The City Commission today rejected all bids submitted in connection with the proposed Civic Center and City Park sites and new bids, to be opened the 19th inst., were authorized. The decision is understood to have been made with the expectation of obtaining lower figures for both projects.

For several weeks the city has been considering petitions asking the purchase, from the $175,000 proceeds received in the sale of Alhambra's share in the tri-city farm, of a civic center site and a park site in the southern section of the city. The stockholders of the Alhambra Community Hotel Corporation offered the hotel site on South Garfield avenue as a civic center location at a price of $70,000. Four sites were submitted for a park at sums ranging from $12,500 to $78,650.

It has been reported that the commission will put both propositions to a vote of the people at the next election.

Last Rites for Robert E. Kuhns Will Be Today

VENTURA, Nov. 12.—Funeral rites for Robert Eton Kuhns, 48 years of age, who died at St. John's Hospital, Oxnard, Sunday, will be held at the J. E. Barker Funeral Home Wednesday at 3 p.m. with the Elks' service, followed by burial in Ivy Lawn Cemetery, with the Masonic service.

Kuhns lived in Ventura for nineteen years, and for the past fourteen years had been manager of a bank at Saticoy. He was active in both the Masons and the Elks, and was a member of the Episcopal Church. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Hazel Kuhns, a 14-year-old daughter, and his mother, whose home is in Santa Monica.

ANAHEIM, Nov. 12.—Seriously stricken while on a visit with a son, Willis Reid at Taft, George W. Reid, Anaheim Chamber of Commerce secretary, is confined to bed at Taft. Mr. Reid is also manager of the California Valencia Orange Show.

COMMUNITY CHEST OPENS AT ONTARIO

ONTARIO, Nov. 12. — Ontario's annual Community Chest campaign will be launched tomorrow when a committee of fifteen prominent business men comprising the advance gift team, takes the field.

The advance gift team numbers Charles Latimer, chairman; Isaac Jones, Walter Moore, R. D. Newton, N. E. Trautman, Oscar Arnold, F. G. Fallis, Crombie Allen, J. S. Armstrong, Walter Babcock, Glenn D. Smith, E. H. Richardson, George McCrea, J. O. Henderson, Tom Logan and C. M. Huston.

Seven agencies will share in the Chest fund.

Dog Quarantine is Advocated in Glendale

GLENDALE, Nov. 12.—Presence of rabies among the dogs of Glendale may lead to adoption of a quarantine measure, Dr. D. E. Smallhorst, district Federal officer, stated today, in discussing the program that is to be presented at a conference of medical men at the City Hall tonight, under the auspices of the Emergency Hospital Association. In addition to the medical officers and surgeons of the city, veterinary surgeons have also been invited to attend the meeting to discuss the rabies situation.

It is admitted that Glendale is having more than its normal share of rabies, and if the quarantine is put into effect it will mean that no dogs may be brought into this district or taken out of it without first being held for examination and observation. Imposition of the quarantine rule would also mean that dogs not confined would be compelled to wear muzzles.

City officials will also meet with the health officers in view of the interest that several of the problems scheduled for discussion have for the city administration.

Turkey Shoot at Upland Success

UPLAND, Nov. 12. — One hundred ducks and 200 turkeys were slain in this community for Thanksgiving as the result of the annual Armistice Day turkey shoot, sponsored by Upland Post of the American Legion, Herman Cordes, in charge of the shoot for the post, announced today.

Shooters from many parts of Southern California participated in the shoot. Women of the auxiliary took in a strong box full of money from lunch stands provided at the gun range.

ODD FELLOWS WILL BUILD

Contract Expected to be Let for Oxnard Structure in Few Days; Clearing of Site in Progress

OXNARD, Nov. 12.—Contract for the new Odd Fellows Lodge Building to rise at the corner of Fourth and B streets, will be let within a few days, according to Flournoy Carter, member of the building committee of the lodge. Six bids have been given to contractors. They are expected back today and providing they are not too high, the contract will be let for the construction of the new building.

Clearing of the site is now in progress. F. M. Puntenney has a force of men tearing down the building. Puntenney must have the site, 50 to 140 feet, clear before the 20th inst., he stated.

The new building will be two stories, constructed of pressed brick. The ground floor will contain three stores and a physician's office, all of which have been leased from the lodge.

The second floor will contain the lodge hall, modern accommodations for the members and guests. The cost of the building will be about $35,000, but may be $30,000 before all the details have been arranged. If the bids which will be returned today are too high, additional bids will be called for, but the building will be erected as soon as possible, it was stated this morning.

OCEAN DUSTY AS DRY WIND BLOWS

Old Salts Off Santa Monica Indignant When Waves Are Sullied; But Fish Bite

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 12. The ocean was dusty today.

Old salts said indignantly: "It's a dod-gasted crime the way the wind's blowin' this landlubber dust all over our nice clean water!"

The landlubbers admitted it was "unusual weather."

Like a thin fog the dust clouds kicked up by an inland "Santa Ana" hung over the waves. But the slight discomfort was recompensed, fishermen declared, by the way the fish came up to see what it was all about. Some of them lingered to take a bite at baited hooks, and the result was good catches off the piers, fishing barges and live-bait boats.

Birney T. Ramsey of Los Angeles Victim of Crash on El Monte Crossing

EL MONTE, Nov. 12.—Birney T. Ramsey, 9713 Annac avenue, Los Angeles, driving a Newmark Company truck, was killed instantly at about 3:30 p.m. today at the Granada-avenue crossing of the Pacific Electric here when a special car struck the truck throwing it against an electric light pole.

Ramsey's head was crushed although he remained sitting in the seat with his feet braced. The brakes were locked. Witnesses told Chief of Police L. C. Burdick that the driver apparently did not see the train until he had driven on to the tracks and that he then turned and tried to go with the train.

The body was taken in charge by Addisman and Klingerman, local morticians.

Pavers to Get Cash for Work

CHATSWORTH, Nov. 12.—Tomorrow is the last day for making bids by contractors for the improvement of Devonshire street, from Zelzah avenue to Santa Susana avenue, a distance of about five miles.

The project is one of the most important in this section of San Fernando Valley and has been up for improvement one way or another, for the last five years. Bonds in the sum of $140,000 voted by property owners have been sold and the contract will be awarded on a cash basis. Two sets of bids are being received—one for straight concrete and the other for asphaltic concrete. The paving is to have an eight-inch depth, and width of twenty feet.

When the highway is completed it will furnish a wide, direct route from Santa Susana Pass in an easterly and northerly direction, via San Fernando and Newhall, over the Ridge Route toward Bakersfield.

COFFEE PERCOLATOR GIVES WOMAN SHOCK

UPLAND, Nov. 12. — An electric coffee percolator nearly cost Mrs. Harley G. Jackson, 796 West Tenth street, her life today.

Before dressing, Mrs. Jackson went to the kitchen to connect the percolator. Defective wiring is said to have been responsible for a vivid flash of electricity in the percolater that caused deep burns in Mrs. Jackson's hand and knocked her to the floor unconscious.

Mrs. Jackson's husband, hearing the thud in the kitchen, immediately investigated and prompt arrival of physicians saved her life. Her condition was still considered serious later in the day.

INQUEST IN WHITE CASE TO BE HELD

Autopsy Shows Realty Man Killed by Poison Rarely Used in Modern Days

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 12.—As a preliminary to solve the riddle of the death of E. E. White, 64-year-old real-estate man, who was left dead in an auto in front of his home here last Thursday night, Coroner S. C. Kelly announced today that he will hold an inquest.

As a result of an autopsy it was revealed that White died of a rare poison known as "veratrum viride," practically obsolete today, but used about fifty years ago as a powerful heart depressant.

How White obtained this poison, if he took it himself, who administered it to him, who the mystery man and woman who drove him to his home dead are, include some of the questions the Coroner hopes to find answers to at the inquest.

The clinical report of the vital organs of the dead man revealed that his blood vessels were engorged and filled with dark blood, said to be a direct result of a depressed heart.

In the meantime, the man and woman who drove White to his home at 1600 Front street are still at large and utter mystery surrounds their identity or whereabouts.

Police detectives, who opened a belated investigation into the death late yesterday, concluded their inquiry several hours later after establishing belief that White died from a heart condition.

Leonids May be Photographed on Their Way

PASADENA, Nov. 12.—Attempts will be made to photograph the Leonids, long-missing and most-important meteors, when they come into view from the earth tomorrow night for the first time in thirty years, according to W. H. Christie, Mt. Wilson Observatory astronomer. If the Leonids are sufficiently numerous, a brilliant meteor shower will occur within three years of tomorrow night, it was stated.

The group has appeared three times a century, for the last 1000 years, but failed to appear on schedule when first due this century.

Astronomers expect to know tomorrow night whether the great stream of meteors, which requires thirty-three years to make one trip about the sun, has changed its schedule. The Leonids are seen to the best advantage after midnight.

Death Calls Herbert C. Henderson, After Long Illness, at His Home Near Santa Paula

VENTURA, Nov. 12.—Funeral services were held at Santa Paula today for Herbert C. Henderson, prominent leader in county affairs for the past forty years and father of Superior Judge Edward Henderson, who died Sunday at his ranch home near Santa Paula following an illness of six months.

Long an outspoken and constructive figure in county politics and development, Mr. Henderson in the two terms he served as County Supervisor, became widely known for his work in securing the new courthouse at Ventura, the Ventura and Saticoy bridges, and his support of the good roads system.

He was elected a supervisor in 1907 and relinquished the post in 1915 because of ill health.

Among other activities Mr. Henderson played a conspicuous part in the preservation of California landmarks as a member of the Native Sons of the Golden West. He was also a member of the Odd Fellows and Masonic bodies.

Born at Placerville in 1857 of parents, who had crossed the plains from Missouri in the rush west for gold, he was the eldest child of Samuel Clinton and Frances Cruson Henderson.

In 1882 he married Harriet N. Kinne, who survives him. Of the marriage were born three children, Edward, now a judge of the Superior Court here; Cecelia, a teacher in the Ventura schools and Gertrude, a teacher in Lingan University, Canton, China.

Stock Prices Break to New Low Levels as New York Slump Forces Liquidation

Traders of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange scurried to cover yesterday as a new price crash swept values overboard. Precipitated by another New York collapse, liquidation flooded the market and twelve new low marks were recorded. Standard of California slumped 5 3-8 to 60 1-4.

A favorable omen, however, was indications of only a small amount of forced selling, which supported the contention of many Los Angeles brokers that during the past few weeks the slate had been wiped clean of weakened accounts. Sales for the day reached the moderate total of 92,329 shares valued at $4,097,692.

As in other slumps the avalanche hit hardest the stocks on the Los Angeles board, which are also listed on the New York exchanges. Pacific Lighting, Southern California Edison, Transamerica and Standard Oil of California, which are among this group, broke from 3 to 10 points. In practically every case, the last sale was at the lowest point for the day.

Transamerica was the most active trader and on sales of 26,600 shares broke 6 points to 30½. Edison also fell 6 points closing at 51 1-8, a new low. Pacific Lighting crashed 10½ points to a new bottom at 64.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 13, (AP)—Heavy selling of stocks again affected the bond market today, sending prices down to all time records. The United States government issues. The softness of values, however, was regarded as only a temporary condition and was attributed to liquidation by holders needing funds for stock market purposes.

Liberty bonds and Treasury certificates, after some irregularity, turned upward as the domestic corporation list weakened and closing prices were near the highs for the year. The Treasury 3½s rose to a new top on a few sales. Corporations with large surplus funds, as well as institutions, were reported as buyers of the "governmentals."

Seasoned rails, offered in considerable volume, showed fractional declines in many issues, while losses of a point or more appeared in others. Among the latter were Erie 1st and general lien 4s, Indianapolis Union Railway 5s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas first 4s, New York Central 6s and refunding 5s, Nickel Plate 5½s, Lehigh Valley 4½s, Southern Railway consolidated 6s, St. Louis and San Francisco 4½s and Union Pacific refunding 4s.

Convertibles and other share privilege obligations (unlisted with the shares they represent) Public Service of New Jersey 4½s went to the new low of 140 on a net decline of 5¼. International Telephone 4½s at the closing quotation of 113 were below their previous minimum for the decline. American Telephone 4½s lost 4½, American T. & T. Chemical 5½s, N. New Haven 6s, 2½s, and Allegheny Corporation 5s of 1949, 2.

Little resistance was apparent in the industrials and utilities. American Smelting 6s, Armour Real Estate 4½s, Chile Copper 5s, Goodrich 6s, Inland Steel 4½s and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 5s suffered losses averaging ½ a point, while Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s dropped 1½.

The quotations represent sales of bonds in thousands of dollars and the high, low and closing prices of the day. To expedite transmission, the cents are omitted when the same as the last, and both low and close when same as high.

THIS INVESTOR Does Not Worry About Market Changes

"I HAVE FUNDS FOR INVESTMENT," one of our clients said yesterday. "The unsettled condition of the stock market makes a fixed income security desirable. On the other hand, I like to feel that I can share in the future growth and prosperity of American industry.

How can I do both?"

After careful consideration, this investor purchased the bonds of one of the leading industrials of the Pacific Coast, which are priced to yield 7.42%, protected by 9 for 1 security; and earnings nearly ten times interest charges.

At the same time, he is in a position to share in future stock profits through a bonus of 10 shares of common stock accompanying each bond and a liberal conversion privilege.

Every investor who is doubtful as to his future investment policy will find it well worth his while to investigate this unusual opportunity. Full details gladly furnished; simply send name and address below.

INVESTMENT TRUST

STRONG SECURITY—Corporate Trust Shares, a fixed investment trust, represent participating ownership in the capital shares of 28 of America's most powerful industrials, including American Telephone, Standard Oils, Western Union, U. S. Steel and many others. Their growth is as certain as the future growth of the United States.

UNUSUAL YIELD—Average yield on average price during past 16 years (assuming existence of trust) has amounted to 14.6% per annum. Dividends for first six months of this year were at the annual rate of over 24% on present market price.

ATTRACTIVE PRICE—A short time ago, these shares were selling at 12½, but due to the general market decline, are now priced on a decidedly attractive basis. At the present market of about 8¾, the shares are selling considerably under the average price of $10.30 per year which would have prevailed during the past 16 years had the trust been in existence.

This strong investment trust offers both the large and small investor an opportunity to participate on a decidedly attractive income basis in the profits of America's soundest industries. The present favorable price levels emphasize the advantage of investing at this time. Use coupon below to obtain full details.

BAY CITY CURB

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12. (AP)—An accumulation of selling orders on the curb exchange over the three-day holiday caused the majority of the issues to open at and continue to slump to lower levels. Following the general break of October 28, the market has moved irregularly with periods of recession followed by periods of rising prices. Today was no exception.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—A sweeping decline in prices took place on the New York Curb Exchange today as weakened speculative holdings were thrown overboard. Declines in most of the active shares were held to 9 points or less, but a sprinkling of ordinarily inactive specialties broke 5 to 30 points.

Scores of issues sank to new low levels for the year, with closing quotations generally showing little recovery from the day's low levels. To great was the volume of trading that the ticker fell steadily behind the market, and never caught up. The day's sales were 2,304,700 shares, or nearly double those of yesterday.

Public Utilities again bore the brunt of the selling pressure. Standard Power and Light dropped 33 points on its low sales. American Gas and Electric fell 25 points to a new low at 70, and then rallied to 72, which contrasts with the year's high of 224¼. Duke Power lost 14½ points. American and Foreign Power warrants, Electric Bond and Share, Associated Gas and Electric A, and Electric Power Associates lost 5 to 8½ points.

Ohio also were hard hit. Gulf, Humble, Indian Territorial, Vacuum and Standard Oil of Ohio lost 4 to 7½ points. Cosden Oil preferred dropped 10 points on a small turnover.

Investment trusts, trading and holding company stocks showed several points of weakness. Fourth National Investors, Goldman Sachs trading, Grazmar Corporation, Insull Utilities Investors, Marine Midland Investors and Niagara Share shares dropped 4 to 7 points, and Blair Financial broke 15 to a new low at 18.

Aluminum Company of America dropped 20 points to 200, which compares with the year's high of 338½. Deere & Co., Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea, Guardian Fire, Newberry, Schlig and Singer Manufacturing lost 10 to 15 points in odd lot transactions.

Newmont Mining dropped 15 points, Lehigh Coal 8½, Cosden Petroleum 7, General Baking preferred 6½ and Metropolitan Chain Stores 5.

The closing price is omitted when same as the bid, and both bid and close when same as the high.

Diversified investments that follow the favorable trends of world industries

GENERATIONS of experience have shown that business conditions and security values do not ordinarily fluctuate at the same time or in the same direction in the various countries of the world. While some are prospering others lag behind. While some have more capital than they can profitably use, others need capital so badly that they are willing to pay liberally for it, even on good security.

The American Founders group of investment companies take advantage of these international conditions. At the time of the recent break in domestic security prices they had only a small proportion of their funds in American common stocks but large amounts in cash, and were also able to withdraw funds from abroad for selective investment at home. Always the funds of these investment companies are in carefully chosen, marketable investments, bonds as well as stocks.

Such international and industrial diversification affords better than average results, particularly when funds are so reinvested as to take advantage of economic changes.

The consolidated resources of the American Founders group of companies exceed $200,000,000 and their securities are owned by more than 50,000 investors.

Additional information may be obtained from bankers and dealers or from Founders General Corporation, 50 Pine Street, New York City.

ARROWS OF CUPID FINALLY HIT MARK

Bessie Love

BESSIE LOVE ADMITS SHE WILL MARRY

Actress Had Denied Plan to Marry, Then Suddenly Announces Engagement

The old axiom about a woman having the right to change her mind gave Bessie Love, screen actress, every latitude in announcing her betrothal yesterday. It was but a few days previous Miss Love said she "wasn't thinking about marriage."

Yesterday, however, Miss Love announced her engagement to wed William Hawks, a broker, confirming rumors that have been current in Hollywood for a number of months. This is the first time the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer actress has ever admitted being engaged to marry in her long career in films.

The wedding plans as yet are indefinite, she says, but she believes they will be married early next year. She says Blanche Sweet will be her matron of honor and the bridesmaids will be Norma Shearer, Irene and Edith Mayer, Carmel Myers, Mary Astor and Bebe Daniels. Hawks is a brother of Kenneth and Howard Hawks, film executives.

STATE FILES ANSWER TO DAVIS BRIEF

Richards Asserts Former Chief Deputy of Keyes Convicted in Fair Trial

Dep. Atty.-Gen. Richiards yesterday filed in the Second District Court of Appeals the State's brief in answer to the brief previously filed by former Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Harold (Buddy) Davis in support of his appeal from the judgment of Superior Judge Wilson convicting him of bribery in connection with the Julian Petroleum Company scandal.

The brief covers eighty-six pages and answers Davis's contentions that nineteen errors were committed by the trial court. It sets forth that a thorough investigation of the entire transcript of evidence has convinced the Attorney-General's office that Davis had a fair trial and that the credibility of witnesses was well established. It concludes with a prayer that Judge Wilson's judgment of conviction be upheld.

Davis now has fifteen days in which to file a supplementary brief in reply to the State's answer. Rumors were current in legal circles yesterday that a decision in the appeal will be handed down by the Court of Appeals within ninety days.

ARCHITECTURAL EXHIBIT OPENED

Competition Prize-Winning Designs on Display

Almost 200 Attend Great Joint Club Dinner

McGroarty Reviews Building Art of Early Padres

Following a joint dinner of the Los Angeles chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the Los Angeles Architectural Club at University Club, the exhibition of prize-winning designs in the 1929 national better-homes architectural competition opened with an official preview last night.

The exhibition, which is on the main floor of the Architects' Building, Fifth and Figueroa streets, will be free to the public daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., beginning today. It will afford home builders and those interested in any phase of the designing and building of homes an opportunity to study the latest and best in architectural design as developed in this national competition.

WINNERS HONOR GUESTS

The dinner at the University Club was attended by nearly 200 architects, draughtsmen and others allied with the business of building. George P. Hales, president of the architectural club, was toastmaster. H. Roy Kelley and Harrison Clarke, winners, respectively, of first and second grand national prizes, were guests of honor. In a brief talk introducing Kelley and Clarke, David J. Witmer, chairman of the jury of awards that selected the prize-winning drawings locally, pointed out that although people generally have been looking upon the architecture of California with some interest they have felt that architecture of the East is superior. One of the results of the competition is that it places some emphasis upon what the architects here in California are doing, he said. He complimented the two young architects on their work, making comment of a technical nature upon their work as seen by the architect.

Pierpont Davis, president of the local chapter of the American Institute of Architects, also made a brief talk. He was a member of the local jury of awards. Kelley and Clarke responded with a few words that were to the point and in keeping with the modest attitude they have shown despite the honors that have come to them.

McGROARTY SPEAKS

As speaker of the evening, John Steven McGroarty, of The Times, touched upon the interest of The Times in the exhibition, this newspaper having sponsored the competition in the district comprising California and Nevada. He noted that The Times has always had a soft place in its heart for the architect and his work.

"Everything traditional in California is dear to The Times," said Mr. McGroarty. "It was the way with Gen. Otis. And the traditions of architecture are in the very roots of California. I think that Kelley and Clarke were influenced by the traditional architecture of California when they drew their winning designs."

He then turned to the old missions of California and remarked that they were and are beautiful in their architecture. There was that beautiful piece of architecture, the mission of San Luis Rey. And Father Antonio Peyri, who designed San Luis Rey, was one of the first architects of California. His were the great patios, the wonderful stairways, the charming little nooks and places. People from all parts of the world traveled to see the beauty of this mission and they compared it to the beauties of the places they knew at home. And did we ever stop to think with what the padres had to work when they built such beauty?

PLANS SET FOR AVIATION BALL

Women Air Leaders Design Novelties

Miss Amelia Earhart and Mrs. Jack Maddux

WOMEN aviation leaders and nationally known aviatrices who have been working on plans for the aviators' ball next Friday night at the Ambassador, announced yesterday that arrangements are complete for an evening intended to portray the days of World War air combat.

The ball is sponsored by Aviators Post, No. 250, American Legion, and is scheduled to be attended by many whose names are by-words in military and commercial flying.

Everything from miniature pursuit ships suspended from the ceiling of the Ambassador Fiesta Room to a vaudeville program portraying the comical side of a flyer's life has been fitted into the program to make the event an all-flying celebration. It will be conducted as a highlight of the Western Aircraft Show, now open at Wilshire Boulevard and Fairfax avenue.

Some of the women identified with aviation who are connected with the ball are Amelia Earhart Mrs. Jack Maddux, Mrs. Claire Fahy, Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell and Vera Dawn Walker.

Commander Lyon of the local Legion post has appointed a post committee headed by Paul Penland. All members of the post have aided in making arrangements, with McKinley Carr in charge of finances.

Invited guests include Gov. Young, Mayor Porter, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ingles, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Young, Commander Read, Herb Fahy and Art Goebel.

IT'S LEGION DAY TODAY IN AIR SHOW

Many Veterans Will Go to Airplane Exposition and Aid in Festivities

American Legion Day will feature the Western Aircraft Show today at Wilshire Boulevard and Fairfax avenue.

N. M. LYON.

Thirty-two American Legion Posts will attend the exposition en masse and will march to the show from Wilshire and La Brea to the accompaniment of fifteen drum corps. A contest will be held at the show for the drum corps, and trophies will be awarded the winners. Entertainment also will be furnished by the Elks No. 99 Chanters, under the direction of J. A. Lewis.

Buron Fitts and Judge Charles L. Bogue will head the list of attendance, which will include famous war-time aviators from the aviators' post of the American Legion, and a score of film celebrities. Paul L. Ferroz and N. M. Lyon are the co-chairmen in charge of the day. Doors of the exposition are open each day from 12 noon until 11 p.m.

Sixty-five airplanes and nearly $1,000,000 in aeronautical equipment are on display at the show. Planes ranging from the smallest two-seater to the giant trimotored transports are shown, together with practically every known device in the aviation industry which aids the safety of flying.

STREET PROTESTS DENIED

Protests were denied by City Council yesterday against the ordinances of intention for the improvement of La Brea avenue between Sunset and Hollywood boulevards and for the laying out, opening and extending of Grape street between One Hundred and Second and One Hundred and Third streets.

PROTESTS DUE TODAY

City Council is scheduled to hear protests today against the ordinances of intention for the improvement of Harper avenue between Willoughby and Melrose avenue and of Curson avenue between Melrose avenue and Beverly Boulevard.

Man Victim of Mystery Attack

Charles B. Bergin, retired soap company official, last night was reported recovering at his home, 315 South Palm Drive, Beverly Hills, from bruises inflicted in a mysterious attack made on him early Monday in a rear house at 279 East Villa street, Pasadena. Bergin was found by his wife as the result of an anonymous telephone call.

Police later arrested Earl Olcott, who was discovered in the yard of the house where Bergin was found injured. He was booked on suspicion of a felony.

TED DONER, VAUDEVILLE ACTOR, HELD

Comedian Taken Off Fast Train at Barstow to Face Charge of Child Stealing

Ted Doner, vaudeville comedian and well known in Los Angeles, was taken from a Santa Fe train at Barstow at 10 p.m. last night by Deputy Sheriff Harris, who took him in custody on a child-stealing charge which was filed by his wife, Peggy Doner, 7957 Fountain avenue.

TED DONER

Doner had in his custody on the train Rose Eleanor Doner, his 18-months-old daughter. According to the complaint signed at the Sheriff's office late last night by Mrs. Doner, her estranged husband obtained custody of the child by a ruse yesterday and without her knowledge made plans to go to New York.

Doner, who has been living in New York for several months, bought a ticket for New York on the Chief shortly before its departure. Mrs. Doner reached the station too late to intercept him so she appealed to the police. They advised her to obtain a warrant.

Doner and the baby will be held until the arrival of officers and a matron from Los Angeles. Doner, who was married two years ago, was injured seriously in an automobile accident near San Diego, March 5, 1928. He was unconscious for two weeks and it was feared he would die. The baby, Rose, was born while Doner was unconscious in the room next to his wife.

MAYOR GETS SUBPOENA IN CAFE CASE

Night Club's Owner Calls Officials to His Hearing on Nuisance Charge

Mayor Porter and his chief investigator, W. J. Mosher, are among the witnesses subpoenaed by Curtis Mosby, colored, proprietor of the Apex Night Club at 4015 Central avenue, for his defense against the charge that his place has become a nuisance because of the number of arrests made there, principally for violations of dry laws.

Mosby was cited to appear before the Police Commission yesterday to show cause why his dance permit should not be revoked in view of the report of the Chief of Police that seventy-three arrests have been made in the Apex Night Club since the first of the year.

Because his witnesses were not all available yesterday, Mosby obtained a continuance for one week.

Other witnesses subpoenaed by Mosby in his behalf include Assistant Chief Investigator Matthews of the District Attorney's office; Dep. Dist. Atty. Kemp, Investigator Ed Elliott and W. S. Dinsmore, clerk in the Municipal Court.

German League Selects Editor as Its President

In accepting the office Mr. Stuetz advised all members of the league and its constituent societies to go right ahead and work hard.

SHULER ADMITS LACK OF FACTS

He Doesn't Know if Cryer Ever Took Bribe

Pastor on Stand in Libel Suit of ex-Mayor

Letter to Fitts Described as Mere Warning

Rev. R. P. Shuler doesn't know that former Mayor Cryer ever took a bribe, despite the fact that he (Shuler) in an open letter to Dist.-Atty. Buron Fitts advised the latter: "Don't take a bribe via the real-estate route. If you don't know what I mean ask Mayor Cryer."

The minister admitted his inability to trace any bribes to Cryer, shortly after he had taken the witness stand in his own defense yesterday afternoon in Municipal Judge Pope's court to defend himself against criminal libel charges preferred against him by Cryer.

The extract from the open letter to Fitts comprises Count One of the complaint against Shuler and was printed in Shuler's magazine in March, 1929.

KNOWS OF NO BRIBE

"Do you know that Cryer had taken any bribes?" asked D'Orr.

"No, sir, I do not," replied the witness.

"Did you intend to charge Cryer personally of taking a bribe?"

An objection to this question was sustained on the ground that the jury could draw its own inference from the language of the whole article.

Shuler testified that he was simply writing an open letter to Fitts outlining the pitfalls that were open for public officials to fall into.

"What was the pitfall you were warning him against?" asked the defense attorney.

Deputy City Prosecutor Brockman again objected and the court, after considerable argument, withheld ruling until this morning.

INFORMATION SOURCES

Prior to the writing of the article, Shuler testified, he had taken a "very active part in the civic life of the city, particularly moral conditions. He asserted that he had conducted personal investigations and received information on conditions from Federal agents, private detectives, Sheriff's men, police commissioners, chiefs of police and various others. The list of names he gave under this category included Mayor Porter, when the latter was a member of the grand jury; W. J. Mosher, former prohibition agent, and now connected with Mayor Porter's office; Kent Parrot, former adviser to Mayor Cryer; former Police Commissioners DeCoo, Birnbaum and Dr. Montgomery; former Chiefs of Police Vollmer, Heath and Everington.

"I used every method of approach that was legitimate to get facts and information," stated Shuler.

Shuler declared that Kent Parrot told him, on one occasion that Cryer was "a poor man" and that he (Parrot) had been forced to see friends to get money to defray Cryer's first campaign expenses because Cryer's personal fortune was small.

"Parrot told me that Cryer didn't have a lick of business sense," stated Shuler at one point.

PEOPLE'S CASE RESTS

The minister asserted that he had no personal dispute with Cryer, but nevertheless, challenged Cryer over his radio to explain the source of his sudden increase in wealth after taking office, when he was informed that Cryer intended to run for Mayor a fourth time. He stated that W. J. Mosher was one of those who told him that the property at Western avenue and Beverly Boulevard owned by Cryer was worth $1,000,000. Many persons, none of whose names he could remember, but whom he believed to be friendly to Cryer, told him after his radio challenges that it was the Mayor's own business how he made the money, Shuler asserted.

The people rested their case at 2:20 p.m. yesterday, D'Orr promptly made a motion that count one of the complaint be dismissed for as...

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THE case of Mrs. Pantages must go down into history as just one of those things.

It is obvious that no judge with a clear conscience could condemn a woman to death for an automobile accident; that is what it would have amounted to. Let us hope that the next millionaire lady who runs down a Japanese family has Texas Guinan's fighting weight . . . and is kinda mean, too; so it would be some satisfaction to hear her writhe and groan.

ANOTHER PROBATION

Nevertheless I imagine that the Pantages case will be read with singular interest by a young boy of my acquaintance. He pleaded guilty to driving while drunk . . . although he did not cause an accident. In his case the judge refused to listen to the probation officer; refused to read the letters from business men certifying to the lad's good character. He said he was "too busy to bother." The boy went to jail for seventy days; lost his job, and now is of the opinion that the Goddess of Justice is a capricious old lady. The judge in that case was not Judge Hardy.

A GOOD BARGAIN—$75,000

Mrs. Pantages has settled with the Japanese family, but the terms of the settlement show that the lady was not too far gone in collapse to have lost her bargaining instinct. The sum of $1500 each to the children who lost their father is not, to say the least, any great strain on the Pantages millions.

WANTED—A COMPASS

Sawtelle has now become "West Los Angeles." If this keeps on we will have communities known as "North-Northwest by West Los Angeles," and West-Southwest by West-three-Points Los Angeles."

In the end we will doubtless have to follow the example of the Navy by simplifying the compass and call new subdivisions: "One-Hundred-Two-Degrees Los Angeles."

We can let the old name of Sawtelle go by the boards without many tears; there will be a roar if the Postoffice Department starts tinkering with the old California names. Some years ago a pinhead in the Postoffice Department in Washington tried to make a ruling that California names must be spelled like this: Santarosa, Santana . . . I shall never forget the roar that Gen. Otis let out.

SPOILED A NAME

The Southern Pacific—which knows better now—was responsible for changing the name of San Buenaventura — which means something very beautiful, to "Ventura," which means so little that it might as well be Bingville.

SPIRIT MESSAGES

While a spiritualist medium in Burbank was dragging the secret of a fugitive criminal from the vasty deep a crystal gazer in Santa Paula was nicking a trusting sucker; so it seems to be fifty-fifty.

"HOW MUCH?"

The California Medical Society is doing a fine work in planning hospital assistance by an insurance plan for sick with small incomes. When sickness comes to the house of an average family the first tremulous question is: "What will it cost, doctor?"

CHEST REPORT CHEERING

Luncheon for Workers Discloses Interest Shown in First Day's Solicitation

Manifesting their interest in the Community Chest as never before in its history, 1100 chest volunteer workers gathered at luncheon yesterday at the Biltmore and reported the efforts of their first day of solicitation among the general public.

The sum of $283,395, contributed by 17,609 individuals, or 8.86 per cent of the chest quota of $3,200,000, was reported at the meeting.

The gathering had all of the color of a big convention. Taxing the capacity of the large Sala de Oro, each table had its own delegation, representing an important unit in the campaign. A giant "progress" chart indicated the progress made to date. These luncheons are open to the public and yesterday the gallerias immediately above the dining-room were filled with interested spectators.

The attendance, according to J. A. H. Kerr, chest campaign chairman, who presided, was approximately twice as large as the largest attendance at similar meetings in previous years.

CITY AID PLEDGED

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin delivered a stirring address in which he called upon the responsible citizens to assume the burden of caring for the less fortunate. "Our good name of Los Angeles is at stake," he said. "Year after year we have failed to reach the needed goal. It is high time to pause and consider why we are living on prosperity and show on charity. And to those who are in a position to make the chest appeal for funds successful, I would say that here is our supreme opportunity—not only to care for the sick and needy, but to find salvation for our own souls."

The support of the city administration was pledged by Mayor Porter, who expressed the hope that Los Angeles will make as fine a showing this year as San Francisco has done in the past. Mayor Porter is serving as colonel of the City Employees Division and pledged that his particular division would go over the top.

George Dreyer, president of the Orthopaedic Hospital, an agency of the Community Chest, outlined the work being done at this institution.

William Lacy, president of the Community Chest, stressed the emergency situation and urged intense efforts. Lacy urged all workers to "emphatically deny that I, or the campaign chairman, or any member of the board, are receiving anything. Our reward comes in the knowledge that we are helping our less fortunate brethren."

Chairman Kerr has asked that all contributors ascertain that they are giving their funds to an accredited Chest solicitor. Each accredited solicitor has a Chest button and written credentials, accompanied by an instruction kit.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Solomon's dance orchestra. Volunteer Red Cross nurses acted as ushers.

The second of the Biltmore report luncheons will be at noon today, "Industrial and Business Dis...

STUDENT FLYER INJURED IN COLLISION OF PLANES

Capt. W. D. Hale, a student aviator, narrowly missed serious injury yesterday when an airplane descending to land at the Los Angeles Municipal Airport struck his plane a moment after he had brought it to a stop. He escaped with a minor cut over the right eye, but his plane, a small Monocoupe, was destroyed by flames that enveloped it when the fuel tank burst.

Observed by Capt. A. C. Genereaux, his instructor, Capt. Hale was preparing to take off on his second solo flight when a Curtiss Fledgling training plane, piloted by B. J. Bush, a solo student of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service school, swooped down in the same direction and sideswiped the Monocoupe. Almost instantly the latter took fire.

Bush landed, alighted and with the aid by bystanders helped Capt. Hale out of the burning ship.

Capt. Hale is a cavalry instructor at the Black Fox Military Academy. He has been undergoing flying training at the Lincoln Air Lines school.

DAVIS PLOTTERS FACE QUIZ

Characters Accused of Conspiracy to Defame Chief of Police to be Summoned

Underworld characters, discharged police officers and a number of local politicians all said to be involved in a conspiracy to defame Chief of Police Davis will be taken before the grand jury some time this week, according to Dist.-Atty. Fitts.

The official investigation of the asserted plot to produce false testimony against Chief Davis was put under way yesterday by Fitts and Chief Deputy District-Attorney Stewart with the questioning of Miss Odette Bachelard, young French dancing girl, who first disclosed the asserted plot.

From what could be learned yesterday the charges will be based on "incompetency and neglect of duty" and already have been drawn by Commissioners Pierce and Drake acting as a committee of the board.

Little of the detail of the charges could be discovered yesterday but commissioners declared that after the charges have been made public next Friday the Chief will be given a definite period in which to answer them in writing and to prepare his defense. The hearing to follow will be open to the public.

Whether Chief Davis is to be suspended following the filing of the charges appeared yesterday to be a question, which the commission was unprepared to answer but Mayor Porter was quoted as saying that in his opinion it will not be necessary to suspend the Chief.

No public statement relative to the conspiracy investigation or the charge to be filed against him next Friday was forthcoming from Chief Davis yesterday.

Quest for Wrecker of West Coast Limited Takes Three Directions as Clews Deve

HUNT FOR TRAIN BANDIT SPLIT UP

Three Suspects Trailed by Investigating Officers

One Gives Slip to Pursuers After Coming to City

Former Rail Employee and ex-Ranch Hand Sought

Hunt for the lone train wrecker and bandit responsible for the derailing of the Southern Pacific West Coast Limited and robbery of passengers near Saugus split in three directions last night as railway detectives and Sheriff's officers admitted the suspect of yesterday cleverly has covered his escape.

The special agents of the railway, directed by Chief Dan O'Connell, and the detail from the office of Sheriff Traeger, under the supervision of Capt. Brecks were in conference on the future activities of the chase.

The Southern Pacific investigators expressed the belief that the man sought is a former employee of the railway company at Saugus, who was discharged several months ago, and the entire force is working on this theory.

DESCRIPTION GIVEN

Capt. Brooks said that his deputies not only have been given a full description of the bandit, but his name and recent movements, and will confine their search to following up the clews uncovered late Monday night.

The third theory is that the man sought is an escaped inmate of the state Narcotic Hospital at Spadra, also is being sought.

"We are sure that the man who wrecked that train was a former ranch employee," Capt. Brooks said. "We have determined that the coat found near the wreck on Monday morning, belonged to this man and that he was known to be slightly demented and suddenly disappeared. Just before the wreck the coat was missing from the bunk house at the ranch where it had been hanging and had been thrown away by the bandit."

COAT IDENTIFIED

G. C. French, conductor of the train which was wrecked and held up, positively identified the gray coat as the one worn by the bandit who forced the passengers to give up their money. Mr. French said he recognized the three-cornered tear in the back.

Tom Frith, 1828 Doris Court avenue, Burbank, told of giving a "lift" to a man believed to be the bandit. He said he was driving an automobile from the desert beyond Saugus with his wife and two daughters when he stopped at a gas station near Saugus.

"While I was waiting for my change," Mr. Frith said, "a man came to the car and tapped on the window. He said his little girl had been injured in the train wreck and had been taken to the Children's Hospital in Hollywood, and asked us to drive him there.

STORY RELATED

"During the conversation on the way to the hospital this man told us his name was Hall, and that he was a forest ranger. He first told us he had gone to Los Angeles to put his daughter on the train in care of the conductor, and then changed his story, saying the little girl got on the train herself.

"He said he had been riding a horse on the hill back of the wreck scene and when he saw the cars turn over he tried to ride his horse down. He was unable to make it, he told us, and lost his gun, his badge and finally took off his coat. He told us how the train had been wrecked by taking out spikes and unbolting the angle bar which held the rails together and of the scenes around the cars when the passengers were robbed."

The mystery passenger which Frith carried to the Children's Hospital, where he disappeared, answers the description broadcast by the officers investigating the wreck. He was without a coat, wore a blue shirt, a dark-gray hat and had light-blue eyes.

STORY OF ROBBERY CHECKED

Woman Reports Bandit Made Her Open Safe of Postal Station

Police joined postal authorities in an investigation of an asserted robbery of a branch postal station at 6111 South San Pedro street by a lone bandit yesterday. The robber is asserted to have held up the station, which is located in the dry-goods store of Mrs. Anna Bechtol, shortly after noon and obtained $200 receipts which had been deposited in the safe.

According to Mrs. Bechtol's story to Detective Lieutenants Wingfield and Jones of the Seventy-seventh street station the bandit came into the store while her three clerks were out. Although the safe is in front of the door and plainly visible from the street, she told the detectives the robber held the gun to her head and forced her to work the combination until the safe door opened.

She handed him envelopes containing $200, she asserted, and then fainted. She was lying on the floor when Zelma Travue, 519 East Sixty-third street, a clerk in the store, who had been away on an errand, entered. Postal inspectors took charge of the books and began an investigation of the accounts. The money taken by the bandit had been deposited in the safe owned by Mrs. Bechtol.

She described the bandit as being about six feet tall, with dark features and a dark gray suit. She asserted he wore a mask and that his speech had a foreign accent.

Plan for Dinner to Chief Scott Near Complete

Plans are rapidly being completed for the dinner of appreciation in honor of Chief Scott of the fire department next Monday night at the Breakfast Club. The event is being arranged by the California Fire Marshals and friends of Fire Chief Scott.

Los Angeles long has been a leader among the great municipalities of the world by reason of its low fire losses considering the immense area protected by the department, much of the credit for which is given to Chief Scott's supervision.

The committee directing the dinner includes Mayor Porter, William May Garland, Louis B. Mayer, Earle C. Anthony, Dr. Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, William W. Mines, Orra E. Monnette, Harold B. Franklin, C. M. Fuller, Joseph M. Schenck, Jack L. Warner, W. T. Kester, Arthur K. Bourne, Jay Stevens, R. C. H. Rupp, Dr. L. D. Hollingsworth, J. J. Doyle, Ernie R. Werdin, Rex Laws, B. E. Cox, P. J. Wilson, J. SHULER ADMITS LACK OF FACTS

serted lack of evidence. The motion was denied. Judge Pope also denied a request that the jury be taken for a personal inspection of Cryer's holdings.

Shuler was the first witness for the defense. He is expected to conclude his direct examination this morning. Defense Attorney D'Orr has stated that there will be only three or four witnesses for his side, and predictions were that the case will go to jury late this week.

CRYER OUTSPOKEN

Cryer was again the outstanding witness for the prosecution yesterday. Although on cross-examination, he was outspoken in his denunciation of the article written by Shuler that is the basis for the complaint in the case on trial.

Asked how he noticed Shuler's article, despite the great number of things published about him, Cryer replied:

"Because it referred to me in most reprehensible manner."

He admitted that he was not a regular reader of Shuler's magazine, because, he said, most of the minister's articles were so unreliable that he didn't make a habit of reading them. He said he read many newspapers and other publications but that none of them, as far as he knew, ever made any reference to his financial condition.

"I never saw an article of this character before," said Cryer. "It was the first time my personal integrity had been attacked."

He charged Shuler with the responsibility for creating the inference that his property at Beverly Boulevard and Western avenue was worth $1,000,000.

DEFENDS ADMINISTRATION

He declared that he did not know that Shuler had given Chief of Police Davis reports on gambling houses in the city.

"Did you not think the city government was shot through and through with graft?" he was asked.

"No, sir; I expect to be proud of my administration until the day I die," replied Cryer with heat.

One of the last questions answered by the witness brought a denial that he had brought this action against Shuler because he believed he couldn't be re-elected because of the magazine article.

"No, sir, I had decided not to run," said Cryer. "I had served three terms, including eight years, and believed that my duty was done. I believe that some of the biggest things accomplished by the city were consummated during my administration."

Wife Granted Divorce On Plea That Husband Made Strenuous Objections

Mrs. Euretta Wolf Douglas is an accomplished musician, but her husband, John Oliver Douglas, objected strenuously to any music in the house, the wife testified yesterday before Superior Judge Purkitt when seeking a divorce. The decree was granted.

They were married May 12, 1918, and separated March 6, last. They have one child, Carolyn Louise, 10 years of age. Mrs. Douglas was given the custody of the child.

INQUIRY TO BE MADE IN BOY DEATH

Clark's Apparent Suicide Will be Scrutinized Today at 3 p. m. at Inquest

Though police declared the death last Saturday of Fay Bud Clark, 15 years of age, undoubtedly was suicidal, an inquest will be conducted today at 3 p.m. at the request of Mrs. Laura Clark, mother of the boy, it was announced yesterday at the Coroner's office.

Mrs. Clark said she could not believe her son had ended his life and wished a thorough investigation made.

The lad was found with a bullet wound through the head in a garage at 5447 La Mirada street near the home of Dick Scott, a playmate. The latter made the discovery, according to police reports. In the garage police found a large quantity of explosives, detonating caps and electric wires, two guns and several knives. Clark's boy friends said they had used the garage as a hunting club and had used the blasting powder in adventuresome explorations in the Hollywood hills.

Later police found more of the explosives in the garage of Clark's home at 133 North Normandie avenue, Captain of Detectives Wallis said.

In notes left to his mother and 12 others written in boyish code, the youth declared that he was about to end his life because a girl of his own age with whom he was in love loved another boy.

Ex-Policeman Faces Jury on Murder Charge

Herbert H. Selph, former police officer, yesterday went on trial before Superior Judge Fricke, on a charge of murder growing out of the shooting, September 3, last, of Mrs. Georgia Greggins Bowman, a barber of Watts, reputed to have been Selph's sweetheart.

Most of the day was spent in selecting a jury, eight men and four women finally being chosen to pass on Selph's fate.

Selph is asserted to have shot Mrs. Bowman in a Watts street following a quarrel. The indicated defense will be that Selph was intoxicated at the time and had no knowledge of the shooting.

Former Venice Mayor Ordered to Stand Trial

A handbag dropped by Mrs. Bessie Manck, 1081 Amoroso Place, Venice, when she was knocked down by an automobile on the Speedway and later found on the running board of a car in which Gordon O. Parkhurst, 49 Breeze avenue, former Mayor of Venice, was riding resulted yesterday in Municipal Judge Stutsmen ordering Parkhurst held for trial on charges of drunk and hit-and-run driving. Bail of $1000 was furnished.

Police Surgeon Joseph Saylin testified that Parkhurst was drunk when examined a few minutes after the mishap. According to Broker, Parkhurst has been fined several times for drunkenness.

Dolley on Trial as Echo of Theater Man's Case

Detective Denies He Tried to Approach Witness

Eunice Pringle Spectator in Courtroom

Harold H. Dolley, private detective and former prohibition agent, went on trial yesterday before Superior Judge Wilson on a charge of attempted tampering with Ivan Samsonoff, who had been subpoenaed as a witness in the recent trial of Alexander Pantages on a charge of attacking 17-year-old Eunice Pringle.

Dolley was asserted to have approached Samsonoff and to have offered the latter a bribe to influence his proposed testimony so that it would be advantageous to Pantages.

Samsonoff was the only witness called by the State. He testified that Dolley came to interview him about Miss Pringle and told him that the defense could not use him as a witness unless he could change his story.

Dolley, who took the witness stand in his own defense, admitted calling on Samsonoff in connection with his work as an investigator for Pantages, but denied trying to get Samsonoff to give false testimony. Dolley said he took Samsonoff to Defense Attorney W. I. Gilbert's office on one occasion, but that Gilbert was not in and it was decided to drop Samsonoff as a possible defense witness.

Dolley's story was corroborated partly by Carl Seawald, who testified he went to Samsonoff's apartment with Dolley. The defense also called a number of character witnesses.

Miss Pringle was in court during the trial and occupied a seat in the spectators' section. She was not called as a witness.

It is planned to give the case to the jury this morning.

DEATH ABATES COURT FI

Judge Rules Appeal in Stock Sales Felony W be Acted on as Result Would be Sam

If a person is convicted of a felony in the Superior Court, appeals from the judgment, then dies while the appeal is pending, questions involved become moot, the action abates as soon as the court ever knows what the higher court thinks of his guilt or innocence.

Such is the ruling of the District Court of Appeal, which has just filed in the case of the People against Jesse Alexander.

The question, in the form in which it was presented, never was passed upon before by a higher court in this State and is being widely commented on in legal circles.

Alexander was convicted last year before Superior Judge Yankwich of the violation of the Corporation Securities Act.

NO STOCK PERMIT

The defendant had invented a new typewriter, had organized a corporation in Nevada and sold stock in California without first obtaining a permit to sell stock here.

Judge Yankwich at the trial submitted to the jury the question whether the Nevada organization was in good faith or made with the intent to avoid the California Corporate Securities Act. The jury, evidently believing the parties went to Nevada for the purpose of avoiding the Corporate Securities Act, found Alexander guilty. He was sentenced to San Quentin. An appeal was taken to the District Court of Appeal. Pending the appeal Alexander was admitted to bail.

ALEXANDER DIES

A few months ago Alexander died and the Attorney-General's office asked the Appellate Court to abate all proceedings in the case.

The abatement move, however, was resisted by Alexander's attorney on the ground that even though Alexander is dead, the court should determine the legal questions involved, so that in case of a reversal his client's reputation would be vindicated.

COURT'S OPINION

The District Court of Appeal denied the request of Alexander's attorney. The court's opinion, written by Associate Justice Thompson, says:

"Counsel for appellant argues that this court should proceed to a determination of the merits of the appeal in order that the reputation of the deceased may not be assailed wrongfully, assuming of course, as he does, that such a consideration would result in a reversal.

"The argument, we think, proceeds from a wrong premise.

r-Husband Tells More of Preceding Events

The strange death of Mrs. Shelby Somerset, winner of a Texas oil contest and third wife of Somerset, former English actor, was explained yesterday afternoon with the report of Coroner Nash that a chemical analysis of the vital organs showed death the result of coronary sclerosis, a malady of the heart.

Additional light was shed on the circumstances of the sudden death at the home of the couple at 1423 Orchid Heights Monday at 4 a.m. when the husband was questioned by Captain of Detectives Wallace of the Hollywood station.

The police inquiry was instigated earlier in the day when it was announced that the autopsy was insufficient to determine definitely the cause of Mrs. Somerset's death and a further examination was ordered by Autopsy Surgeon Wagner. An immediate search was started for Somerset and he was located at the home of friends by Detective Sergeant Trosper, and taken to the Hollywood station, where he made a detailed statement of the last hours of his beautiful bride of only two years.

STORY RELATED

Somerset declared, according to detectives, that his wife was afflicted with epilepsy and suffered from one of the nervous malady about two months ago. He said that she was ill early Sunday night and that he and friends were at the home with her while she was in bed. Shortly before 2 a.m. Somerset said his wife called him to her bedside and asked for a glass of water. About an hour later she asked for a glass of milk. At that time, Somerset told the detectives, he noticed she was having an attack of her chronic affliction. He observed that she was resting as well as possible in the bed, and after speaking with her, returned to the living room with his visitors.

He believed that his wife was sleeping and about 4 a.m. went to see if she was getting along. Her appearance frightened him, Somerset said, and he immediately summoned Dr. H. W. Wall. When the physician reached the home he pronounced Mrs. Somerset dead. The doctor said that indications were that the woman had expired during her sleep from heart disease.

FAINTING SPELLS

The physician declined to sign a death certificate, because he had previously attended the former actress girl, and notified the Coroner. He declared that he had been informed by the husband and friends that Mrs. Somerset previously had been stricken with intermittent fainting spells.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF WIFE EXPLAINED

Somerset and his wife were married on December 6, 1927. She was the winner of a Galveston Mardi Gras beauty pageant some years ago, and before her marriage to Somerset was the wife of Shelby Worrell, wealthy Texan. She was only 21 years of age, but had won international recognition as a dancer, and was considered one of the most beautiful of American girls.

"The celebration on the night of the wedding started the couple on a hectic honeymoon, and both were placed in jail. Somerset was given a suspended fine for his wedding night escapade, and the charges of disturbing the peace against the wife were dismissed. The bride filed a suit for separate maintenance shortly after the marriage, charging cruelty. There was a reconciliation effected, however, and the couple had been living together in their Crescent Heights home for several months.

RECEPTION PREPARED FOR CHIROPRACTORS

Dr. A. B. Hender, dean of the Palmer School and manager of the Clearview sanatoriums of Pasadena and Davenport, Iowa, and Dr. Joy M. Loban, former president of the Universal Chiropractic College, Pittsburgh, are announced as the principal speakers.

SOIL TURNED FOR NEW S.C. GYNASIUM

Work Formally Begun on $750,000 Building to be Completed June 1, 1930

Formally starting construction on the new $750,000 physical education building of the University of Southern California, ground was broken at 10:30 a.m. yesterday at Thirty-sixth and Hoover streets.

The new gymnasium, which will consist of three stories, two above and one partially underground, is scheduled to be completed and dedicated June 1, 1930, during the university's semicentennial celebration. It will have a 250-foot frontage on Hoover street and 200-foot depth on Thirty-sixth street.

President Von KleinSmid addressed the students and faculty members at the ceremony yesterday. Dorothie Smith, vice-president of the Associated Students, assisted in breaking the first ground.

In conformity with the university's building expansion program the new gymnasium will be of Italian Romanesque architecture. It will be centered on a patio. Among its features will be an archery range, a rifle range, two swimming pools, a few classrooms, basketball courts, handball courts, a roof garden and solarium for sun baths and special training quarters for athletic teams.

Warrant Names Jack Mulhall

Jack Mulhall, film actor, is being sought by police warrant officers on a warrant issued for his arrest by Traffic Judge Swain yesterday.

Mulhall, who gave his address as 1533 McCadden Place, failed to appear or post bail following his arrest by Motorcycle Officer Bennett on the 5th inst. According to Bennett, the actor was speeding on Santa Monica Boulevard.

Sentence Today for Tax Adviser

Miss J. Marjorie Berger, Hollywood income-tax adviser, recently convicted of aiding and assisting Dorothy Mackaill, screen actress, in the making of false and fraudulent income-tax returns, is scheduled to appear today before United States District Judge Henning for sentence.

It was intimated that Miss Berger may compromise with the government with regard to six other charges against her prior to the passing of sentence.

STAFFORD SENTENCE DUE TODAY

El Monte Grain Dealer Facing Prison Expected to Seek New Trial

C. C. Stafford, wealthy El Monte grain dealer convicted last week of a statutory offense against 22-year-old Rae Schade, his former secretary, is scheduled to appear before Superior Judge Wilson today for sentence. Under the verdict returned in the case, Stafford faces a penitentiary term of from one to fifty years.

It is expected, however, that Defense Attorney W. J. Ford will forestall sentencing of Stafford by filing a motion for a new trial, which automatically will act as a stay until ruled upon by the court. The defense has indicated it will appeal if the motion is denied.

Miss Schade testified Stafford lured her to a cabin in Turnbull Canyon the afternoon of March 23, last, and there forced her to submit to his advances. Stafford's version of the affair was in direct opposition to that told by Miss Schade. He declared they went to the cabin at her suggestion and denied he used any force against her or that she resisted his love making.

The case was prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Simpson and Clark.

Attorney Freed in Plot Charge

Charges of conspiracy to commit grand and petty theft preferred against Jay Chotiner, attorney, in connection with the organization of a police and sheriffs' association, were dismissed yesterday by Superior Judge McComb for lack of evidence.

Arthur Lavan, a co-defendant in the case, pleaded guilty to one count of petty theft and filed an application for probation which will be heard, the 25th inst.

The charges were preferred against the two men in connection with asserted solicitation of contributions and sale of advertising for a proposed publication for the association.

hands relative to the conspiracy against me. I am sure that he will investigate the matter with all the vigor at his command," declared the Chief.

"No charges have been made against me as yet by the Police Commission," said Davis, "and therefore I have nothing to meet at this time. If and when the public charge has been made then I will answer it and as I have been told that the hearing this time will be public I am quite sure I will have a fair hearing."

At the District Attorney's office it was learned late yesterday afternoon that Chief Deputy Stewart will be placed in complete charge of the conspiracy investigation and will interview and take statements from all of the witnesses before the affair is presented to the grand jury.

"We are going to the bottom of this matter," declared Stewart last night. "I will make a searching investigation and if I find that the law has been violated will ask for indictments against any and all involved."

Manslaughter Charge Filed

John Clark Bebb, 37-year-old insurance salesman of 248 South Western avenue, yesterday was charged with manslaughter and failure to stop and render aid following an automobile accident, in a complaint issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty. David Coleman.

Coleman charges that Bebb ran down and killed Gladys Morgan at Temple street and Occidental Boulevard last Friday night and failed to stop after the accident.

Bebb, after thinking the matter over for several days, surrendered to Jeff Wheeler, an investigator for the District Attorney and an old school chum, according to Coleman.

Thirteen Years' Waiting in Vain

Mrs. Josefa Nava waited thirteen years for Maximum Nava to come home. He didn't come, so she went into court yesterday seeking a divorce. The hearing of the wife's petition was held before Superior Judge Baird.

"We were married in Los Angeles on May 7, 1910," the wife said. "My husband left in 1916. I have waited all these years for him to come back."

A decree was granted on the grounds of desertion.

WORKMAN INJURED IN NEAR FATALITY

Dodging death yesterday when a ponderous elevator weight grazed his head, Roy Tong, 38 years of age, of 314 Gerceion avenue, received a fractured thigh. He was working in an elevator shaft of a building being constructed at Eighth and Hill streets when a weight descended in its slot. Tong was standing directly beneath it and had time only to sway his head and upper body aside, when the weight crushed his thigh and caused possible internal injuries. He was taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

Lax Permit System Blamed for Loose Explosive

Dynamite in Garage Traced to Rock Plant Theft

Suspicion that a steel pipe bomb and fifty pounds of black powder discovered under an abandoned stage set at the old Metro studios, Cahuenga Boulevard and Willoughby street, had been planted there by some one with intent to blow up the studios was tentatively discarded by police yesterday following a preliminary investigation.

It was pointed out by Detective Lieutenants Colling and Slaughter of the safe and loft squad that the explosive material found was excessively covered with dust and cobwebs indicating that it had been under the stage for many months and that the bomb, though evidently having been constructed by an expert, was not wired or in position to explode.

The detectives stated it was their belief that some motion-picture company had, perhaps, used some of the explosives on location and had forgotten the material under the stage. Officials of the studios will be questioned.

Numerous similar finds of blasting powder have been made recently in various sections of the city, according to police records. Capt. Katzenberger declares that at one time such permits were granted by the police department only after thorough investigation as to handling. These permits are now given out by the city engineering department, Katzenberger stated, and persons handling explosives are left to dispose of unused material at their own discretion.

Four cubic feet of dynamite and other blasting powder discovered in two garages with the suicide of Fay Bud Clark of 1133 North Normandie avenue, has been identified as having been stolen from the Union Rock Company in Brush Canyon.

VETERAN OF 'TIMES' PASSES ON

Death Takes L. A. Cary After Thirty-three Years on Stereotyping Force

Thirty-three years of continuous and faithful service to The Times was brought to an end by the death last night of Lewis A. Cary of The Times stereotyping department at his home, 2323 Temple street, after an illness of three months. He was born fifty years ago in Westminster, the son of pioneer parents, his mother having come across the continent in a covered wagon drawn by an ox team.

At the age of 17 Cary came to work for The Times in the stereotyping department and had worked in that department ever since. He was at work the night the old Times plant was bombed by union terrorists but escaped uninjured and was among those who hurried down to The Times auxiliary plant and helped get out the following morning's paper.

He leaves a wife, his mother, a daughter and three sisters, Mrs. Anna Brown and Mildred and Florence Cary. Arrangements for funeral services, which will be conducted from the W. A. Brown mortuary, had not been made last night.

Bandit Pair Rob Hermosa Beach Bank Employee

Two bandits driving a sports roadster yesterday afternoon held up C. E. Cummings, assistant cashier of the First Bank of Hermosa Beach, while he was alone in the building and robbed him of approximately $700, according to reports filed at the Sheriff's office.

Supplied with an accurate description of the men and the car they were driving, deputy Sheriffs under Capt. Howard Brooks last night were tracing clews which they believe will result in their apprehension soon.

Owner Must Muffle Dogs

James J. McDonough, dog fancier, of 3009½ South Vermont avenue, must devise a way to keep his dogs quiet or dispose of them within a week; otherwise he will face prosecution on charges of maintaining a nuisance. The ultimatum was handed down by Deputy City Prosecutor Chotiner yesterday following a hearing at which neighbors of McDonough complained of the noise made by the dogs.

McDonough went to the City Prosecutor's office supported by nearly a score of persons, who gathered in response to an advertisement in a newspaper Monday morning asking dog lovers to meet him there.

Neighbors told Chotiner that McDonough owns six dogs, two large ones and four puppies, and that "the big dogs start barking about 11 p.m. and keep it up all night and the puppies whine and cry just as soon as the others start in and keep going [illegible] long."

McDonough's [illegible]nt confined itself to more [illegible] when the complaint again[illegible]m was revealed.

THE THIRD OFFENSE

Here a wife has just drawn her third divorce from the same husband and is not prepared to give bond that another trip may not yet be made. She either likes that guy or else she hates him.

WANT A DRY COUNTRY

Now a scientist expresses the conviction that there were camels roaming the hills and plains of Idaho a hundred thousand years ago. There is a feeling that even now Bill Borah is doing all he can to bring them back.

CRACKED ICE

A whoopee party which resulted in a riot call and several cases of assault and battery was explained by one of the participants by indicating the opinion that they must have got some bad ice. Anyhow, there may have been some funny cracks in it.

TOPSY TURVY

Picture painted by a futurist won a $500 prize at the exhibition of the National Academy of Design although it was accidentally hung inside down. It would seem that the artist is entitled to a chance to see what would happen to his work if it were really right side up. Give him a show.

SONS OF THUNDER

One of our eloquent pulpiteers in criticising our clerical scold says that denunciation is reasonably certain to get a hearing, but it doesn't do much toward building up civilization. Moral progress is more apt to be in the keeping of those who do things or set an example than to rest with those who are throwing stones or pointing at scars.

MORE LINKS TO RIND

The Germans are cutting up the country around Berlin into golf links and country clubs. That section is becoming more attractive to many Americans than the Paris environment and the Germans figure that a sporty course with a case of Pilsener at the nineteenth hole will be very satisfying to tourists from Cincinnati. They aim to please. All the links are not Frankfurters.

THE FANCY PACKAGE

An economist says the day is at hand when the packers will get their meats direct to the consumers. There will be markets, of course, but the steaks and chops will be already cut and wrapped in natty packages by the stockyards magnates. There is the belief that people want to get all their rations in fancy boxes. But that isn't so. There are still a flock of folks who like to paw things over.

PITY THE TAXPAYER

It is claimed that pavement costs have been cut quite a bit since the department of public works has been reorganized. Heaven knows there is room for the practice of a bit of parsimony. Some of the six-inch jobs in asphaltic-concrete have been pinched back to 14 cents, which used to be considered a fancy figure itself. But with certain patented pavements running up to nearly 25 cents it was feared that that taxpayer wasn't being given much of a run for his money. If the department of public works can prove that they are cutting paving costs to the bone and giving the owners what they really want they may yet draw a few cheers.

DEPOSITS SHRUNK

For the first time this century the savings-bank deposits of the American people show a shrinkage. Last year was the biggest gain ever known in the history of the republic. The savings deposits expanded more than $2,000,000,000. But the year which ended July 1 told a different story. There was a loss in these deposits of over $200,000,000. But there is nothing to worry about. They are still enormous and Americans are merely paying their debts and easing off some of the losses in the stock market. The banks are not complaining and if they are content there is no room for disturbance. We still have the most prosperous massed citizenship the world has ever known.

THE PRESIDENT AND PEACE

Probably the most important idea put forward by President Hoover since he became President was his suggestion, made in his Armistice Day address, that complete freedom of the seas be given to food ships in time of war. The more this suggestion is analyzed the more pregnant it appears, the more likely to be influential in the prevention of war, in bringing about disarmament. It is not put forward for immediate action; it is, as the President says, an idea to be hammered out and perfected on the anvils of debate. It is not to be brought out in the London naval conference, at least not by any act of ours. But it can hardly fail to be in the background of those discussions as an impetus toward agreement.

For if food ships can be made exempt from blockade the reason, or the excuse, for a vast amount of naval armament disappears. Especially is this true in the case of England, which has always pleaded the necessity of keeping sea communications open so that her population, not agriculturally self-sustaining, will not be in danger of starvation. If this danger can be done away with, England, Japan, which is almost identically situated; Italy, which comes close to being an island, and other nations to which overseas food shipments are somewhat less important, will feel less need of armament, will less fear the possible consequences of not being protected at every point.

Then, too, this fear of what might happen in war, of which starvation is the most dreaded thing, is an incentive not only for defensive preparation, but for war itself. The feeling that the nation which gets in the first blow has the advantage in any conflict undoubtedly has captured the imaginations of strategists everywhere; it is put into words in the familiar phrase, "the best defense is a good offense;" and whether or not it can be historically supported it is generally accepted. Though a candid examination of the records discloses that aggressors frequently get the worst of it, the phrase or its equivalent is taught as an axiom in naval and military academies; and it cannot be denied that it contains a certain amount of truth.

Several wars, including in all probability the World War of 1914-1918, could have been prevented had this feeling not been in existence. The President's suggestion, carried into international law, would have a powerful tendency to slow up conflicts at their inception by removing a war hazard.

For the rest of his address the President was on familiar ground. His references to the Kellogg pact and its corollary, the World Court, were both timely and needed; the country cannot be too strongly impressed with the truth that a tribunal for the settlement of disputes as they arise has to be provided if the general peace treaty is to be effective. Renunciation of war is only one step; to it must be coupled the machinery for adjustment of differences by peaceful means. These differences are continually arising between nations, as they do between individuals, and if they are settled quickly they are soon forgotten; if allowed to accumulate, as they must if there are no facilities for speedy determination, they are a source of international irritation, distrust and suspicion.

In his speech, the President added further clarification to his position regarding the national defense. That defense, he said, must be adequate to prevent any invasion, but must not have "one gun or one armed man" beyond necessity. It depends upon the preparation made by other nations what necessity requires. Thus, warship reduction can take place only by agreement. "I have no faith in the reduction of armaments by example alone," he declared.

This is the speech of no visionary, no pacifist, but that of a man full of respect for facts and full of knowledge of how the world actually works. In his hands the country is safe.

A DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Education, being a growth of centuries, it is not possible to do much about it in a single week. There are too many illiterates in the United States. This is generally acknowledged. As a matter of fact one illiterate is one too many. But devoting one week out of the fifty-two to a general concentration on the objects and results of education—and then resting superbly on our oars, contemplating the while the works of the good Adam within us—won't go far to reduce the illiteracy among the hillbillies of South Carolina or the crackers of Georgia.

A week, however, given over to bringing teachers and children and parents to a general searching of souls for the betterment of the schools is a worthy move, the only objection to it being that it doesn't last long enough. But the attempt to make use of this well-intentioned purpose to spread propaganda for establishing a Department of Education at Washington, as is being done in some quarters, is partially to undo whatever good may be effected by the observance of Education Week.

Education must be taken care of in any community by educators best qualified by direct contact with the needs and demands of its local schools and the temperament of its people. South Carolina, through its State, county and city administration, has the only direct machinery for reaching the neglected thousands within its State borders. California can better reduce its small remaining percentage of illiterates by the efforts of its own boards of education than by submitting its problems to a number of more or less learned gentlemen 3000 miles away.

At present there is no demonstrable advantage in creating another bureaucracy at Washington even under so august a title as the Department of Education. It would provide another pie counter for hungry politicians, furnish another lobby for the ax-grinders, entangle our State colleges and schools in a bothersome web of Federal red tape and increase Federal taxes, but not much else. Its members would know nothing of the problem of hill-billies or crackers or of Mexican children in Los Angeles schools. It could reach no decision that could not be arrived at more quickly by local boards and authorities.

The whole trend of improving government is away from bureaucracy. Such is the Hoover method and it has found favor in the eyes of the people. Education Week should be carefully segregated from Bureaucracy Week.

THE BACKGROUND

After a man has been trimmed to the bone in the bear market how much cheer can he extract from the assurance that after all the affairs of the nation and its people are fundamentally sound? It is like the old explanation: The operation was a success, but the patient died.

AN EXCELLENT EXAMPLE

By James J. Montague

I never have had any dealings with kings
(None being among my near neighbors)
But I fancied they never could have any flings
And but little relief from their labors.
I thought they were busy with signing decrees,
And in issuing royal commissions,
And instead of enjoying an opulent ease,
They were slaves to their lofty positions.

I suppose that the kings who are ruling today
Found it needful to hustle like Babbits,
And subjected themselves to the heart-breaking sway
Of steady, industrious habits.
I imagined a man at the helm of a realm,
In return for his handsome per diem,
Must toil in a way that would quite overwhelm
A leisurely person like I am.

But Alfonso of Spain, so I learn from the press,
Exerts his monarchical powers,
Rules his country with widely admitted success,
And yet never keeps regular hours.
His duties, though many, are never a tax
On a calm and benign disposition,
While the fact that all businesslike habits he lacks
Accounts for his husky condition.

No more I regret that my teachers in school,
Though they toiled without pause or cessation,
Could never persuade me to follow a rule
In the years of my scant education.
In my mind an unpleasant suspicion may lurk
That I shall not be famous or wealthy,
But I am not a slave to the habit of work
And that is what's keeping me healthy.

The LEE SIDE O' LA
By Lee Shippey

THERE is one young man in this town who is trying hard to break himself of the fidgeting habit. When he comes to your desk to talk to you he absent-mindedly picks up a scrap of paper, twists it and rolls it in his fingers as he talks and usually winds up by tearing it up or rolling it into a wad and tossing it away. So Hawkins laid a trap for him.

The first step was to borrow $10 from him. A few days later, when the fidgety man hove in sight, Hawkins called to him and wrote him a check for the $10. Then Hawkins presented the check, accompanied by a receipt.

"You're such a forgetful chap I'll just ask you to sign a receipt for that."

Somewhat surprised, the other signed the receipt and picked up the check.

Ten Dollars a Lesson

"You may think that odd," Hawkins said, reminiscently, "but you'd be surprised to know how often people who have been paid small amounts forget about it. Only the other day—" and Hawkins proceeded with a narrative.

That suggested one to the man who had just picked up the check, and before he got through telling it the check had been demolished.

Then it was time for both of them to get to work, and they separated.

An hour later Hawkins's phone rang. "Say, said an anxious voice, "did you give me that check you started to give me? I can't find it anywhere."

"Sure did," said Hawkins. "Don't you remember, you gave me a receipt for it?"

"Yes, I remember that. But I can't remember what I did with the check."

"Search me. I haven't got it. So long."

"I figure the lesson will be worth the money to him," Hawkins confided to his secretary. "And the teacher is worthy of his hire. I'm going out now and buy a nice, new hat."

Look Up, Not Down!

Leeside: In spite of all the optimism and cheer the luncheon clubs dispense, Sadie Straphanger notes that more men than ever are looking down, not up. "For best results," she suggests, "the street-car advertisements should be placed on the floor, instead of overhead."—C. G. K., Sr.

More Than One "Doug"

Byron Douglas doesn't look like a newspaper man, being tall, handsome and distinguished-looking. All the same, the fellers call him "Doug." The other night he went to the Chinese Theater and got there early. So instead of sitting impatiently inside he posted himself in the lobby, near a life-sized figure to which he paid no attention, to look over the crowd. A moment later a man passed, nodded and said:

"Hello, Doug."

"Doug" couldn't place him, but grinned and nodded anyway. Then a passing couple, both strange to him, surprised him with the same salutation. And then a man he thought he recognized as a noted actor hailed him in the same familiar manner.

"By golly!" murmured "Doug," "I can't remember meeting all these people. It must have been quite a party. I've got to get to the bottom of this mystery."

Two very lovely girls came next and both called: "Hello, Doug."

"Doug" swept off his hat. "How-de-do," he replied. "I'm certainly glad to see you again."

The girls looked him over coolly. "We were speaking to the statue," said one, frigidly.

Then "Doug" looked at the figure against which he had been leaning. It was a life-sized, lifelike representation of Douglas Fairbanks as the Gaucho.

"Doug" decided not to stay for the show, after all.

Modern Papoose Bag

You can always see something funny at the Grand Central Market.

Yesterday we saw a woman carrying a baby stagger up to a counter and demand one of those big paper market bags. We wondered how she was going to carry that bag and the baby, too, but she soon showed us. She dropped the baby into the bag, so that only its head stuck out, and proceeded to her marketing.

All went well for a while, and quite a gallery followed the woman as she proceeded to fill another bag. She seemed to realize that she was being admired for her ingenuity and paraded proudly.

But pride goeth before a fall—and dampness has a disastrous effect on paper. In the midst of her triumph there was a sudden outcry. The bottom had come out of the bag and the baby suddenly had dropped on the floor.

After that we couldn't see what happened. The crowd about her got too dense, but we think the baby got a change of clothing and another bag.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

THE FIGHT ON BUREAUCRACY

[Chicago Daily News]

President Hoover's dislike of bureaucracy may or may not have suggested to the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of Education the desirability of restoring to the Federal Bureau of Education its original and unpretentious name, the office of education. Formal announcement of the restoration has provoked many comments which Washington bureaucrats must find unpalatable, since manifestly the comments are, like the change of name, symptomatic.

For years a movement has been promoted by well-meaning persons for the establishment of a Federal department of education directed by a full-fledged secretary and member of the President's Cabinet. The renaming of the agency presided over by the Commissioner of Education is a step in the opposite direction. The office of education, it appears, is to limit itself strictly to research and fact-finding. Grandiose plans for extensions of its operations are to be renounced. The educational systems of the various States are not to be menaced by centralized bureaucratic control.

The announcement of this change by the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of Education happens to synchronize with the publication of a scathing report on bureaucracy by the American Bar Association's standing committee on citizenship. In that document attention is directed to the blunders of bureaucrats and to their resolute opposition to reorganization and reformation of the administrative departments of the Federal government.

A fight on bureaucracy is a fight on spoils politics. Progress toward proper reorganization of governmental agencies will be slow at the best. Certainly the demands of the bureaucrats for more power and additional jobs should be resisted vigorously by the public and its worthy leaders.

WATERWAYS COSTS

[San Francisco Chronicle]

The impression left by President Hoover's outline of the administration's waterway program is one of prudent investment rather than of increased spending of the nation's capital.

It was doubtless a surprise to the public to learn from the President's Louisville speech that the comprehensive plan of internal improvements for which he received a mandate at the last election will be carried forward with an outlay of only $10,000,000 a year more than the current expenditure on inland waterways.

Even with the addition of the St. Lawrence improvements to bring ocean-going ships into the Great Lakes the yearly appropriations would be only $20,000,000 more than the present yearly cost of work on the waterways.

"SON OF THE LATE TYRANT"

[New York Sun]

If there are Jacobites left they will be amazed to learn that the search for Charles Stuart is still being carried on. At Lyme Regis in England, whence the son of the first Charles hoped to flee to France, the town crier is still reading the proclamation that begins:

"Whereas Charles Stuart, son of the late tyrant, with divers of the English and Scotch nation, have been defeated, and the chief actors slain and taken prisoners . . ."

The town crier's family has lived in Lyme Regis since the days of the first Edward; to him the lapse of two and a half centuries may seem but a whisper of time. It comes as an anticlimax to learn that his duties include, besides warning the populace against harboring Charles Stuart, announcement of forthcoming motion pictures at the Drill Hall.

LETTERS TO The Times

San Diego, Not Sunnyvale

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In 1871 I arrived in San Francisco and much of my life has been spent upon and around this Bay of San Francisco.

For seventeen years last past I have lived in San Diego and am familiar with and have owned property near the suggested San Diego base.

North of this bay at Point Reyes near San Francisco, the high winds are often terrific and on and about this bay of San Francisco the fogs are very often as thick as London fogs, making the use and handling of these giant airships most hazardous; whereas the winds and climatic conditions around San Diego Bay are almost always most congenial and seldom if ever too severe to prevent use of a giant ship. Furthermore, the fogs are much less frequent or dense at San Diego and at the proposed base, which is nearer actually navigable water than the Sunnyvale base, there have been in the past seventeen years only parts of two days in which such a ship might have had trouble with fog or have been temporarily prevented from landing.

For goodness sake don't allow political pull to displace this valuable base and risk the loss of lives and property. We should have a base where, in case of trouble, the ships could get away and get home easily. That is most dubious here in San Francisco, where I happen to be protem.

Sing Sweet Slumber

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I wish some of the unexcelled writers on The Times would express what I feel when I hear the movie actresses singing in the talkies. They may sing well enough to sing the babies to sleep, but not well enough for the public. They can't replace the good organists and orchestras that have been done away with. On the radio we have to hear a lot of poor music to get a little good music and I hope the talkies won't get so we have to hear a lot of poor music to hear a good talkie.

When Doctors Disagree

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] That there is a wide divergence of opinion among medical men regarding the "beneficent results of animal experimentation" and its products of vivisectional medicine—is being attested by their spoken and written words in the medical journals and a progressive press.

Diphtheria antitoxin, according to the Army Medical Journal, May 15, 1923, says: "Medical opinion generally is rapidly coming over to the side of believing it advisable to eliminate the prophylactic use of antitoxin." The deaths of twelve children in Bundaberg, Queensland, Australia, in 1928—also the number of ten children killed and forty maimed and crippled for life at Dallas, Tex., in 1919; as a result of the use of antitoxin for diphtheria, to say nothing about the scores of deaths that are never made public. All this mortality procession raises the question, has animal experimentation proven its value up to the hilt?"

The serum treatment for rabies, for typhoid, diabetes and all the other much-heralded diseases, including vaccination for smallpox, would fall like a house of cards were it not for the huge professional commercialism. In England 75 per cent of the civilian population is unvaccinated and its death rate from smallpox is infinitesimal.

Dead Languages

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Will George I. Storey define what he means by the cultural value of Greek and Latin? It is not necessary to know those languages in order to understand our mother tongue. If we were to be guided by the meaning of the roots from which many of our words are taken we should often be misled, as usage has changed it in scores of words. Example, "prevent," provoke," "transpire," etc. It is not in the least necessary for us to know that "sine cere" means "without wax," in order for us to understand the meaning of "sincere." It is very likely that years of study will not enable a modern to acquire the knowledge of the classical languages that a Greek or Latin plowboy had. It seems to me that study of those tongues merely gives pedants an opportunity of assuming superiority over those who have been more usefully occupied and it would be interesting if George I. Storey would define what that superiority consists in.

American Cosmetics for the World

The manufacture of cosmetics in the United States has bounded ahead enormously in the past few years. The women of the whole world have had their beauty formulas and have made use of them for ages but they have never had these preparations in such variety and in such convenient shapes as are put up by the manufacturers in this country. Since 1910 the exports of toilet preparations and perfumes have increased by 1000 per cent, and have now reached the value of $8,850,000. Most of this material goes to Europe, but Asia is also a good customer.

Russia has 7500 miles of regular flying routes, her line between Moscow and Irkutsk being more than 3000 miles long.

THE AIRPLANE

BY HARRY BOWLING

The most far-reaching revolution in the history of mankind is already under way—and its instrument is the airplane. It has already progressed far enough to establish its place among the mightiest achievements of human brain power. Its present uses are definitely proven; its future possibilities are infinite.

Adventure, romance, excitement, novelty, the spectacular—it has passed through all these stages of growth. It has emerged a practical, steady, reliable weapon, forged by mechanics and mathematicians to present the freedom of the air to erstwhile earthmen. It has matched speed against gravity and given speed the victory.

This is the sure hope for the extension of the conquest of the air, that the soldiers of science refuse to rest content with what has already been achieved. It is a sad day for any human invention when its sponsors confess that there are no fields left for further experimentation.

As for the airplane it attracts to its cause the best brains of the growing generation and has so made itself solid with irresistible youth. In an era dominated by science and machinery the airplane has seized the imagination of a newer breed or artists and poets, whose studio is the workshop, whose goal is the patent office, whose epics will be written over a bench and lathe and released for publication in the sky.

Already the airplane touches more phases of human activities and relationships than any of the contributions made by genius to a modern world in flux. Everywhere the trend is against a past that moved too slowly. The motor car was a revolt; the radio was a rebellion; the airplane is a revolution.

It is erasing international boundaries, making counties of continents, turning oceans into water jumps. It has crossed out the words "terra incognita" from the maps of the world. It has broken the secrecy of earth's last continent.

With the threat of the destruction it can unleash it helps to outlaw war. With the ease and rapidity it has supplied for speeding up commerce and intercourse between peoples formerly far apart it is bringing all nations into the fold of peace. What it may do, even more than what it has done, is changing the mental and spiritual outlook of all kindreds and nations.

No issue is too grand for the airplane to affect it. No need is too homely for the airplane to overlook it. As with peace and war and international relationships it is abolishing the old, so with farming and forestry and foodstuffs it is introducing the new.

It is fast becoming the main reliance for the detection of forest fires and offers the best first-aid measures for extinguishing the flames. It can scatter seeds for reforesting rough and rugged country or sow broadcast the vast modern grain fields cultivated in 10,000-acre tracts. It can spray trees and herbage more thoroughly than any power pump at present in operation and is man's best friend and ally in fighting such pests as the boll weevil and the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Thus in all the intricacies of our modern life the airplane has a place or is destined to find one. In its full and final acceptance it will rebuild our cities to meet entirely changed methods of travel and living and carry men and all the works of men's hands at a speed beyond the conception of our fathers and with a safety and economy incredible to those who witnessed its early stages of development.

This week Los Angeles pays its honors and respects to the airplane. In the not far future the airplane will be conferring greater honors and distinctions on Los Angeles if we have the vision we are believed to have.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

Sewing Fundamentals?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

Elsie Mabel Hackney, with two years' trade experience at the De Mille studio, and also experience in Bullock's dressmaking department, teaches the fundamentals of sewing to both day and evening classes under the supervision of the Los Angeles public schools. These classes are all for adults and are all free.

The course includes the making of a muslin pattern to individual measurements and from this any new designs can be adapted. Students learn to take measures properly, to know different materials, to handle different materials and to sew and press them. There is also instruction in colors and color combinations suitable to certain individuals and for certain occasions.

Miss Hackney's evening classes are from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at Polytechnic, 400 West Washington, in room 286 of the Cafeteria Building. Her day classes are from 9 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 3 p.m. as follows: Mondays, Cienega School, 5140 West Adams; Tuesdays, Amelia-street School, 410 Amelia street; Wednesdays, Bandini School, 425 Bandini street, San Pedro; Thursdays, Ford-Boulevard school 1150 Ford Boulevard; Fridays, Burnside School, 1515 Burnside avenue.

The giraffe without a doubt would make the ideal radio announcer, for it cannot utter a sound. It is the only animal in existence that has no tonsils.

EXPERTS ON HIGH-POWER MOTOR TALK

Society of Automotive Engineers Gathers 500 Strong at Session Here

The Diesel high-speed motor for aircraft—that spontaneous combustion power unit which, the layman is told, will solve the problems of the airways—was given a fair hearing last night by two men who are numbered in engineering circles among the few fitted to comment authoritatively on the new engine.

Technical papers by E. T. Vincent, who supervised construction of the motors for England's mammoth airship, the R-101, and now chief engineer of the local Emsco Aero Engine Company, and Commander E. E. Wilson, one of the ranking navy-aircraft motor experts, setting forth the advantages and disadvantages of the Diesel engine, were read to nearly 500 members of the Society of Automotive Engineers at the Alexandria.

The fuel saving through Diesel power in the air was noted by Vincent in the statement that "in the case of a large transport ship there is a saving of $21 per hour in operating costs, coupled with a saving of 150 pounds per hour of flight in weight of fuel carried—which for a four-hour journey would increase the actual pay load by the equivalent of four additional passengers. This saving would be a material aid in placing air transport on a paying basis."

Commander Wilson, however, in a paper read by Gerard Vultee, chief engineer of Lockheed Aircraft Company, considers the fuel-saving advantage of the Diesel motor negligible. It is his contention that if enough Diesel power plants are placed in the air operation their fuel, heavy oil, would rise in price to practically that of gasoline.

Reduction of fire hazard by the Diesel motor with its lack of ignition system, is stressed by Commander Wilson. He also asserts that the future Diesel motors will compare favorably with gasoline ones for weight, cost, dependability, durability and maintenance.

The engineers will meet at the Alexandria again tonight to hear papers on other aviation subjects.

DISMISSAL REQUESTED IN SIGN SUIT

Attorneys Assert Gambling Placard on Neighbor's House Not Definite Libel

Motion to dismiss the $15,000 damage suit of Mrs. Anna Slater against her next-door neighbor, Mrs. Annie Hughes of 3101 Walton avenue, because the "gambling sign" Mrs. Hughes placed on her door, assertedly referring would-be gamblers to Mrs. Slater's address was not a definite libel, was taken under advisement by Superior Judge Keetch yesterday.

The sign read: "No gamblers live here. For gambling and bets apply next door, 3105 Walton avenue,—Slaters."

Attorneys forced Mrs. Slater to admit that when she sued her husband, Ernest Slater, for divorce, she asserted he brought gamblers to his home.

Mrs. Hughes and her husband, William Hughes, declared they had been annoyed seven years by persons seeking a place to place bets, for whom they would inquire under the name of Slater.

Farmers Plan to See How It's Done in Mexico

A party of 100 influential farmers of western and middle western States will leave Los Angeles January 15, 1930, on a trip through Mexico to make a survey of farming conditions, according to Thomas Allen Box, who will be in charge of the delegation from this State.

"Plans for a visit to Mexico of fifty farmers of Minnesota, North and South Dakota were formulated at the recent tri-State farmers' convention at Bismarck, N. D.," said Mr. Box. "I am now arranging for fifty farmers of California, Washington and Oregon to meet the party here and join in the excursion. The party will be gone a month and will spend part of the time at the W. J. Hotchkiss ranch near Tepic in the State of Nayarit."

NEW BADGES FOR POLICE ORDERED

Board Also Directs Change in Special Type

Officers and Others Must Pay $5 Into Fund

All Old Insignia Become "Outlawed" December 31

A new type of badge to be worn by all members of the police department, and a separate type of badge for those granted police authority outside the department was ordered adopted by the Police Commission yesterday on recommendation of a special committee composed of Commissioners Pierce and Drake. The new badges go into use on January 1, next.

The order provides that all special badges heretofore issued by the commission to night watchmen, special policemen, employees of various city departments and others will be revoked on December 1, 1929, and the new special badges issued at $5 each. All present badges issued will be "outlawed" after the end of the year.

OFFICERS MUST PAY

Chief Davis was authorized to obtain the necessary number of badges for police department use, to order their use and to collect $5 each from every officer for the new badge. He also was instructed to establish a badge trust fund in which to place all badge money collected and place it in a bank to be designated by the commission. He was directed to establish an adequate accounting system so that the condition of the badge fund may be ascertained at any time.

Press badges, of the same design as those used by the police, were authorized at a charge of $5 each. They are to be issued to the general manager of such publications as the board from time to time may designate.

The order provides a refund of $4 for all police type badges turned in when no longer required and $2.50 refund on the special police type badges.

PLAN ORDINANCE

On motion of Commissioner Drake, Secretary Jeffers was directed to take up with the City Attorney the matter of drawing up an ordinance making it an offense for all persons illegally to be in possession of the new badges, also to discuss with the City Attorney any legal matters necessary in connection with the new issue.

Drake explained that the manufacturer of the badges is to register and have copyrighted the new type badges so that they may not be copied.

LAND SHOW TENT PLEA APPROVED

Council Grants Permit With No Smoking Proviso After Lengthy Debate

The advisability of granting any more permits to conduct shows or expositions in tents was debated at some length by Council yesterday before it disregarded the recommendation of its Building and Safety Committee and voted, 10 to 2, to permit the Los Angeles Realty Board to hold a land products show in a large tent at Hill and Washington streets next February.

In taking this action, however, Council specified that no smoking be allowed in the tent, and in view of this proviso even Councilman McAllister voted to grant the permit, although he had presented the adverse report against it as chairman of the committee. The negative votes were cast by Williams and Jacobson.

The Realty Board specified in asking for the permit that all the canvas used in the tent will be treated with a fireproofing preparation. Nevertheless Fire Chief Scott had recommended against the granting of the permit and it appeared that Council, having the disastrous auto show fire in mind, was about to refuse the application when Councilman Martin made the suggestion that it be granted with the no-smoking proviso.

Nelson & Price Obtain Record Tire Contract

Nelson & Price, Inc., has obtained the franchise for Dayton tire distribution in Southern California, it was announced yesterday by Frank T. Price, president. The transaction is asserted to be the largest ever consummated in the history of the tire industry, involving almost $50,000,000. It is in the form of a long-term contract with the Dayton Rubber Manufacturing Company, tire manufacturers. John A. MacMillan, president of the Dayton concern, came here to negotiate the franchise.

"To obtain Nelson & Price, Inc., sponsorship as distributors of Dayton tires in Southern California, the world's greatest retail tire field, is a signal triumph," MacMillan said.

Nelson & Price, Inc., with headquarters at 1323 South Flower street, and seventeen branches in Southern California, is said to be the world's largest retail tire firm.

UNC' BILLY POSSUM FINDS FEATHERS

Feathers sometimes more will show,
Than the way the wind doth blow.
—Unc' Billy Possum.

Unc' Billy Possum sat in his doorway. Unc' Billy lives in a hollow tree in the Green Forest and his doorway is the opening to that hollow. It was late in the afternoon. Unc' Billy had been asleep most of the day. You see, he had been out all of the night before. He was trying to make up his mind where to go.

"Ah would like somethin', but I don't know what Ah want. Ah is hongry. Yes, sah, Ah is hongry." Unc' Billy was talking to himself. For a few moments more he sat there in his doorway. Then he came out and climbed down. He shuffled off through the leaves toward the Crooked Little Path. Once he stopped beside a rotted old stump. He dug around in the center of it and found a big beetle. He ate the beetle and smacked his lips. Then he went on.

Unc' Billy remembered a certain grapevine on the edge of the Green Forest. He left the Crooked Little Path and headed for that grapevine. There might be a few frosted grapes left yet. They would taste good even if they were frosted. Unc' Billy isn't particular about his food. All he asks is plenty of it. When he reached the grapevine he found Mr. and Mrs. Grouse there. They had been feeding on grapes and there were few, very few, left. Unc' Billy looked hungrily at Mrs. Grouse. But he knew better than to try to catch her. He knew that she was too quick to be caught by him. So he then turned his attention to such grapes as he could find, climbing about in the grapevine and hanging on with that useful tail of his. Once he hung by his tail in order to reach some grapes below.

"Ah don' know what Ah'd do without this tail of mine," thought Unc' Billy. "Ah don' see how Brer Coon and Brer Fox and Brer Skunk get along with such tails as they have. 'Pears to me their tails are mostly to look at. Mah tail may not be much to look at, but it sho is handy. Ah wouldn't trade this ol' tail of mine fo' any other tail in the Green Forest."

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

TUNA MOUSSE

One large can of tuna, three egg whites, one teaspoonful of cornstarch, one and one-half cupfuls of heavy cream, one pimiento, season with salt and paprika.

Drain the oil from the tuna and pimiento, shred the tuna, beat the cream stiff, add the tuna, then the egg whites stiffly beaten, and the pimiento cut in strips. Garnish a well-buttered mold, with pimiento strips, turn in the mixture and cook in a medium oven, set in a pan of hot water and cover with oiled paper. Serve with parsley sauce.

PARSLEY SAUCE

Two tablespoonfuls of butter, two teaspoonfuls of flour, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, one tablespoonful chopped parsley, season with salt and paprika. Blend the butter and flour, cook until thick. Add the parsley and seasonings.

LAMBS' HEARTS

Wash three lamb hearts and carefully slice across the grain. Heat three tablespoonfuls of butter in a saute pan, add the sliced hearts and stir and cook until brown; add enough hot water to cover, season with salt and pepper, add a bay leaf, and three slices of lemon. Cover the pan and simmer slowly for one hour, stirring often and adding more water if necessary. When tender remove the hearts to a hot dish, stir into the gravy one tablespoonful of flour mixed to a paste with three tablespoonfuls of water and stir and cook five minutes; pour over the hearts and serve hot.

MARMALADE PIE

Mix one cupful of orange marmalade with three level teaspoonfuls of corn starch, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, and two well-beaten egg yolks; mix well, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, and pour into a pastry line pie tin. Place in a hot oven for five minutes, reduce the heat and bake until firm.

ORANGE BREAD PUDDING

Cover one and a half cupfuls of fine bread crumbs with three cupfuls of milk, and let stand fifteen minutes; add to them three well-beaten eggs, half a teaspoonful of salt, three cupfuls of peeled and diced oranges; two tablespoonfuls of grated orange rind, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, and three-quarters of a cupful of sugar, mix well, pour into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a moderate oven thirty-five minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER BLDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 4 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, colds, the new baby bleeding, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of eczema, cod liver oil, orange juice, bilious, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO KNOW ABOUT WEANING?

When mothers write to me about weaning problems I am always regretful if they fail to sign their full names and addresses, because I could be of so much more help. I have a leaflet on weaning which answers all the questions which bother mothers at this period of the child's development. It is sent without charge, although we expect requests for leaflets to be accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes. Here's a mother who is many months overdue for a weaning leaflet:

Mrs. E. T. writes: "Will you tell me how I can wean my baby? I have tried so many ways. He is one year and three months of age and eats all kinds of things, but he wants to nurse all night long. I am so weak and tired."

ANSWER

Can this be? Why do you give in to nursing a baby all night long. I am afraid he is sleeping with you. And you can end this habit when you put baby in his own bed, let some one offer him water only at night when he wakes up and discontinue this habit today. Don't even try to taper it off, just stop it. If the child is well fed in daytime . . . (and we offer a leaflet on feeding which you may have for only a self-addressed stamped envelope) . . . he doesn't need anything to eat at night. If he isn't well nourished it is because he isn't satisfied with his diet, and it is up to you to find out what he should have to make him contented on three meals a day. Won't you please stop nursing him right away? And stay out of baby's sight at night.

MODERATION IN HOUSEKEEPING

"I do not feel the words 'housekeeper,' and 'home-keeper' are synonomous, do you?" writes Mrs. R. McK. "Always an interested reader of your column, I was much pleased today with the 'Begin early for future training' article. I believe as does Mrs. L. O. D. that housework can go undone to give more time to early training. It is time enough when children are grown and gone to become expert housekeepers. In a corner of the mirror of my kitchen cabinet I have the following little verse placed so I can read it often:

"O give me patience, when the little hands
Tug at me with their ceaseless, small demands
O, give me gentle words and smiling eyes,
And keep my lips from hasty, sharp replies
Let me not in weariness, confusion and noise
Obscure my vision from life's fleeting joys.
Then when in years to come my house is still
No bitter memories its rooms may fill."

I am wondering, Mrs. R. McK. if you and Mrs. A. McK., who has often written me, are in any way connected. At first glance I thought you were the same, the name is so unusual as to be unforgettable. As for leaving the housework, some can and some can't. It is distressing, but true, that a disorderly house is as nerve-shattering to some housekeepers as a half dozen children to some people. Because I belong to that army of housekeepers who must have order at any cost, I believe this is a program which every mother cannot follow. I will always believe that mothers must learn to manage so that they can have a clean and orderly house without neglecting the children. Such an influence is beneficial to growing children. Ordered housekeeping instils orderly habits of mind early in life. Of course all good things can be carried to extremes, and I am just as rabid against housekeepers who make the spotlessness of their homes a god to be worshiped.

Health and Diet

ADVICE

by DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

FILLING THE HOLLOWS

There are probably more people with a natural inclination to be skinny than there are with a tendency to be fat. This is fortunate, as it is fashionable to be thin now, and it is much more difficult to gain than to lose weight. The difficulty of the underweights is that no matter how hard they have tried and are still trying to gain a few more pounds, the adiposity always seems to elude them. Rarely are they able to gain, and if they do, they lose soon again, whereupon they often become discouraged and quit trying.

Gaining is not merely a problem of eating more food unless, of course, one has been through a definite food famine or starving period. Malnutrition may often occur, even though one is eating heartily, by not including the right foods.

The normal person has a pleasing amount of flesh over the bony frame. The most attractive contour is that of nicely developed muscle covered with old Mother Nature's cleverly laid thin layer of fat. Exercises do not spoil the contours, as it is well known that most dancers have very shapely legs, since the exercises put on a natural curve along the calf and thigh and take off offensive fat by increasing the circulation.

There are many factors responsible for a perfect body weight. One must have a wholesome, nutritious diet, the right amount of exercises, fresh air, sleep, water, and a contented or happy mental condition. Any of these may prove to be the key that unlocks the golden chest yielding the correct amount of weight.

One should take enough of the body building exercises, the kind that makes the heart pump the blood around in an enthusiastic manner, strengthening the abdominal muscles, and stretching the muscles along the sides and down the back which you had forgotten were on the job. Such exercises stimulate the muscles of respiration so that you breathe in large quantities of the oxygen cocktail called fresh air. In other words, to gain weight one should indulge in the sort of exercises one gloried in as a child—exercises that make you feel like shouting and laughing, all intoxicated with the marvelous well being that surges over you from top to toe. There are thousands of people who find out that they only gain when they exercise and play in the open air. This is the reason why many people gain during the summer vacation, when they have been out in the great open spaces filling up their lungs with fresh air.

Most city dwellers are oxygen starved from one year's end to the other. The blood is not properly or efficiently aerated. As far as they can see over their heads they gaze into a perfect ocean of fresh air, and yet they are literally hungry for lack of it. Without the air in their lungs their bodies fail to use and oxidize the food they eat.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

COURT TO HEAR GAS CURB TILT

Arguments on Writ Blocking State Set for Today

Oil Operators Got Order to Head Off Injunction

Action Shows Supreme Bench Move Not Likely

Oral argument on the writ of prohibition obtained by Santa Fe Springs oil operators to restrain Superior Judge Hazlett from continuing hearings on the injunction proceedings brought against them by the State in its gas conservation fight, will be heard in the Appellate Court at 10 o'clock today.

Originally scheduled for hearing before Justices Conrey, York and Houser in Division One of the Court of Appeals yesterday morning, a continuance was granted at the request of Robert B. Murphey, attorney for the operators.

RUMORS QUIETED

Setting by Justice Conrey of the hearing today put at rest rumors that jurisdiction on the writ of prohibition would be transferred to the Supreme Court. Originally called for October 29, last, the hearing was continued until yesterday by Justice Conrey, who, along with other interested parties, declined to make public the reason for the continuance. It was declared later, however, that plans were afoot to move the case into the Supreme Court.

The writ sought by the operators brought to a halt four weeks ago the hearings conducted by Superior Judge Hazlett on the injunction suits launched by the State Conservation Commission and the State Attorney-General to force oil operators to comply with the new State law governing wastage of natural gas in California fields. The operators sought to have the Superior Court name owners, trustees and mortgagees as defendants jointly with the operators and the writ of prohibition was applied for in the Appellate Court when Judge Hazlett declined to comply.

MOVE TO VACATE

It was indicated that when the hearing on the writ is called in the Appellate Court today special counsel for the State Conservation Commission, prosecuting the injunction proceedings, will move for an order vacating the writ.

Oil companies involved as defendants in the injunction proceedings are the Wilshire Oil Company, Wilshire Annex, Ambassador Petroleum Company and the Bandini Petroleum Company.

AGGIES WILL GATHER

The eleventh annual World Aggie Night will be celebrated by Los Angeles alumni of Massachusetts Agricultural College at a dinner and reunion Friday evening at the University Club. The occasion is observed in all parts of the country. Dr. Charles H. Griffith, class of '04, is chairman of the arrangement committee.

KINFOLK OF MRS. MOSSIN FIGHT WILL

Relatives Charge Fraud in Signing and Witnessing of $200,000 Instrument

Asserting fraud in the signing and witnessing of a will to a $200,000 estate, relatives of Mrs. Cecelia Mossin, who died July 12, last, at 86 years of age, leaving $150,000 to Mary Anne Keating, sister superior of St. Vincent's Hospital, yesterday filed a contest to the will asking that it be invalidated and set aside.

Besides Sister Superior Keating, a number of relatives, including the executors, William Wolters and H. K. Bagley, are named defendants. It is charged that Mrs. Mossin was not competent to make the will dated November 22, 1923, being afflicted with insanity at the time. It further is asserted that she did not sign the will, and that it was not properly witnessed.

Other heirs under the will are the Southwest Museum, the Little Sisters of the Poor, bequeathed $5000; the Los Angeles Orphan Asylum, $5000; William Wolters, brother of the decedent and executor of the will, $5000; Fred B. Stamm, $5000; John Stamm, a nephew, $5000, and May Schoeffler, niece, $1000.

Contesting relatives are Bertha O. Dietz, a half sister, Rochester, N. Y.; Blanche B. Frost, niece, Rochester; Elizabeth B. Cowley, Raymond L., Frances H., John B., George B., Frank H., Walter L., Mary L., Bernard F., and Marie V. Schoeffler, nieces and nephews of Rochester and South Pasadena.

Attorney Charles E. R. Fulcher filed the contest. Attorneys for the estate are R. J. Dilber and S. Ward Sullivan.

Two Named to Discuss Ferry

As an aid toward reaching a solution of the controversy over the San Pedro-Terminal Island ferry service, City Council yesterday appointed Merrill Butler, head of the structural desk division of the City Engineering Department, as its representative on a committee of two which will hold a series of conferences on the subject with interested citizens of San Pedro. The other member of the committee will be George F. Nicholson, engineer for the Harbor Department.

The citizens who have been complaining that the present service is inadequate have suggested that it be replaced by a municipally-owned and operated ferry line. Another suggestion advanced is that a pedestrian and automobile tunnel be bored under the channel between San Pedro and Terminal Island, but it has been estimated that such a tunnel would cost between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000.

FORMER PATIENT CHOOSES SANATORIUM FOR WEDDING

Romance with a capital R entered the doors of the Milton H. Berry Institution of Physical Reeducation in Van Nuys on Armistice Day when a former pupil of the institute chose that place as the setting of a wedding that has been delayed for four long years.

Just that long ago John Gentillion was a healthy, contented man in business in Santa Monica, engaged to be married to Miss Vera Perrson. In fact, the plans for their wedding had been completed and there was nothing left to do but await the appointed day, when Gentillion suddenly was stricken with a severe form of paralysis and the carefully laid plans had to be thrown into the discard.

In the years that followed he was examined by doctors too numerous to mention; he was told that he would never walk again and finally that he was the victim of something called transverse myelitis and that he could not possibly live more than sixty days.

Through all these disheartening reports, Miss Perrson stood by and refused to leave his bedside, meanwhile seeking out other medical authorities and declining to let hope die. At length a brain and spinal specialist decided to operate for a spinal tumor, the result of which was no tumor at all and the verdict that there was nothing left in medical science that could be brought to the patient's relief.

Meanwhile Miss Perrson opened a beauty shop in Long Beach to help out the exhausted exchequer and about this time she heard of the Berry Institute, which had had success with cases of this nature. With the aid of a friend, she actually carried Gentillion to Mr. Berry's office on a stretcher and he started the course of work. In a year he was walking with a cane, in six months more he walked normally. Today he is back in business again.

FAY TEMPLETON WITH M.-G.-M.

Fuller Mellish to Play Feature Role in Lasky Film; Young Cinderella Appears in "Hollywood Nights;" "Wild Party's" Author Writes Another

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

If ever the general feminine public finds out actresses' secret of eternal youth there will be no more need for beauty parlors, for their secret lies somewhere deeper than anything that beauty parlors can do.

FAY TEMPLETON

All of which leads us up to the fact that Fay Templeton, favorite of another Broadway generation, is going into the talking pictures.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is the enterprising studio which has secured Miss Templeton's services.

The famous actress, who has been in retirement for some time, has been won back by the lure of the talking pictures and will play a leading role in the new M.-G.-M. Revue, which is to be to 1930 what "Hollywood Revue of 1929" was to the present year.

Fay Templeton needs no introduction to millions of Americans, since for years she was acknowledged as the greatest singing star in musical comedy.

She is to appear with Weber and Fields, De Wolf Hopper and nearly a score of her old-time associates in what it is felt will be one of the most novel presentations motion pictures have known.

While no announcement of the fact has been made it is whispered that the numbers in which these favorites will appear will be redolent of the gay eighties and nineties and will show what brilliant showmen and artists the stage folk of those days were.

Miss Templeton will leave the quiet of her Long Island estate some time after the middle of November to come to the M.-G.-M. Culver City studios. The picture is scheduled to go into production early in December.

LASKY SIGNS HENRY IRVING'S GODSON

Fuller Mellish, Jr., godson of Sir Henry Irving, is saying his farewells to Broadway this week and is leaving for Hollywood, where he will play the important role of Ruth Chatterton's wealthy husband in the film version of "Sarah and Son."

FULLER MELLISH JR.

The announcement of the signing of Mellish, who scored a hit opposite Helen Morgan in "Applause," was made yesterday by Jesse L. Lasky.

Mellish is the youngest member of one of the oldest theatrical families in England. His grandmother was Rose Le Clerq and his father appeared with Sir Henry Irving for several years.

Six years ago young Mellish started in his father's footsteps and was given leading roles in "The Dancers," with Richard Bennett. Since then he has played in "What Price Glory," in "The Black Boy," with Paul Robeson and in "The Front Page."

Yvonne Pelletier Assigned

Cinderella's latest incarnation, Yvonne Pelletier, 15-year-old school girl, who has just signed a long-term contract with Fox, has added glory handed her.

Miss Pelletier has been assigned one of the leading parts in "Hollywood Nights."

The young actress was born in Port Henry, B. C., but her family moved to San Diego, Cal., when she was a year old. A theatrical career has been in prospect for her since she was an infant, and she has become a skilled dancer and singer. She is also an accomplished violinist.

Miss Pelletier characterizer while she dances, and Ruth St. Denis, who saw her dance, said of her: "She is the dancing starlet, talented beyond belief. She has the pantomime gift of the French."

Constance Bennett's New One

When Constance Bennett starts work for Pathe again, she will have the benefit of the talents of one of the most successful, not to say one of the most piquant, writers of the day.

He is Paul Ganglein, who wrote that hectic work, "The Wild Party," which, of course, you have all read.

The story is about a young Parisian, and it is possible that the picture will be made abroad, where at present, Miss Bennett is sojourning, awaiting her divorce.

Natalie Kingston to Screen

When Natalie Kingston was wed, she declared that she was leaving the screen forever. However, every lady has a right to change her mind, and while Miss Kingston wants it clearly understood that she is a very happy wife, still she is going to give the good old screen drama another chance.

NATALIE KINGSTON

She has been married a year, and that is time, in this fickle old world, for any artist to be forgotten. Nevertheless, some of the producers have not forgotten Natalie, and she is receiving offers to go into the talkers. She admits an inward urge, too, and, what with this and that, it is more than likely that her fans will have a chance to see her once more on the screen.

'BIRD IN HAND' CLEVER WHIMSY

Drinkwater Comedy Offers Rare Moments

Romance Unsettles Staid British Conventions

Hits Scored by Players Who Provide Humor

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

John Drinkwater puts on an antic disposition in "Bird in Hand," and the result is fine moments of uproarious mirth. Mr. Drinkwater's play, is at the Biltmore Theater and it is worth the attention of the showgoer who likes life in its humorous and whimsical slices. The author is known from the previous presentation of his biographical play, "Abraham Lincoln," but that was in a vein so comparatively serious, that no one would have believed its creator capable of a comedy like the one here present.

Such trifling things as the proper way to get into bed, and to cover one's self comfortably constitute the delight of his newer excursion. A second act of huge humor is almost entirely fashioned of the slenderest stage business, and it is amazing what this yields of humor. The audience remained hilarious throughout the demonstration made by a bachelor, of ways and means of retiring for the night.

Taken all in all, "Bird in Hand" is a play that deals considerably in interrupted slumbers. The main portion of its plot unfolds during an evening and a night, and certainly the climax occurs when good and respectable folk of the type portrayed in the play—that is, English folk—are ordinarily in bed.

Yes—this play is laid in England, and in provincial England, but that need not deter anyone from attending. To be sure, it is slow in starting, for there is a superabundance of talk about the Liberals and the Conservatives and the Labor party, which, to the entertainment-seeker, may seem superfluous. However, these discussions are to be accepted as setting the atmosphere. They also help to establish the keynote of the piece—class prejudice.

This theme is literally laughed at throughout "Bird in Hand." One can see where at the present time it would be exceedingly popular in the land of its origin. It has less pertinent application here, perhaps, but the points are so well made in the dialogue that their pregnancy cannot fail to be realized.

In England as everywhere else, so "Bird in Hand" sets forth, the young spirit of democracy overthrows the old shackles, and Thomas Greenleaf, an innkeeper of yeoman ancestry, is one of the few who still feel that he "knows his place" in the scheme of things. He cannot brook the idea of his daughter associating with a baronet's son. The thought of her wedding the man is utterly distasteful. Had not his brother worked for the young man's family as a coachman?

All of the play pertains the fuss and stir caused by this love affair, and eventually involves three guests at the inn as the arbiters of the quarrel between the father and his daughter. These guests are oddly assorted. One is a young man of high family who believes in no social distinctions; the other is the bachelor barrister—he who makes the operation of going to bed so amusing—and the third, an immensely funny character, is an agent for canned sardines. All three are won over to the side of the girl, but each has plenty to accomplish in trying to convince the father that the marriage is suitable.

There is unlimited comedy in the idiosyncrasies of the characters, disclosed by their behavior when under the stress of trying to settle their own or other people's troubles. The room occupied by two of the guests is the scene for the arguments between father and daughter, and the way in which they welcome the intrusions, and the interruptions of their sleep, are the source of undiluted gayety.

"Bird in Hand" (which is the name of the inn by the way, though it probably also has a certain symbolical significance,) is a play restricted in its appeal, for its comedy is of the subtler sort. Still almost anybody could enjoy a laugh over its second act, and assuredly, too, the performance of one, Eliot Makeham, as the sardine agent, of French ancestry and a cockney accent, is irresistible. His portrayal is easily outstanding. Not all of this is to his credit perhaps, because the character has been drawn with the utmost cleverness. And is, besides, obviously designed for its humor.

There are moments in the work of Douglas Jefferies as the bachelor barrister, Knight of the Cross, which are undeniably excellent. Assuredly he makes much of the scene where he tucks the sheet beneath his chin, while he folds back the coverlet, and unintentionally and frequently kicks his old-fashioned stone hot-water bottle onto the floor with a thud. This is the prime moment in Drinkwater's play, and certainly worth the evening.

Percy Rhodes as the father, faithful to rockbound tradition, is good in certain scenes. He has the gaunt rigor of presence to suit the portrayal, too. More perhaps he could have made of the impersonation, but it was not out of the picture.

Richard Littledale merits some credit for adding to the merriment as Cyril Beverly, dedicated to improving taste. Freda Bruce Lockhart appears as the girl, gaining perhaps fair favor. Denis Mantell succeeds rather agreeably as her suitor. Except for some of the scenes, and a few of the roles it is not an outstanding production. But the play itself is a charming and quaint rarity.

Parisian Comedy Hits Fast Pace

Florence Eldridge

Again assumes the leading feminine role in "Her Cardboard Lover," which Edward Everett Horton is reviving at the Majestic Theater. Miss Eldridge was seen in the part when the play was produced locally about a year ago.

'FLIGHT' TO OPEN WITH PREMIERE

Aviation Film Will Start at Fox Palace With Gala Festivities

The Fox Palace Theater will be the scene of much festivity tonight amid the glare of many brilliant studio lights which, according to local custom, announces the premiere of a new screen attraction. "Flight" will be the object of this display.

With Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Lila Lee in the cast, "Flight" is said to be the outstanding aviation picture of the year. It utilizes both sound and dialogue in unfolding the thrilling story and exciting airplane maneuvers. All of the aviation facilities of the Marine Corps base at San Diego were used in the filming of this story and many air sequences in which veteran marine pilots participate are worked naturally and realistically into the story.

Frank Fay, stage and screen player, will act as master of ceremonies this evening introducing Jack Holt, Lila Lee, Ralph Graves, Frank R. Capra, Al Roscoe and Harold Goodwin.

"Virginian" to be Held Over at Paramount

"The Virginian," the epic picture of the pioneer west, which was held over for a second week at the Paramount Theater, has done such phenomenal business that the management has been forced to hold over this attraction for another week. This is the first time in the history of the theater that any picture has been held for a three weeks' run.

During the first week of "The Virginian," more than 63,000 people witnessed this picture which is starring Gary Cooper, Mary Brian, Richard Arlen and Walter Huston, according to the theater. The second week was larger than any other single week's business since the all-talking policy was put into effect.

Gala Premiere Scheduled for Carthay Circle

William Le Baron, Radio Pictures chief, announces that the entire cast of "Rio Rita" will be present at the gala premiere to be held on the 21st inst., at the Carthay Circle Theater. "Rio Rita" follows the engagement of Will Rogers in "They Had to See Paris," current attraction.

The premiere promises to be a personal triumph for Bebe Daniels, whose voice is said to be splendidly adapted to the songs of the tuneful Ziegfeld operetta-comedy. Miss Daniels and John Boles of "Desert Song" fame will share honors on the night of the premiere.

Film Identifies Popular Comics

A secret about Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, will be revealed at the Million Dollar Theater starting Thursday when they will make their screen appearance in "Why Bring That Up?" The public will know which is Moran and which is Mack.

For years the two ebonists have been touring the vaudeville and speaking stages, talking over the radio and issuing "Moraneedotes and Mackisms" through phonograph records. But, very, very few have ever known which is George Moran and which is Charles Mack. The lazy voiced member, the larger of the two has been praised for his voice under the name of Mack just as often as under the name of Moran.

FILM PREPARED

Renaud Hoffman is cutting "Blaze O'Glory," his own story which he also directed for Sono-Art as Eddie Dowling's second starring vehicle.

John Thomas Entertains at Philharmonic

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

John Charles Thomas, baritone and Lester Hodges, pianist, gave a hilarious singing entertainment at the Philharmonic Auditorium last night that was hugely enjoyed by many people. The program was of the he-man type and highly descriptive in character. Mr. Thomas is an excellent story-teller but as a singing musician he does not rank so high. The narrative style suits him and pleases his audience. The quantity of his voice overshadows its quality and the fact that he sings impeccably in tune, has a swinging rhythm, clear enunciation and is a magnificent figure of a six-foot man, all contribute to his popularity.

Mr. Hodges is a versatile young man with a well-developed ability to augment Mr. Thomas's performance with excellent accompaniments. His solos were varied and he consented to give an encore. The Brahms Rhapsody in E flat, opening his group, was embellished with clang tones and the profusely ornamented Gluck ballade by Friedman separated Brahms from a Fire-dance by De Falla done in the red Indian manner.

Mr. Thomas's opening group of unusual songs consisted of an Invocation by Jacopo Peri in impressive tempo, a modernist's prayer by Marx, "The Sandpeddler" by Bungert and two Brahms numbers, "Standchen" and "Liebliche Wangen," which he generously encored. Four French ballads followed and were preluded with cryptic remarks by the baritone.

"A satirical cycle, Vodvil," by Harvey Enders was delightfully reminiscent of Mr. Thomas's recent detour into vaudeville. His flair for jazz has been hidden, it seems. Coupled with his innate wit and humor, this jazz tendency is extremely interesting in Mr. Thomas. The concert closed with pleasing songs by the Americans, James H. Rogers, Pearl Curran, Kathleen Manning and George Simmons.

Quillan Family to Appear on R.-K.-O. Stage

With the close tonight of Radio Pictures' all-talking drama, "Night Parade," the R.-K.-O. Theater will present the first appearance of the Quillan family in the R.-K.-O. vaudeville revue tomorrow.

"The Sophomore," an all-talking campus comedy, is the screen attraction, co-featuring Eddie Quillan, Sally O'Neil and Jeanette Loff. Eddie Quillan will be seen on the screen and on the stage with four other members of his family, including John, Buster, Marie and Joe.

For many years the Quillans were a standard vaudeville feature, and their appearance at the R.-K.-O. brings them together again for the first time in four years. They will appear throughout the engagement of "The Sophomore." Prominent also in the cast of the picture are Stanley Smith, Sarah Padden, Spec O'Donnell, Russell Gleason and Brooks Benedict.

Cliff Edwards Buys Ukuleles for Film Fans

A musician generally owns only one or two of the type of instruments he plays, but Ukulele Ike (Cliff Edwards,) who plays and sings in "Marianne," Marion Davies's first talking picture, starting tomorrow at Loew's State, buys them by the dozen.

The noted recording artist finds, since becoming a talking and singing screen actor, that ukuleles are as hard to keep as stocks bought on margin. In the first place, a ukulele, in his hands, sees pretty hard service and doesn't last long. In the second place, he is besieged by souvenir hunters who gain admittance to the studio and invariably ask him for one of his old ukuleles. The current picture at Loew's State, Richard Barthelmess in "Young Nowheres," will close tonight.

GLEASON MAY PRODUCE HERE

Lucile Webster Mentioned for Horton Play

Zelma O'Neal and Husband to Celebrate Anniversary

Irving Pichel Now Director for Henry Duffy

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

James Gleason, actor, playwright, scenarist and occasionally producer, is about to lend a hand in the move — gradually gaining more and more momentum — toward establishing Los Angeles as THE play - production center of the country.

MRS. JAMES GLEASON

He is, it became known yesterday, planning to lease a theater in which to try three plays before the local public. One of these will be "Puffy," by himself, done in the East a season or so ago and now being rewritten. Another will be "Snare Drums," by Louise Closser Hale.

Mrs. Gleason (Lucile Webster) is very enthusiastic about the venture and is boosting for a comedy in which the two of them can again frolic opposite one another. (The last time they did this was in "The Shannons of Broadway.") Her own new play, "The Sob Sister," is now on the New York play mart and has drawn the eye of George M. Cohan.

Meantime, Edward Everett Horton of the Majestic and Mrs. Gleason have been seen in conference with one another and it is whispered that Horton would like to present her in "Ladies of the Jury," Fred Ballard's new comedy, in which Mrs. Fiske is now starring in New York at Erlanger's.

Celebration Due . . .

The vivacious Zelma O'Neal, the Irish colleen from Chicago, featured comedienne of "Follow Thru" at the Mason, is although few persons outside the theatrical profession know it—married to Anthony Bushell, young Englishman, and the juvenile in "Disraeli," now at Warner's Hollywood Theater.

ZELMA O'NEAL

In fact, within ten days they will celebrate their first wedding aniversary.

The two met in London in August a year ago. Zelma was playing in the British company of Schwab and Mandel's "Good News." Anthony was in the cast of "The Enemy" on the English stage. They were married on November 22, 1928, at St. Nicholas Collegiate Church, New York, after Anthony had decided to cast his luck in America and had preceded Zelma to these shores by a boat or two. They came west together this summer.

Incidentally, it is learned, that Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer, through Irving Thalberg, is trying very hard to secure Zelma for the film production of "Good News." Wires are now flying back and forth between Thalberg and Schwab and Mandel in New York, to whom the actress is under long-term contract and was to have been placed in their first picture under the Paramount banner.

Pichel Directing

Notes from the Henry Duffy Pacific Coast offices include one to the effect that Irving Pichel, widely known for his ventures in art theater precincts, is now directing Duffy productions in Oakland. Among his first efforts have been "The Sap," "Jonesy" and "Her Night Out." Pichel, it was, who created the title role in "Lazarus Laughed," the Eugene O'Neill drama premiered at the Pasadena Community Playhouse. Although this has been rather lost sight of, Pichel, before becoming a devotee of the little theater, directed for the Shuberts . . . Taylor Holmes is in town after having played successfully in Oakland and San Francisco in "The Sap" and "The Nervous Wreck" . . . Charlotte Greenwood is to take her comedy, "She Couldn't Say No," now in its last week at El Capitan here, to the San Francisco President on the 16th inst.

Plays Announced

Nine of Shakespeare's plays are included in the current season's repertoire of the Stratford - Upon-Avon Players coming to the Belasco this year, according to word just received at that theater. They are: "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "Macbeth," "Hamlet," "King Richard, the Second," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "Twelfth Night," "Much Ado About Nothing," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Julius Caesar."

Incidentally, what is said to be the first permanent theater home in America for Shakespearean drama has just been established in Chicago as the Civic Theater, adjoining and under the same roof as the Chicago Civic Opera House. It was formally opened on Monday evening, last, with a performance of "Hamlet" by the Fritz Lieber Repertory Company. Chicagoans say not only is this the sole institution of its kind in the country but the only one anywhere near the counterpart of the Shakespeare Memorial Theater in Stratford - Upon-Avon.

Theater Acquired

Warner Brothers are still acquiring motion-picture theaters. A fourth, the new McNees playhouse in Whittier, has just been added to the Warner chain, which already includes two in Los Angeles, the Downtown and the Hollywood, and one at Fresno.

"FAITHFUL" UNDER WAY

Lloyd Bacon is now on the First National lot directing Billie Dove in "Faithful."

HUSBAND HELD IN ROAD DEATH

Bolton Booked on Suspicion of Murder Charge

Grand Jury Will Investigate Slaying of Wife

Schtol-teacher Sought to Help State's Case

John Bolton, suspected of slaying his young wife last Friday morning, was moved from the prison ward of the General Hospital last night and booked in the County Jail on a charge of suspicion of murder pending a grand jury investigation of the entire affair.

The decision to ask a grand jury inquiry was reached last night by Capt. Bright, who spent the afternoon questioning Bolton and reviewing his former statement.

BOLTON'S STORY

Bolton was taken into custody shortly after he appeared in Santa Monica suffering from a bullet wound in the shoulder, stating that he had been held up by bandits who had killed his wife. Mrs. Bolton was found in the family car on the Roosevelt Highway near Topanga Canyon shot to death with two bullets in her head.

According to the husband, two bandits stopped his car near Topanga Canyon and robbed him of $26. As the bandits were about to leave Mrs. Bolton said that she knew one of them and asked him if his name was not Woods. The other bandit then said, "you'd better bump them off," according to Bolton, and fired three shots, killing the woman and wounding her husband.

While awaiting the next session of the grand jury on Friday, Capt. Bright stated he will attempt to find a woman school-teacher whose last name is Abbott and who is reported to live in Pasadena. It is believed that the woman is well acquainted with Bolton and may be able to aid the officers in tracing his movements.

MEANS EXHAUSTED

Further investigation of Bolton's personal affairs exploded a theory that he had between $3000 and $4000 in the bank. Although a savings bank book showed deposits totaling approximately that amount, a check of the bank records showed that the account virtually has been exhausted, Capt. Bright said.

Bolton explained this by stating that he had altered his deposit book purposely to deceive curious friends who were unnecessarily interested in his affairs and convince them that he had ample means.

Court Upholds Bone-Dry Law

Holding that a municipality has the right to make liquor laws more stringent than the Wright Act, Superior Judge Aggeler yesterday denied a writ of habeas corpus brought by Gertrude Fisher, who is under sentence to the County Jail for possession of liquor at her home in Signal Hill.

Mrs. Fisher asserts that the liquor contained less than one-third of 1 per cent alcohol and therefore she is not subject to punishment under the terms of the Wright Act which permits one-half of 1 per cent.

Judge Aggeler, however, declared that municipalities have the right to enforce bone dry statutes if they so desire.

ALLIANCE TO HEAR ADDRESS

The Harmony enjoys an enviable reputation for its French pastries and crisp salads.

GAY FIESTA PLANNED

With one of the gayest fiestas of the year planned, the Laughner-Harris Orchestra will give an au revoir entertainment at Paul Perrot's Cafe, opposite Westlake Park, tonight. Laughner-Harris will have entire charge of the bill, which also will be featured by a dancing contest. A special dinner has been arranged by Paul Perrot, dedicated to the popular band.

GAS AND LIGHT SLASH DUE

Rail Commission's Hearing Indicates Angelenos Slated for New Year Economy Gift

Consumers of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation's two commodities stand a good chance of greeting the new year with substantially reduced gas and electric bills, it was indicated yesterday when figures submitted at the State Railroad Commission's hearing revealed that since 1927, the company's earnings have been considerably higher than the rate regarded by the commission as a fair return on investment. This the commission has ruled in similar cases, is 7.5 per cent.

The hearing, called before Commissioner Carr to bring out the results of the investigation conducted by commission engineers, accountants and land appraisal experts for the past four months, developed statements by witnesses that the company's return in 1926 was 7.45 per cent; in 1927, 9.21 per cent; in 1928, 8.97 per cent, and in 1929 it will be 9.47 per cent. The figures for the present year, it was testified, were based on actual book showings for the first nine months and estimates for the remaining three.

These figures were submitted by C. C. Brown, the commission's gas engineer, who carried the statement further by projecting the earning rate into the years 1930, 1931 and 1932, declaring that, based on present earnings and taking into consideration natural increases in population and business, the company would be earning a return of 10.55 per cent in 1932. Brown occupied the witness stand for the greater part of the day, explaining a voluminous exhibit covering the corporation's gas-distributing activities.

He was followed late in the afternoon by J. H. McCaffrey, commission electrical engineer, who introduced an equally voluminous report covering the electric power activities of the concern. McCaffrey will resume the witness stand this morning.

Addison B. Day, president of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, sought at the opening of the hearing to secure the permission of the commission tohalt the proceedings to permit engineers from his company to meet with the commission's engineers for a discussion of rate reductions for electricity. Although he refrained from issuing a definite order on the suggestion, Commissioner Carr directed the hearing to proceed.

The city's ordinance establishing the new electric rates of the Bureau of Power and Light was injected into the proceedings by City Attorney Werner, who, with Deputy City Attorney Clark, were in attendance throughout the hearing. Werner offered the ordinance in evidence and it was accepted by the commissioner without being read into the record.

Attorney Ira Rowell of the commission's legal staff was in charge of the presentation of the commission's case and will call the State's witnesses throughout the hearing. Outlining the history of the commission's investigation into the corporation's rates and practices, Rowell announced at the opening of the session that the corporation had been cited to show cause why its rates should not be reduced after its 1927 and 1928 annual reports had revealed an earning "in excess of a reasonable rate during each of these years."

"The engineers and accountants of the commission have completed their check and are now prepared, by testimony and exhibits, to present figures which I believe constitute a sufficient prima facie showing that this investigation was properly instituted and that the return which the company has enjoyed, as indicated by its own records, is markedly in excess of what the commission has generally considered a reasonable rate of return for utilities of this character," Rowell explained to the commissioner and the attorneys present.

It was indicated that at the completion of the commission engineers' testimony the corporation will introduce testimony designed to offset conclusions and figures of the former.

Lewis Tries for Mat Laurels Again

HOOKS UP WITH TACKLING STAR

Sonnenberg Defends Crown in Olympic Ring

Old Foes Meet Again With Laurels at Stake

Daviscourt and O'Malley in Semi-Wind-up

BY RALPH HUSTON

Confident of his ability, and still "burned up" because he thinks he lost on a bad "break" in their last meeting, Ed (Strangler) Lewis goes into the Olympic ring tonight a slight—very slight—favorite to beat Gus Sonnenberg, the champion, in their rematch for the heavyweight mat championship of the world.

GUS SONNENBERG

At that, Lewis might have won in their last appearance, had it not been for the unfortunate appearance of the seconds, and Sonnenberg's sensational diving tackle from the ropes to where Lewis stood, donning his bath-robe. "Big Ed" had scored one fall on the champion, and thought he had gained the deciding one when the crash came.

EVADED TACKLE

In that bout Lewis showed unmistakable signs of agility in avoiding the champion's tackles. He side-stepped and straight-armed with spectacular ability, and there seems to be no great reason why he should not do the same tonight. He has spent the last two weeks doing considerable polishing-up on that bit of strategy, for he is confident his famous headlock will spell disaster for Sonnenberg's reign. Lewis has gone so far that he claims he now can not only evade a tackle, but clamp on a headlock while doing it, all of which should prove disastrous to the champion, if he manages to do it.

However, Sonnenberg has since pointed out that he wasn't ex-

Former Sprint Champion Seeks New Records

A record of 10 1-5s. for 110 yards, made back in 1921 by Charley Paddock, may be accepted as a new national mark for 100 meters at the A.A.U. meeting to be held at St. Louis, the 17th-19th inst.

At least, Paddock is going to apply for the record, and he left for the East last night on board the Trojan football train with the plan of attending the Notre Dame-U.S.C. football battle Saturday and then the A.A.U. convention, which opens at the Statler Hotel, St. Louis, Sunday.

Charley made the astounding time of 10 1-5s. for the 110-yard distance at Paddock Field eight years ago, when the national

Wildcats Consider Bid for Tilt With St. Mary's

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Nov. 12. (AP) Interested in reports of a proposal from the American Legion of Los Angeles that the University of Kentucky Wildcats meet St. Mary's College of Oakland, Cal., in an intersectional game at Los Angeles Christmas Day, Athletic Director S. A. Boles wired today for a financial proposition.

It was estimated that it would cost about $10,000 to send the Kentuckians to the Coast and if the committee in charge of the game will guarantee that much and a slice of the gate and if permission of the Southern Conference to play in a post-season game is granted Kentucky will accept, it is understood.

Marger Apsit to Replace Harry Against Notre Dame Eleven; S. C. Fans Optimistic

Too ill with the flu in the Good Samaritan Hospital to leave with his team-mates for Chicago last night Harry Edelson will fly there Friday morning if his condition permits.

Reservations for the star Trojan halfback have been made with the Western Air Express, and he and Dr. Harold Van Metre of the Trojan medical staff will travel together.

The arrangement will save Edelson fifty hours of train travel, and possibly permit him to play in the Notre Dame game Saturday. He and Dr. Van Metre are due to arrive in Kansas City at 5 o'clock Friday evening, leaving here at that hour in the morning.

An overnight ride by train will take them into Chicago in ample time for the game. The reservations were made yesterday by Arnold Eddy of the graduate manager's office at Southern California, and confirmed by Bill Tait of the Western Air Express.

EN ROUTE CHICAGO WITH TROJAN TEAM, Nov. 12.—Thundering cheers ringing in their ears, thirty-eight football players representing the University of Southern California tonight boarded the Golden State Limited bound for Chicago, where on Saturday they will meet the Ramblers of Notre Dame before the biggest crowd that has seen a gridiron game this year.

Two years ago 113,000 persons—the largest American football crowd in history—saw Notre Dame defeat the Trojans by the margin of 1 point, 7 to 6, at Soldier field, and temporary bleachers will again an added crowd this year.

MARGER APSIT

Hundreds of Southern California students were at the Central Station to see their team off and their yells boomed through the station from half an hour before train time until the eastbound coaches were well on their way.

LAST WORKOUT

In the afternoon Coach Howard Jones sent his boys through their last scrimmage before Saturday's game. Following the stiff two-hour session he gave them on Monday he eased up yesterday, and contented himself with rehearsing Notre Dame plays for the varsity with the assistance of the Spartans.

Although Notre Dame has been made a heavy favorite in Chicago, the Trojans are not a bit disheartened over the matter. In fact, Jones is almost gleeful about it. He saw his boys take a trimming at the hands of California when the Trojans were topheavy favorites to win, and he prefers the underdog role this time.

As a matter of fact, there is no

SPAULDING DRILLS BRUINS

U.C.L.A. Coach Expects Local Gridders to Put Up Good Showing Against St. Mary's Saturday

Bill Spaulding, coach of the Westwood Bruins, is driving his squad of players with a heavy hand these days. The Bruins face the unbeaten and unscored on St. Mary's football team Saturday at the Coliseum and Spaulding has made up his own mind and that of the players that the Bruins are going to make a showing this time before local fans.

The U.C.L.A. mentor put his squad through two hours of intensive work yesterday against St. Marys plays. Spaulding scouted the Gaels last Sunday and he has a good line on their best power plays. The Bruin linemen have been drilled hard and long by Assistant Coach Hugh McDonald. If they don't hold on Saturday it won't be the coaches' fault, was the consensus of opinion of those who watched the Bruins practice.

BILL SPAULDING

St. Mary's comes here with a marvelous record. In fact, the Gaels have the best football record on the Coast and, with one exception, the best in the nation. Only Texas University has been able to accomplish what the team coached by Slip Madigan, the wizard of Moraga Valley, has done. The Gaels have yet to have their goal line crossed this season.

St. Mary's followers believe their team is the logical team for the New Year's Day game at the Rose Bowl. They insist Southland fans will agree with them after seeing them in action on Saturday.

Steve Cunningham, graduate manager of the Bruins, has announced that the Coliseum loud speakers will broadcast the Notre Dame-Trojan game from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. That means the fans can get the results from Chicago, before they take in the local game.

VALGER, CUTHBERT BOX DRAW

PARIS, Nov. 12. (AP)—Benny Valger, veteran New Orleans lightweight, fought twelve rounds to a draw here tonight against Johnny Cuthbert, featherweight champion of England. It was one of the most scientific exhibitions of boxing ever seen in a Paris ring.

JEFF HAS HEAVYWEIGHT HOPE

Ex-King Builds Contender for Title He Once Held; States He Only Fought Jack Johnson at Reno Because of Friendship for Tex Rickard

BY FRANK ROCHE

Jim Jeffries never had a chance to beat Jack Johnson—he says so himself. It sounds like old stuff but it is news when it comes direct from Jeff and it came direct from him yesterday at his Burbank ranch. "It was only my friendship for Tex Rickard that made me take that fight at Reno," declared Jeffries yesterday where he played host for Frankie Campbell, the latest local heavyweight contender.

JIM JEFFRIES

"I was a sick man when I fought Johnson and even before I took the fight," the former heavyweight champion stated. "When I was in my prime I could have beaten Johnson," he added.

It is kind of late to talk about the famous match at Reno where Jeffries attempted his comeback but the old champion said he could not help but break his silence as he looked around at some of the boys who are attempting to wear his old mantle.

"I am not making any excuses for myself at this late date but I think I ought to state my case," he stated.

Jeffries intends to introduce a heavyweight shortly who he thinks will be worthy of holding the championship. His name is Al Morrow. The fighter is a Burbank boy. He stands 6ft. 1½in. and weighs 195 pounds. Jeff is training the boy according to the old-school methods.

The main plank in the Jeffries platform is to do from ten to fifteen miles a day on the road. The Jeffries heavyweight contender is 21 years of age. He is of Italian extraction. Jeff was rather secretive about his boy. He refused to produce him for pictures.

"Bob Fitzsimmons was the greatest fighter that ever lived," Jeff declared yesterday. "Bob could have knocked out Tunney in four rounds," Jeff said.

"He could of knocked out Dempsey the first time he hit him," he added. Jeff looked at Campbell and declared that Fitzsimmons was about his weight but he would not compare him with Ruby Bob despite all of the frantic signals

FOOTBALL CODE TO STAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Convinced that the present football code, new fumble rule and all, is proving generally satisfactory, Edward K. Hall, chairman of the national football rules committee, reported today that a minimum of tinkering with the laws of the game can be expected for 1930. Only here and there, Hall pointed out, has occasional voice been raised against the provision making a fumbled ball dead at the point of recovery by the defensive side and indications are that this rule is here to stay. That it will be in the rulebook for 1930 is a practical certainty, Hall said.

KENNEDY BUYS ACE HUDKINS

Tom Kennedy, former Hollywood matchmaker, announced yesterday that he had purchased the contract to handle Ace Hudkins, Nebraska middleweight boxer, who recently lost a ten-round decision here to Mickey Walker in a championship bout. Kennedy declined to mention the terms.

Pittsburgh in Line for New Year's Day Game at Rose Bowl

WARNER PICKS PANTHER SQUAD

Army Faces Indoor Workouts Before Card Game

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Plans for the annual Rose Bowl football game at Pasadena January 1, 1930, are subject to revision, but indications now are that the scream of a Panther and growl of a Bear will echo through the famous bowl.

The Pittsburgh Panther seems to be enjoying perfect health and Jock Sutherland's powerful machine is in line for the nomination as the representative of the East in the annual clash of the sections.

The University of California Bear finds Washington and Stanford standing in its way to the Pacific Coast throne but even failure to hurdle the last obstacle probably would not prevent the invitation to Pasadena. Stanford plays Army December 28, removing the Cardinals from consideration in any plans involving New Year's Day.

University of California officials have been quoted on the Coast as not overenthusiastic for the assignment but willing to go through with it if the invitation should be extended and the designated eastern opponent meets with their approval.

"Pop" Warner, former Pittsburgh coach, now Stanford mentor, has expressed an opinion that Pittsburgh will receive and accept the nomination. In addition to the high football prestige to be gained the ever practical "Pop" suggested that the financial benefit to result from the game would be helpful in paying for the new Pitt stadium.

If Pittsburgh should run into disaster in one of its two remaining games against Carnegie or Penn State and one of the undefeated southern teams complete its season with a clean record, the invitation might go south, as it did last season to Georgia Tech, and two years in succession to Alabama. Tulane, with the best chance of any team in Dixie to escape defeat, might find it difficult to convince its faculty that such a journey would be a good thing for all concerned.

In 1925 when feelers were sent out as to the possibility of an undefeated Tulane Greenback team of that season making the trip to the Pacific Coast, the affirmative vote was not unanimous. If Tulane should be named, however, the New Orleans team would be in the best position of any eastern outfit in meeting the problem of change of climate and working outdoors in preparation for the game.

Coach Biff Jones is giving considerable thought now in ways and means to getting the Army in shape for its clash with Stanford. The Weather Bureau will be very much surprised if much outdoor football practice can be satisfactorily conducted on the plains of West Point during December. The Cadets are slated to leave December 18 and make several stops en route for practice.

BOXER COUNTED OUT

COLUMBUS (O.) Nov. 12. (AP)—Johnny O'Keefe, 25 years of age, Columbus lightweight boxer, died in a hospital here tonight. He became ill after finishing today's training for a match Friday in Detroit with Tommy Cello of Los Angeles. The cause of his death was not announced.

ROCKNE MUM ON NEW YEAR'S

NOTRE DAME appears to be out of the New Year's Day picture even if the Irish beat Southern California Saturday and turn back in succession its two other foes of the year—Northwestern and Army.

Underground sources at Chicago reveal that Mr. Knute K. Rockne officially won't talk on the subject at all. Privately he says even if he were fortunate enough to win over the Trojans and also to win the remaining games on his schedule, he is quite sure the Notre Dame faculty would not sanction a trip to California.

My informant quotes Mr. Rockne, the great Norwegian spellbinder, as follows:

"The team has done a great deal of traveling this year, including the trips to Chicago which upset the routine, and this would militate against another coast trip.

"Personally, I would not favor such a trip for the reason that my team plays a thoroughly representative aggregation before a great audience in Chicago.

"I suggest the Pitt Panthers as the likely outfit to go to the Coast."

To the question that Carnegie Tech probably will take them next Saturday Mr. Rockne replied that it is entirely too early to talk about the subject officially.

IRISH HAVE THE COLOR

OF COURSE, if Mr. Rockne's boys should defeat the Trojans handily in the Windy City next Saturday p.m. and then whip Northwestern and Army in turn the Irish would be the boys the Coast wants to see in the great intersectional classic at Pasadena.

Nobody who saw the Four Horsemen and the Seven Mules beat Stanford 27 to 10 back in 1925 will ever forget the smart and alert playing, the speed and individual brilliance of Rockne's great stars that year.

The Irish won from a powerful Stanford team not so much because of their offensive steam but rather their great defensive play, which saw Elmer Layden twice intercept forward passes and run half the length of the field each time for touchdowns, and Hunsinger, the end, gobble up a fumbled punt and run twenty yards for another score.

Reference is made to this great team because some of the boys back East are referring to this year's Irish eleven as a close counterpart of the great 1924 eleven.

Mr. Aubrey Devine, who has scouted the Irish in three games this year, doesn't go quite as far as that, but he does insist that offensively the 1929 aggregation is superior offensively to the 1927 team which beat the Trojans, 7 to 6.

And on that team of two years back the Irish had the great Christy Flanagan, a great back who averaged over five yards per crack every time he took the ball.

The Irish haven't got Flanagan this year, but they have Elder, the sprinter, who is even faster.

DRURY AN OBSERVER

BUT sad to say the Trojans haven't got the equal of Mr. Morley Drury, who was Flanagan's great rival in 1927 at Chicago.

Mr. Drury will be with the Trojan team at Chicago this year, but only in the capacity of an observer and an "Onward Trojan" rooter.

Mr. Drury is the gent who in three trials carried the pill for 5, 7 and 21 yards, respectively, and then flipped a pass to Russ Saunders for a touchdown ere the game was five minutes old.

That was the only score the Trojans made all day, and Mr. Drury's run was the longest of the day.

While Mr. Drury is rather proud of his record he is hoping that some other Trojan will outdo him this year on Soldier Field and salt away the bacon he almost pickled two years ago.

TIGERS AND SAGEHENS

OCCIDENTAL seems to be steaming right along to another Southern Conference championship. With Whittier safely disposed of, and only Caltech and Pomona on the list, the Tigers are headed in the right direction.

And speaking of stiff schedules the Tigers are taking their biggest conference rivals without a stutter.

They are meeting three within a thirteen-day period—Whittier last Monday, Caltech next Saturday and Pomona the following week-end.

Pomona's rather unexpected victory over Arizona on the latter's home field indicates that the Sagehens will give Occidental all the battle that these annual classics invariably afford.

Arizona beat the Tigers 16 to 7 in the first game of the season, a night game at the Rose Bowl, and for Pomona to win in Wildcat territory indicates a prebattle edge for Coach Nixon's boys.

A CLASSIC OF THE MAT

MY ONLY regret in journeying 2000 miles to see Notre Dame and the Trojans tangle next Saturday—I'll miss Mr. Luigi Daru's great toe-twisting spectacle at the Olympic tonight.

After the unusual manner in which the behemoths of the mat—Mr. Ed (Strangler) Lewis and Gus Sonnenberg, the ex-Dartmouth football hero, wound up their last affair, I am more than curious over the finale of this match.

Some time I expect Mr. Lewis to rise up in all his wrath and avenge himself for the defeats he, as ex-champion, has suffered at the hands of the champion during the past year. And I want to be in at that killing.

CICCONE BEATS WAGNER

FLINT (Mich.) Nov. 12. (AP)—Johnny Ciccone, Schenectady (N. Y.) lightweight, won the decision over Eddie (Kid) Wagner, Chicago, in a ten-round bout here tonight.

HOOVER BEES TRIP EL MONTE LIGHTIES

Coach Vic Francy's Hoover Class B football aggregation took a new lease on life yesterday when they upset the powerful El Monte lightweight eleven, 14-7. The game was played at Glendale. This was El Monte's first defeat of the season, while Hoover had lost several league contests. Houston picked up a blocked kick and scored the first Hoover touchdown, while Capt. Chill Allison scored the other one on a line buck. El Monte tallied on a pass, Albers to Singer. The line-ups:

Hoover		El Monte
Allen	L.E.R.	Avan
Staub	L.T.R.	Linch
Case	L.G.R.	Wallart
Templin	C.	Huston
Houston	R.G.L.	Graf
Watkins	R.T.L.	Budan
Frey	R.E.L.	Singer
Bentley	Q.	Flack
Allison (C.)	L.H.R.	Di Fre
Lance	R.H.L.	Albers
Nichols	F.	Kelly

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Hoover	0	7	7	0—14
El Monte	0	0	7	0—7

Touchdowns—Houston, Allison, Singer. Extra points—Singer, Bentley, 2.

MICKEY BLAKE COPS EASTERN DEBUT TILT

BETHLEHEM (Pa.) Nov. 12. (AP) Jose Diaz, Cuban lightweight, won on a foul from Henri Dewancker in the fourth round of a ten-round bout here tonight. Each weighed 132.

Mickey Blake, Los Angeles welterweight making his first appearance in the East, knocked out Charlie Matz of this city in the first round.

JOHNNY DUNDEE BEATEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Georgie Goldberg, Brownsville lightweight, won an easy decision over the veteran Johnny Dundee in the main ten-round bout at the Broadway arena in Brooklyn tonight. Goldberg outpointed the former featherweight and junior lightweight in every round.

PRICE EXPECTS TOUGH BATTLE

Plans to Start Bear First Team Line-up Saturday

Washington Huskies Figure to Put Up Good Fight

Riegels Injured, Eichmeyer Will be at Center

BERKELEY, Nov. 12. (Exclusive) A weak, cowering Husky from the University of Washington is not the sort of opponent that Coach Clarence (Nibs) Price of the University of California football varsity anticipates Saturday afternoon in the Memorial Stadium, so his first varsity is again hard at work for the first time since the arduous training grind previous to the University of Southern California game.

ROY RIEGELS

Price's present intentions are to use his first string against Coach Enoch Bagshaw's Washingtonians as long as there appears to be need for them. Even such stellar gentlemen as Benny Lom, the candidate for all-American honors; Rusty Gill, who already has set grid experts all over the country to talking, and little Lee Elsan, one of the most elusive little fellows in the country, are warming up in the face of the chilly blasts that blow across the athletic field.

The old first choice combination that has so successfully turned back the threats of Pennsylvania, St. Mary's and the Trojans, are at work again. The first-string line is again comprised of Avery and Norton, ends; Timmerman and Beckett, tackles; Schwarz and Pitto, guards, and Herman Eichmeyer, center. It is noticed that the name of Capt. Roy Riegels is missing. Roy is still suffering from that bad knee which he incurred previous to the Pennsylvania game, and it is possible that Price will not play him against Washington, saving him for bigger prizes, the Stanford big game on the 23rd inst.

In the backfield today were Lom and Ed Griffiths as halfbacks, Elsan as quarterback and Rusty Gill as fullback. Clarence (Moose) Garrity trailed along as relief understudy to the hard-pounding red-head, Mr. Gill. Ed Kirwan also followed along as a possible replacement for the formidable, if small, Lee Elsan. In both the San Francisco Olympic Club and Montana games Kirwan proved himself a capable field general and a dependable person to take over Elsan's job when the latter graduates next spring.

Having won two important games, the Olympic Club and Montana contests, the second-string football team has gathered a lot of confidence unto itself and is consequently hammering away at the first varsity with reckless abandon. The line is a sturdy one. It includes the following: Whyte and Bartlett, ends; Cahn and Bisan, tackles; C. Handy and Young, guards, and Medanich, center.

SCHMELING NOT TO ACCEPT BID

Schmeling, said Jacobs, "and we will prove it."

GARDEN LAUNCHES FIGHT CAMPAIGN

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Only a few minor details stood out tonight against Madison Square Garden's complete corner of the present-day crop of prominent heavyweight cauliflower.

Having purchased from Humbert J. Fugazy the only contract under which Max Schmeling, the Teuton ace, can box in New York State, the Garden completed arrangements with Victor Campolo, the mauler from the Argentine, for four fights in the United States. The Garden now has under contract Jack Sharkey, Otto Von Porat, Phil Scott, Johnny Risko, Tuffy Griffiths and Jimmy Braddock in addition to Schmeling and Campolo.

Frank Bruen, general manager of the big boxing plant, exchanged cables with the Argentine giant and when the day was over, had the situation entirely in hand. Before leaving for New York, within the next ten days, Campolo asked only reassurances that Gustave Lesueve, the manager with whom he has been warring, would have no part of his affairs in the future. The Garden promptly guaranteed him this, inasmuch as it has purchased Lesueve's three-year contract with the Gaucho for about $25,000.

Bruen refused to disclose the sum paid Fugazy by the Garden for the contracts he held with Schmeling and Campolo as the promoter at Ebbets Field, in Brooklyn. The sum has been placed at $65,000 and the deal indicates that Fugazy, once a thorn in the side of the late Tex Rickard, may do his promoting at some time in the future under the auspices of the Garden.

Although no word has been received from Schmeling, Bruen believes that the German Schlager, due to return to the United States within a few weeks, must fight here in the future for the Garden or not at all. In addition to the contract purchased from Fugazy and negotiated by Arthur Buelow, deposed manager of the German, the Garden also holds a two-year option on Schmeling's services. This option was signed by Schmeling nine months ago.

Bruen indicated that Schmeling will box in the Garden's new outdoor stadium at Miami, this winter, probably against Phil Scott, while Sharkey, who already has signed for a match in Florida, will be paired with Campolo in another major attraction.

OXY PREPS FOR CALTECH

Bengals Face Rivals in Crucial Rose Bowl Game Saturday; Tigers Heavy Favorites to Win

Occidental's Armistice Day victory over Whittier having moved the Tigers toward their second consecutive Southern California Conference football title, the Bengals are hard at work this week in preparation for their annual clash with Caltech this Saturday at the Pasadena Rose Bowl.

Coach Fox Stanton's crew proved a stumbling block to the Tigers last year and although a defeat at the hands of Caltech failed to cost them the title, it placed a bolt on a record that otherwise would have tabulated them as unconquered by a conference team.

The Engineers have always been a tough team for Occidental elevens. It's no secret that Stanton each year points his team for the Oxy game, and surprising improvement shown by the Engineers in their last two contests would indicate they are fast and rounding into their peak condition for the Tiger clash.

Two weeks ago the Engineers held Stanford to the very respectable score of 39 to 0, and last week they defeated Redlands, 14 to 0, a margin greater than that enjoyed by Pomona over the Bulldog team. Stanton's backfield was green as grass at the start of the season, but under his tutelage Levine, at quarter; Capt. Boyle and Bennett at halves, and Dickey at full, have developed into one of the sweetest running combinations in the Southland.

After a victory over Whittier, a team that was supposedly equal to holding the Tigers even, with a possibility of Oxy suffering defeat at the hands of the Poets, Coach Eddie Kienholz cannot afford to have a team as apparently weak as the Engineer eleven upset his team. But Kienholz faces just these possibilities Saturday.

SANTA CLARA GRID PLAYER NEAR DEATH

SAN JOSE (Cal.) Nov. 12. (AP)—Henry "Hank" Luoma, guard of the University of Santa Clara football team, was reported near death here today in the O'Connor sanatorium, where he was operated upon last week for appendicitis. Gangrene set in and a second operation was performed last night.

A call for volunteers for a blood transfusion brought more than 100 responses, and Hugh Clark, Jr., of Dunsmuir, was selected.

WELTERWEIGHTS SIGN FOR MAIN-STREET GO

Welterweights have been signed for the semi-wind-up battle at the Main-street Athletic Club next Saturday night. Sandy Garrison Casanova, Scotch-Mexican ring phantom, and Harry (Bubber) Johnson, one of the five leading negro 147-pounders, will clash in this event.

Abe Abrams, Oklahoma middleweight, makes his Pacific Coast debut in the main event against Jack Charves, undefeated Mexican.

DELAY PUCK LOOP OPENING

Rabid ice hockey fans who were hoping to get their initial glimpse of the Pacific Coast professional Hockey League teams this week must wait still another three days before enjoying that pleasure, due to a decision to postpone the opening until Monday, the 18th inst. Mel Malwick, Hollywood boss, in particular, wanted the later opening date because of the difficulty he has had assembling his Millionaire puck chasers. No other manager in the circuit had as much trouble. Joe Josephs, flashy forward purchased from Boston, has to come all the way from Nova Scotia, and Frank Mohar, a wing acquired in Edmonton, Can., has to make a trip of several thousand miles before reporting.

ANOTHER LENGTHY RACE SCHEDULED BY LEGION

The next auto racing program at the American Legion Speedway, to be featured by a 100-lap event, will be staged November 24, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Fred Loring of the Legion racing board. By that time Los Angeles will have become the dirt-track capital of the world, with the country's leading daredevils here, Loring declared.

"The fact that Johnny Krieger of Olympia, Wash., was forced to shatter the track record for 100 laps last Sunday in winning that race is some indication of how the game here has progressed lately," Loring stated. "The class of cars and drivers has been getting gradually better until now we have the speed kings of the country at the course."

"Shorty" Cantlon, recognized in the East as a peer of open-throttle demons on oiled tracks, was a last-minute entrant Sunday. Cantlon drove No. 4. Although he was forced to the pits with engine trouble, the diminutive easterner exhibited some clever work at the wheel, and will be feared in future meetings here.

As far as prize money last Sunday was concerned, most of it went to "outsiders." Krieger of Washington won first place in the 100-lap event, Francis Quinn, a nomad of the tracks, was second. George Smith of Portland was third. Babe Stapp of San Jose grabbed the purse in the twenty-four-lap consolation race, while Krieger took his second honors when he copped the Italian Helmet dash.

from Mr. Thomas Maloney, who stood several feet away. It is needless to say that Mr. Maloney is interested in young Campbell.

Jeffries will spring his young heavyweight on the public in about six months. He will condition him at his ranch himself.

Jeff said that Tom Sharkey was the most courageous fighter he ever encountered in the ring. He thought that Tommy Ryan could have licke' Mickey Walker and Ace Hudkins easy.

Some one asked Jeff as a parting question what he thought of the fighters of today as compared to the old-timers and he answered: "They're like the beer—and that's near.

OXY NET CAPTAIN IN ALL-COLLEGE FINALS

The All-Occidental College tennis championships has narrowed down to a field of eight candidates for honors in which are included the varsity captain-elect, Dale Robinson, Prof. Fred McLain, Mary Barbara Taylor, Dick Belote, Norman Patchen, Martin Hansen, Chip Bristole, and Ed Pomeroy. The feature pairing brings together Robinson and Belote. Patchen and Hansen will also provide a feature battle. Mary Barbara Taylor, seeded second, meets Ed Pomeroy in the lower half. Bristol faces McLain.

Bear Golfers Win Match

BERKELEY, Nov. 12. (Exclusive) The University of California golfing varsity demonstrated its real strength for the first time during the full practice period by vanquishing the military, navy and air corps squad, 9 to 0 over the Orinda Country Club course. The Bears captured every match and scored the three highest marks. Lander, No. 1 man on the team, had 76; Cahn turned in a 78 and Potter had a 79.

In the four games results were as follows: Linder and Potter defeated Murphy and Stillman; Griggs and Fleishman defeated Morrison and Van Horn; Moran and Noak defeated Bjrwell and Lowry.

Intercollegiate competition with Stanford, U.S.C. and U.C.L.A. is scheduled for the spring months.

HOMERS PLENTIFUL IN COAST CIRCUIT

As many as eighteen Coast League players banged out twenty or more home runs during the 1929 season, from Ike Boone with fifty-five down to Ray Jacobs and Cleo Carlyle with twenty each. Thirteen Coast Leaguers reached the twenty mark in homers in 1928.

Some idea of the increase in home-run hitting may be gleaned from the fact that during the first thirteen seasons of Coast League ball only four players were credited with hitting twenty home runs in a single season.

Brill's Play Bothers Foe

BY SOL METZGER

By the time Notre Dame has worked the three plays previously described the defense is in a quandary. The only way to stop the Irish is to smash up their first five or six plays. Then your team can play normal defense and not be worked out of position by the variety of the attack it opposes.

One of the problems of defense against Notre Dame is to protect the strong side and still bolster the weak. If the line shifts too wide, in order to stop the preceding plays we have described it will find itself coping with one of the hardest-plunging backs in a long time, Martin Brill, where it is least prepared to cope.

Brill is No. 1 in the play here described. He gets the pass, spins and fakes handing the ball to No. 2, as all the other backs beat it to the right as though on an end run. Then he unwinds himself and strikes at the short side of center like a thunderbolt. He is one what, with his speed of foot, his great strength and his 185 pounds.

LA SALLE AND ELKS MIX IN RING TONIGHT

WILMINGTON, Nov. 12.—Bobby La Salle, eccentric local welterweight and probably the greatest box-office attraction the Wilmington Bowl has ever put on parade, will attempt to erase a defeat Tommy Elks registered over him several months ago, when he faces the Arizona Mexican in a ten-rounder here tomorrow night.

Kenny La Salle is a short-ender in his scheduled six-round semi-final against the Mexican junior-lightweight, Joe Borola. Chick Peralto, and Drewery Willis clash in another six-round affair. The fours show Lew Tille battling Johnny Martinez and Lupe Chappiro mixing with Warren Frakes.

BIG SALARY FOR HOCKEY ACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Ching Johnson, star defense man of the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, who has been a holdout, today signed a contract for the 1929-30 season at a reported figure of $10,000.

AZTECS NEXT FOR SAGEHENS

Pomona Starts Working for Game With San Diego

Nixon Respects Ability of Opponents Saturday

Only Judy and Hagestad Not in Best of Condition

CLAREMONT, Nov. 12.—The Pomona Sagehens started work in earnest this afternoon for the game with San Diego State this coming Saturday. Coach Nixon let his men off yesterday, feeling that the rest would be more beneficial to the players than any workout that they could take.

The Pomona boys are in dead earnest about this football business and consequently there will be no letdown between the present and the 23rd inst. when the Occidental Tiger invades Alumni Field.

The Sagehens know the worth of the San Diego team and are working up plenty of dynamite for the game. The Aztecs always play away over their heads when they entertain Pomona and the Sagehens know that they have to beat an inspired team. Two years ago when Pomona played the southern boys on their home field the Aztecs put over two touchdowns without even giving the Sagehens a chance to feel the ball. Pomona finally won, 18-12, but it was a real battle all the way.

All the Sagehens are in good shape with the exception of John Judy, center, and Stew Hagestad, end. Judy's leg fails to respond to treatment, while it is doubtful if Hagestad will see any more football this year. Judy will be in shape for the Oxy game and perhaps for the San Diego game.

Although Arizona treated the Sagehens rather roughly at times, all the boys came through in great shape and are raring to go. The workout this afternoon was rather short due to a terrific windstorm that raged up and down the field, considerably handicapping the players.

KNUTE ROCKNE ON JOB AGAIN

two men interfering, the rest of the team cheering him on and eleven Drake men chasing." Rockne told his boys. "But this week we're going to get back to the old-fashioned blocking and tackling and I don't want to see a Southern California player on his feet on any play next Saturday."

He then lined up the first team and explained the function of each man on each of the known Trojan formations. No plays were run, but the reserves came out of their huddle into the various formations from which the coast team starts its powerful attack.

It was evident from this drill that Hill, the coast team's best fullback, will be closely watched in Saturday's game. After the dummy defensive workout the varsity rehearsed several new formations they will use in their last three games.

The two cripples from the Drake game, Joe Nash and Frank Leahy, were both in uniform this afternoon and able to perform with the shock troops and first team, respectively, at center and right tackle.

Mr. Rockne abandoned his custom of coming to practice in his car and made his appearance in an ambulance. The ambulance wheel chair was lifted to the ground and the Notre Dame pilot was wheeled to places of his choosing with a minimum of delay and trouble.

SEEK KENTUCKY FOR GAME HERE

trying to arrange an intersectional game for next season with the University of Nebraska at Lincoln on October 4, it was announced today. Nebraska has wired that a game with Kentucky on October 4 is agreeable and if no other prominent team can be signed by the Wildcats nearer home Nebraska will be played.

The Wildcats were put out of the running Saturday by Alabama for Southern Conference honors, but are optimistic over next season's prospects, as many of the stars are sophomores.

E. Bain of the Vernon Post of the American Legion has sent tentative feelers to Texas University, Kentucky and other eastern and southern schools relative to a Christmas Day game to be played in the Coliseum. Bain plans to have St. Mary's or some other powerful Coast eleven as the West's representative.

SUNFREZE PEARS AND UNION OILERS CLASH

Another capacity crowd is expected to jam the Winter Garden Ice Palace tonight when the hockey boys clash in the fifth game of the Southern California Amateur Hockey League. The line-ups:

Union Oilers		Sunfreze
Glasman	Goal	Ireland
Smith	Defense	Coleman
Henry	Defense	Collett
Mason	Defense	Vaugh
Shpington	Wing	Robertson
Crapper	Wing	McKuster

Poly and Lincoln Steal City League Limelight by Staging Battle at Wrigley

PREPS TO MIX IN BALL PARK

Mechanics Picked to Beat Tiger Eleven

Manual Arts Favored Over Hollywood Team

Roosevelt-Fairfax Feature Minor City Card

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

While the Manual Arts Toilers are playing the Hollywood Redshirts Friday on the Movie City eleven's lot, Coach Voyle Brennen's Poly Mechanics will be stealing the City League limelight by playing the Lincoln Tigers at Wrigley Field. The ball park site was decided late yesterday after a brief consultation between Oscar Reichow of the Los Angeles Angels' ball club and scholastic officials.

As Lincoln has no home field and the Poly gridiron is too small to hold the crowd expected another site for the contest had to be found. At first it was planned to stage the game on the Jefferson field, but for some reason the Democrats decided to stay at home this week so that one was discarded. The L. A. High Romans will play the Democrats Friday.

CLOSE GAME

The Toiler-Hollywood game promises to be one of the closest games played in the City League this year. Jim Bicwett's aggregation rates a slight favorite over the Redshirts but Vic Kelley's gang, if they can learn not to fumble when near the goal line, may upset the dope.

Kelley has lost two tough games this season, one to Lincoln and last Friday to Franklin. In both contests they made more first downs and more yardage from scrimmage than did their rivals. However, the pay-off is on the score and not on yardage, so it really doesn't mean anything except that Hollywood has powerful potentialities which may come to light this weekend. Maybe Kelley is holding out until the L. A. High game a week from Friday, which the garrulous Indian plans to win, thereby cutting the Romans out of the title and handing it to Franklin, provided the Panthers can defeat Poly.

PICK MECHANICS

The Lincoln-Poly struggle ought to be pretty close with the Mechanics having a slight edge due to their strong showing against L. A. High. It was generally conceded that the Romans had the best passing attack in the city and the Poly boys sure had it stopped last week. Lincoln has won its last two games with its passing attack, and if that fails to work against the Mechanics, the Tigers are going to be on the short end of the score.

In the third game on tap, the L. A. High Romans should not have much trouble in beating the Jefferson Democrats. Last season the Roman-Democrat game was pretty close with the Romans finally winning, 12-6.

Coach Clark De Groot's Roosevelt Rough Riders meet their last hurdle in the Minor City football race this Friday in the strong Fairfax eleven. The Colonials have only lost one game this season, dropping a 26-0 decision to the Fremont Pathfinders two weeks ago. Since then Coach Welsh has worked hard and long perfecting a defense, which he hopes will stop the hard-driving Rough Rider backs. In the two other games listed Garfield will try to stop the Belmont Hilltoppers, while Fremont tries out to University.

Ancient Foes Mix Saturday

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—With only one intersectional game of any consequence on the program, eastern football fans on Saturday will turn to the renewal of a half-dozen ancient rivalries.

New York University's clash with Missouri of the Big Six heads the intersectional slate on the Atlantic seaboard but there will be more interest in such games as those involving Yale and Princeton; Cornell and Dartmouth; Penn and Columbia; Colgate and Syracuse; Williams and Amherst, and Tufts and Bowdoin, all of them rivalries of thirty years or more.

Yale, with little Albie Booth for a sparkplug, will be a decided favorite over a Princeton Tiger able to win only two games this year, both of them over minor opposition. In this rivalry going back to 1873, Yale has won twenty-seven games; Princeton sixteen, with nine ties.

Penn's twentieth meeting with Columbia looks like another triumph for the Warriors from Philadelphia, who have beaten Columbia fifteen times since 1878. Columbia has won three games and one was a tie.

Williams and Amherst have met forty-five times since 1884 with Williams the victor on twenty-four occasions and Amherst on seventeen. Four games ended in ties. Comparative records this year indicate a closely fought game.

Colgate appears to pack too much power for Syracuse this year and expects its seventeenth victory of the series.

STALLING BOXER OUSTED

SANTA ROSA, Nov. 12. (AP)—Jack Kirk, 143, Oakland negro, was ordered out of the ring in the seventh round of his ten-round headline match with Micke Gibbons, 142, of Vallejo, here tonight. The referee threw Kirk out for stalling. In the semi-wind-up Jack Silver, 148, San Francisco, took a technical knockout over Bob Martin, 152, San Francisco, in the second of their four-round bout.

SEASON RECORD EXPECTED

LAWRENCE (Kan.) Nov. 12. (AP)—A season attendance record for the Big Six football conference probably will be established at the Missouri-Kansas game here November 22 if the expected 35,000 fans jam Memorial Stadium. Advance seat sales already have reached 20,000. Nearly 38,000 can be accommodated.

DEFENDS LAURELS

LEWIS TANGLES WITH MAT KING

actly at his best in that last match, and that his timing was off, which would account for his missing tackles, as much as Lewis's ability at dodging, would. He claims he is in perfect form for this evening's engagement, and promises to polish off the challenger in straight falls, if possible.

The bout is scheduled for two out of three tumbles, with no time limit, which insures plenty of excitement for the assembled multitude.

Promoter Lou Daro has rounded up a card of sparkling grapplers, all, or most of whom, are noted for their hair-pulling, kneeing, gouging and what-not, so there should be plenty of excitement for the early arrivals.

Dick Daviscourt, who doesn't win all of his bouts, but guarantees to outrough any opponent offered him, tangles with the popular and capable Jack O'Malley in the one fall, one hour affair. O'Malley is a good-looking, fast-moving performer, and he ought to beat Daviscourt, but not without something of a struggle.

Everett Marshall, former University of Washington amateur performer, and Al Baffert hook up in another one-hour engagement. Marshall hasn't lost a bout in three years of amateur and one year of professional grappling, and is rapidly working his way to the top of his chosen labors.

The opener, a thirty-minute affair, features Leo Papiano and Ad Herman.

FRENCH BOXER DROPS VERDICT

himself off the canvas at the final bell.

Ray McIntyre did most of the leading and punching, but Sammy Seaman's boxing ability evened the count and the six-round special event was tabbed a draw. It was a good, fast fight all the way.

Kenneth Kent, a newcomer from Oregon, stopped Jimmy Peterson in the fourth round of the second preliminary. Kent clouted Peterson on the chin in the fourth round with a hard right and the latter was out on his fee. Referee Frank Holborrow stepped in between the boys and stopped the bout, when it was apparent that Peterson was unable to continue.

In the four-round opener, Jess Vasquez defeated Bobby Hayden.

NEWSBOY BROWN GETS HOOD-HUGHES WINNER

A battle with Newsboy Brown in the same ring awaits the winner of the Tommy Hughes-Ernie Hood flyweight scrap at the Pasadena Arena tomorrow night. Hood is raring to get at Brown and Hughes, who fought the Newsboy a month ago at the Arena, also is favorable to the bout. So favorable, in fact, that he is trying to postpone a trip East. Tommy has been engaged to fight Black Bill, generally ranked as the second best flyweight in New York.

Young Sport will meet Speedy Lucas in the six-round semifinal. Another six-rounder is Sailor Larry and Paul Drake, hard-hitting middleweights. Four-round preliminaries will be: Tommy Huffman vs. Phil Blood, 148 pounds; Melvin Bobo vs. George Monzon, 136 pounds.

CAGERS IN PRACTICE GAME

In preparation for the coming basketball season, the Woodbury Business College and the Southern California Telephone Company casaba squads will meet in a practice game to be held Friday in the Sentous High School gym. The game will begin at 7 p.m.

OKUN SIGNED FOR BOUT

DETROIT, Nov. 12. (AP)—Dick Dunn, manager of Olympia Arena, announced tonight that he had signed Yale Okun, New York lightheavyweight, for a match here with the winner of the ten-round bout between George Courtney, Oklahoma City, and Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., who fight here Friday night.

Even Drive a Pendulum

BY SOL METZGER

Make all the sport you wish over Leo Diegel's pendulum method of putting, the fact remains the golf swing itself is a penulum swing. All through it, as the sketches of three stars here shown at various stages of the swing, the arms are in the same relation to the shoulders as though the shoulders were the base of an equilateral triangle.

The pivotal point of the brace is the right hip going back and the left hip coming down. The shoulders swing with the arms but not with the hips.

Add yardage and accuracy to your drive by writing Sol Metzger, care of The Times, for his free leaflet on driving. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

PADDOCK WILL ASK FOR MARK

meet was held there. Inasmuch as the national body is now accepting marks made for a longer distance record for a shorter distance, Paddock feels justified in asking for his record. The mark is now down in Spalding's Official Athletic Almanac as a noteworthy performance, but has been overlooked by the record committee.

It has been the custom of the A.A.U. to consider time made in a longer distance as the record for a shorter distance, providing that it was the fastest time. For example, the 220-yard record of 20 3-5s., is also the world's record for the 200-meters, which is a few feet under 220 yards. One hundred meters is a shorter distance than 110 yards, yet Paddock ran the latter distance in 10 1-5s., and the 100-meter record is now 10 2-5s. This mark is also held by Paddock.

Leslie A. Henry, newly elected president of the S.P.A.A.U., leaves for the St. Louis meeting tomorrow morning, flying as far as Kansas City. From there he will take a train for Chicago to attend the football game, leaving for St. Louis Saturday evening.

Arnold Eddy, S.P.A.A.U. secretary, left last night for the football game and the A.A.U. meeting.

National sports awards for 1930 will be made at St. Louis while the committee will also pass or reject all marks made during 1929.

NO DOGS ALLOWED

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Jack Dempsey still has a heart, but it's for children, not dogs. The former world's heavyweight champion refused today to allow his name to be connected with a charity boxing show to raise funds for The Orphans of The Storm, a home for friendless dogs sponsored by Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, the former Irene Castle.

reason for heavy odds. They are ridiculous on the face of things. The Trojans beat Notre Dame last year, 27 to 14, and with two exceptions the Irish line is the same as in 1928.

Cannon, a guard, and either Donoghue or Leahy at tackle, are the exceptions. The Trojans made yardage against this line—plenty of it—and outrushed the Irish by land and air, 310 yards to 185.

One of the Trojans' biggest ground-gainers last year was Russ Saunders, and they still have him. He carried the ball in the 1928 game twenty-two times for a total of seventy-three yards, an average of 3.1 yards.

WILLIAMS GONE

Don Williams, the biggest yardage manufacturer, is gone, . . t with Hill and Musick a.d Moses on the job, plus Duffield, there seems to be no reason to suspect that the Trojans can't make a considerable number of yards and perhaps a touchdown or two against the Irish.

However, there is one story that should be spiked, and that deals with the alleged value of Don Moses in the 1927 game at Chicago.

I have read that Moses outshone Morley Drury in that struggle, and that if given the chance he will come into his own next Saturday.

Moses undoubtedly will be given all the chance in the world to shine, but he has yet to win his spurs in a Notre Dame game. In the particular game referred to he carried the ball after he was sent in as a substitute for Harry Edelson exactly ten times, and he gained exactly twenty yards.

Against this figure contrast the twenty-eight times Drury carried the ball for a total of 119 yards, an average of 4.2 yards per crack. He hung up the longest run of the day—31 yards in the first quarter—and tossed the pass to Saunders that brought a touchdown to the Trojans before the game was five minutes old.

It seems a pity that the feats of this great back should be lost sight of in a distressing and inaccurate comparison with a back who has not wan a starting place in the line-up this year.

GREAT DUEL

The 1927 game was a great duel for yardage honors between Drury and Christy Flanagan, the great Irish halfback. The latter emerged slightly in the lead with a total of 124 yards in twenty-two attempts, an average of 5.6 yards.

This year Jack Elder is the big star. A sprinter in the spring, this track artist has turned his talents to such good use that he has failed to score in but one of Notre Dame's six victories this fall.

He scored both touchdowns in Notre Dame's 14-to-0 victory over Indiana. He scored once against Navy in a 14-to-7 triumph. He ran 43 yards to 6 of Notre Dame's 19 points in the Wisconsin game. He paved the way for a 7-to-0 win over Carnegie Tech with a 33-yard run. He and Carideo scored two of the four touchdowns for a 26-6 victory against Georgia Tech, and both played a big part in the other two. Elder made one run of 53 yards in this game. He made an 18-yard run to put Notre Dame in the lead in the last quarter against Drake last Saturday, and another run by him paved the way for the third touchdown and a 19-to-7 win.

STOP ELDER

Plainly, it will be a case of "Stop Elder" with the Trojans. If they can't, it will be just too bad. The situation has Jones worried just enough so that he is taking eight ends to Chicago. He wants speed from his flankers, and the minute one tires, out he will come, and a fresh one will take the vacated place.

Tsapaan and Arbelbide will draw the starting assignments, then Wilcox and Steponovitch, followed by Jurich and Kreiger, Durkee and Joslin.

But while the Trojans have Elder as the main ace of the Irish to watch they also must pay attention to three other good backs—Mullins or Joe Savoldi, both line-plunging fools; Brill, the transfer from Pennsylvania who lost a year of competition in order to play with the Irish, and Frank Carideo, the quarterback who hurls forward passes with unerring aim and kicks like the devil himself.

Carideo is the gent who ran back a punt for 52 yards in the Trojan game at the Coliseum last year, and paved the way for the second Irish touchdown in the last quarter.

TRIPLE THREAT MEN

Both Elder and Carideo are triple threat artists. They pass, they run and they kick.

However, it is interesting to note that in the 1927 game Elder, then a sophomore, was the goat for the first Trojan touchdown.

One of the shock troop boys at the time, Elder was called upon to punt early in the game, and his effort sliced out of bounds only 12 yards up the field.

That gave the great Morley Drury his chance. From the Notre Dame 40-yard line he made 28 yards in three trials—5, 2 and 21 yards, respectively. From that point after three shots at the line by himself and Edelson had gained only five yards Drury passed to Saunders three yards from the goal, and Saunders went over untouched.

Five Trojan sophomores started in the Notre Dame game two years ago and this is one of the best indications that the Irish should not make monkeys of the Trojans this year. These boys, who are still on the job as regulars, are Saunders and Edelson (if he is able to play,) in the backfield, and Tappaan, Anthony and Capt. Barragar on the line. In addition Galloway, Moses, Steponovitch, Hoff and Kreiger all saw service.

Elder is the only Notre Dame starter from 1927 left on the job. However, Colrick, end; Law, guard, and Moynihan, center, all regulars this year, saw action two years ago.

This is the complete list of thirty-eight players who left last night. Henry Becker, halfback, being added because of the illness of Edelson:

Ends—Tsapaan, Steponovitch, Joslin, Kreiger, Jurich, Durkee, Wilcox, Arbelbide.

Tackles—Hall, Seitz, Hoff, Anthony, Rund, Ward.

Guards—Barragar (c.,) Galloway, Gowder, Templeton, Baker, Shaw.

Centers—Dye, Williamson, Neidhart.

Quarterbacks—Saunders, Duffield, Shaver, Chambers.

Halfbacks—Pinckert, Mortensen, Apsit, Stephens, Mallory, Hammack, Becker.

Fullbacks—Musick, Hall, Moses, Brown.

Laswell and Kuhns Enter Final Round

Maynard Laswell, retired national singles handball champion, and his L.A.A.C. partner, Grant Kuhns, went into the finals of the Southern Pacific A.A.U. doubles tournament at the Mercury Club yesterday by winning a terrific two-hour battle from Fred Olney and Fred Spalty of the same club. The match proved to be the best played at the L.A.A.C. this year, and was played before a packed gallery. The scores of the hot battle were 21-9, 17-21, 21-20.

The championship finals will be played at the L.A.A.C. tomorrow noon with Laswell and Kuhns meeting Joe Powers and Harry Le Goube of the same club.

TRADITIONAL RIVALS MEET

Michigan Plays Minnesota; Chicago Faces Illinois

BY WILLIAM WEEKES

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Two of the oldest traditional rivalries in western conference football—Michigan and Minnesota, and Chicago and Illinois—will be renewed Saturday.

Michigan will go to Minneapolis to try to take the "little brown jug" away from Minnesota, where it has rested in a trophy case since 1927. They did not meet last season, and the 1927 victory was Minnesota's first since 1919. Comparing their records, Michigan does not appear to have much chance of taking the trophy back to Ann Arbor, but Minnesota, in losing to Iowa last Saturday, took a physical beating and may be unable to recover in time to stop the improving Wolverines.

Chicago and Illinois will be fighting for a trophy, and none is needed to bring out the best in both teams. Neither team is having a good season, but both have proven capable of springing surprises and a close battle is indicated.

Coach Jimmy Phelan of Purdue has wasted no time in getting under way with his preparation for the invasion of Iowa Saturday—the game that probably will make or break the Purdue season. Phelan did not use Welch or Harmeson, his star ball-carriers, Saturday against Mississippi, but yesterday both along with White, Yunevich and the varsity line were driven through a sharp scrimmage against the reserves.

Iowa was given an afternoon off to permit the squad to recover from bumps received in the Minnesota contest. Coach Ingwersen found a long list of injuries awaiting him. He plans to give his reserves a lot of attention during the preparatory period before the Purdue clash.

Indiana, which had an open date last Saturday, is in the midst of winding up for its invasion of Northwestern this week-end. The Hoosiers are in good physical condition and will be at their best against the Wildcats. Coach Pat Page has indicated he will have several second-string men in the starting line-up.

Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern gave his regulars a rest yesterday, after cautioning them against picking Indiana for a soft opponent. Northwestern is pulling for Iowa to trip Purdue Saturday, which, with a Northwestern triumph over Indiana, would give the Wildcats a strong claim to the conference title. It will be Northwestern's final Big Ten contest of the season.

A minimum of activity is on the Wisconsin and Ohio State programs for the week. The Badgers will have an open date Saturday, and Ohio State, with Illinois to be met a week from Saturday, plans little work in preparation for Kenyon, Saturday's opponent.

"IRISH" MEUSEL TO HELP COACH GIANTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)— Emil (Irish) F. Meusel of Glendale, Cal., one-time star left-fielder with the Phillies and the Giants, signed today to serve as second coach of the Giants. Dave Bancroft, team-mate of Meusel at Philadelphia and New York and later manager of the Boston Braves for four years, recently came to terms with John McGraw to act as first coach.

IOWA GAME A SELLOUT

LAFAYETTE (Ind.) Nov. 12. (AP)—A sellout crowd of more than 20,000 spectators will watch the struggle between Purdue and Iowa Saturday, in which Purdue's chance for a Western Conference football championship will be in the balance.

HOLKE TO MANAGE CLUB

HAZELTON (Pa.) Nov. 12. (AP)—Walter Holke of St. Louis, at one time star first baseman of the New York Giants, has been signed as playing manager of the Hazelton team of the New York-Pennsylvania baseball league for next season.

STILES, GALLERY IN FEATURE SQUASH TILT

A new squash satellite flashed brilliantly, and a home town boy made good, in the first round of the national singles squash championship at the Los Angeles Athletic Club last night, when Maxwell (Kid) Stiles defeated Ed O'Brien, noted squasher of the Pasadena Athletic and Country Club, in straight sets, 21-7, 21-10. Stiles meets a former national champion, Timmothy Gallery of the Hollywood Athletic Club, in the feature second-round match tonight.

Stiles was cheered on to victory by a milling crowd that filled the vast championship squash court of the Mercury Club.

Klawater (H.A.C.) defeated Bennett (H.A.C.) default.
Ackler (L.A.A.C.) defeated Gautier (H.A.C.) 21-16, 27-26.
Gallery (H.A.C.) defeated Frazer (H.A.C.) default.
Vance (L.A.A.C.) defeated Prieske (H.A.C.) 21-9, 13-21, 21-7.
Cooper (H.A.C.) defeated McCarty (H.A.C.) default.
Boultinghouse (P.A.C.C.) defeated Holmes (L.A.A.C.) 21-14, 21-20.
Hoover (H.A.C.) defeated Mullin (L.A.A.C.) default.

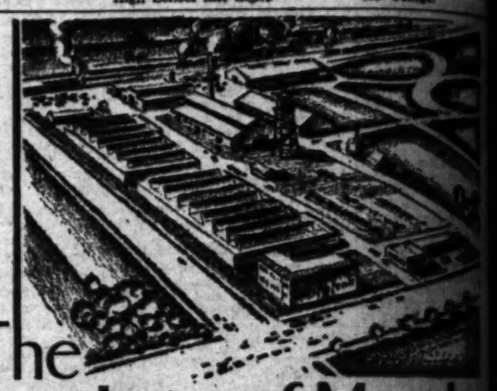
Chess

WIESBADEN (Germany) Nov. 12 (AP)—Dr. Alexander Alekhine of Paris retained the chess championship of the world today by drawing with E. D. Bogoljubow, his German challenger, in the twenty-fifth and decisive game of the series. The game was adjourned overnight after forty moves yesterday and a draw was declared today at the fifty-fifth move.

The standing: Alekhine, 11; Bogoljubow, 5; drawn, 9.

MADCAP FIVE WINS

The Madcap Girls' basketball team defeated Woodbury College quintet, 31 to 17, at the Jefferson High School last night.



The Advantages of Moreland

Moreland truck operators enjoy certain advantages that are highly desirable in this day of keenest competition. ››› Morelands are built right here in the West. The power, speed, brakes, capacity, and size of various models, are particularly designed to economically and efficiently serve industries on the Pacific slope. ››› Moreland maintains, throughout the West, a system of factory branches adequately stocked with spare parts and manned by truck specialists. This is Moreland's guarantee of uninterrupted operation. ››› Pacific Coast truck operators have discovered that, in addition to mechanical superiority, the use of Morelands has the further advantage of supporting a western enterprise. This is not a question of local pride, but, rather, a matter of deserved co-operation. Only when western man-power is continuously and profitably employed can western business thrive.

The Moreland line is complete. There are 13 models, with 150 adaptations—ranging from the light, speedy "Ace" up to the trailer-pulling, six-wheeled "Super-Cargo." Ask a Moreland representative to demonstrate in detail the advantages of Moreland in profit-earning transportation.

Don't miss the extra comfort of a
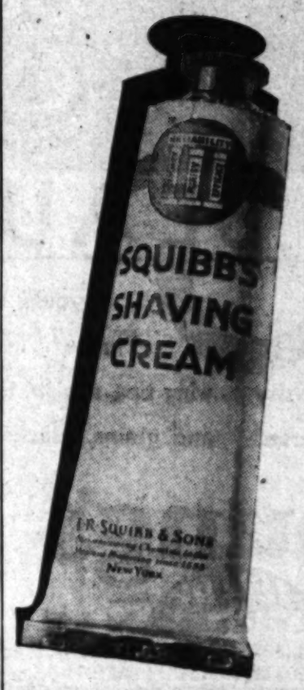
DOUBLE-ACTION shave



THERE are two things to consider when you shave. Your whiskers and your skin. Squibb's the double-action shaving cream, takes care of both.

Because Squibb's contains a newly perfected shaving ingredient that has two actions. It protects your face while you shave by a blend of oils and balm; and it protects your face after you shave by restoring the delicate oils essential to skin health.

This second action makes Squibb's a revolution in shaving comfort. For vital oils are Nature's own means of keeping your skin smooth, supple and comfortable. Soap removes these oils—and shaving creams, as a rule, are only soaps. Squibb's is different, because it replaces these oils. If ever your skin feels parched or sensitive after shaving, try Squibb's Shaving Cream and you will appreciate the advantages of the double-action shave.

Get a large tube of Squibb's at your druggist's. Only 40c.

Henning Tells City Club of His Hopes for Future

Rejection of Buffum Plan by Long Beach Deplored

Los Angeles Harbor Growth Expected to be Steady

Voicing the hope that, in spite of past differences and present conditions, Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors one day will be combined under one management for the best interests of the entire Southland, A. E. Henning, chairman of the Harbor Committee of the City Council, in an address at the City Club yesterday expressed his regret that Long Beach failed to accept the Buffum plan, declaring that if that plan had been adopted all minor differences easily could have been adjusted.

"Long Beach is not credited as a harbor by the United States government and no government money ever has been spent on harbor development there," said Mr. Henning. "The prosperity of Long Beach would have been greatly enhanced by the unification of her harbor with that of Los Angeles for, with one big harbor, the two cities could put up a united front and obtain larger appropriations from the government than either or both of the municipalities will be able to obtain by separate efforts. I do not doubt that the government will continue to support Los Angeles Harbor, in spite of the failure of unification plans, but it would have been better if those plans had been carried out.

GREAT HARBOR BUILT

"Generally speaking, artificial harbors today are superior to natural harbors," said the speaker. "Within the last twenty years Los Angeles, aided by the government, has built up a great harbor, destined to be the biggest harbor in the world. Although divided by two political subdivisions, the Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors constitute in reality, one big harbor. The government was right in asking a combination of the harbors under one control. The United States is not interested in appropriating funds to two competing harbors but the government would be willing to devote large sums to the development of the great Southwest.

"Long Beach has spent $7,000,000 on her harbor and probably will continue to spend vast sums for its development, but there will come a day when the citizens will demand a return on their investment," said Mr. Henning. "The mere fact that Long Beach creates new sheds and wharves will not attract ships to her port. Something more is needed for expansion of harbor business and that something may be said in one word—cargoes. If, in the effort to increase business, Long Beach cuts its rates, then a rate war between the two harbors is likely to result—and the taxpayers will pay the cost of the war."

REVENUE EXPECTED

Calling attention to the fact that Los Angeles Harbor is Southern California's greatest asset, Mr. Henning pointed out, among other benefits to the people, the cheap shipping rates and the consequent reduction in railway freight charges and said that the millions of dollars thus saved has redounded to the general prosperity of all citizens of the Southland.

"Our citizens have provided liberally for the development and maintenance of our harbor, and I do not think they ever will be called upon to duplicate their investments," said the speaker. "Our harbor is not yet big enough to meet demands of the near future, but it rapidly is approaching the point at which it is self-supporting and, with government aid, which we believe will be forthcoming, I do not doubt that it soon will become a source of revenue."

POLICE HEARING NEAR RIOT

Officers Resent Brutality Charges by Russian Red and Criticism by Commissioner Thorpe

A near riot almost was precipitated in the assembly-room of the Police Commission at the conclusion of its morning session yesterday following a hearing of complaints by Frank Specter, a Russian, secretary of the Communist party of America, who is awaiting deportation, and his attorney, Leo Gallagher, that the former had been "beaten up" by policemen in the Boyle Heights Police Station last Saturday night after his arrest for conducting a meeting to air Communistic views at Brooklyn and Cornwall streets.

The complainants had sought and gained the sympathy of President Thorpe, who, without waiting for the police side of the story, denounced what he described as the brutality of police officers. Detective Lieutenant Hynes, of the police intelligence bureau, which seeks to arrest those declaiming against the government, took issue with Gallagher, Specter and Rev. Clinton J. Taft, director of the American Civil Liberties Union.

John F. Miller, editor of the Searchlight, sided with Hynes and declared that if the commission was going to discipline officers for seeking to stop radicals from advocating overthrow of the government, he was in a position to state, as a member of the Americanization committee of the American Legion, that the latter will attend to the "reds" if the police are stopped from so doing.

COMMISSION ADJOURNS

Seeing that it had stirred up a hornets' nest, the commission, on motion of Drake, hurriedly adjourned. The arguments continued, however, between Miller and Gallagher. The latter shouted that he and five brothers had fought in the war. Others in the audience sided with Miller and Specter and a brother of Gallagher joined in. High words passed and Police Inspector Longuevan and Lieut. Stevens, of the police personnel bureau, re-entered the room and required the disputants to keep the peace.

WILL INVESTIGATE

Gallagher had stated that he had two complaints to make against the police department. He presented Specter and charged that the man had been "beaten up." Specter declared that two policemen did it. He explained that he had attempted to defend himself as "best he could," but that the two were too much for him. He did not give any names but said he had the numbers. At the request of Gallagher, the commissioners retired to their private room to examine the asserted "bruises." Specter explained that they were mostly on his left arm, which he had raised to "protect himself."

Gallagher explained he is attorney for the Communist party.

While President Thorpe was expressing his views on what should be done to any police officer for using force against a prisoner, Commissioner Coe interrupted and moved that the complaint be referred to the police personnel bureau for investigation and report. Drake seconded the motion, which carried, and Thorpe's talk ended. Drake explained that he had no sympathy with Specter's political views, however.

Gallagher then explained that his second complaint was against Detective Lieutenant Hynes, whom he charged had cursed him and threatened him with violence when he sought to interview a colored man whom Hynes had arrested in the rear of the stage at the Trinity Auditorium Sunday night. Gallagher said that later he had been arrested at the police station when seeking to interview the man, but had been released.

Detective Hynes flatly denied Gallagher's charges, but admitted telling him he would arrest him. He said Gallagher had sought to obstruct him in performance of his duty. The arrested man, Hynes declared, flatly denied that Gallagher was his attorney and when Gallagher insisted that the colored man was his client, he had called the attorney "a liar."

"And I still insist he is a liar," declared Hynes, to the commission, looking at Gallagher. "This is nothing unusual for this man to make such charges against officers in the same work I am in. This man told me at the booking office in the police station when I arrested him that he was going to be here today and get my job. I told him if the commission takes jobs from officers for attending to their work and believes in Communism I am willing to lose my job."

"You are not going to lose it," declared Commissioner Coe, firmly.

Hynes told of wild statements made against police officers which could not be sustained by any evidence and named Rev. Clinton J. Taft of the American Civil Liberties Union as abusing police officers on the public platform by making charges which could not be proven in a single case. Taft, who was in the audience, sought to interrupt, but John F. Miller took the floor.

"I've seen this same situation many a time," he said, "where they make a target of a police officer. This is the kind of work which keeps Communists from being shipped away. I am surprised that the commission can sit here and listen to their word against that of the police officers. If you don't want the officers to beat them up for talking against the government, send them over to the American Legion."

It was at this point that Gallagher shouted that he and his brothers had fought in the war.

Taft then arose and urged that an investigation be started by the commission into the conduct of the police intelligence bureau, which he referred to as "the red squad." He charged the bureau with entering homes without warrant and other offenses and Hynes answered him.

Hynes pointed out that it was a strange thing that the American Civil Liberties Union only sought to defend "wobblies" and "radicals." He wanted to know why it did not seek to defend others.

Taft explained somewhat lamely that the union did not investigate the politics of those it defended.

"You don't find the Chamber of Commerce arrested," declared Gallagher, sarcastically.

Shortly afterward the commission adjourned, without taking action on the request of Specter for the Communist party to hold street meetings at Fifth street and Towne avenue, where the commission recently granted the Socialists the right to speak. This had come up before the rumpus, but Specter was not present at the time.

No action was taken on Gallagher's personal complaint because the proceedings promised a riot.

ATTORNEY MAKES NOT GUILTY PLEA

Leo P. Gallagher, attorney arrested on charges of resisting an officer during a police raid on an asserted Communist meeting at Trinity Auditorium Sunday night, yesterday pleaded not guilty before Municipal Judge Lahey and asked for jury trial. The case was set for December 6, next, and Gallagher released on his own recognizance.

Detective Lieutenant Hynes of the police "Red" squad reported that the attorney interfered with his effort to arrest John Owens, negro, for suspicion of criminal syndicalism.

Jury trial of five other asserted Communists, arrested at the same time on various misdemeanor charges, was set by Judge Lahey for the 19th inst. The five, Martin Shapiro, Frank Spector, Jack Zeller, Michael J. McCabe and Leon Mabille, were released on bail pending trial.

Traffic Victims Die of Injuries

Mrs. Nora Bethel, 52 years of age, of 1044 North Martel avenue, died yesterday at General Hospital, the victim of injuries received last Sunday when she was struck by an automobile at Highland avenue and Hollywood Boulevard. The car, according to police, was driven by Frederick Koffman of 6811 Camrose Drive. A Coroner's inquest has been set for 9:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Another traffic death reported yesterday was that of Mrs. Georgia Schlenker, 40, of 4610 Yosemite Drive. She died at White Memorial Hospital as the result of injuries suffered last Saturday night. According to the police report, Mrs. Schlenker was knocked down at Avenue 63 and Eagle Rock Boulevard by an automobile driven by Miss Eugenia Egloff of 1326 Fair Oaks avenue, South Pasadena.

CITY'S FORESTRY PLAN DISCUSSED

Conference on Tree-Planting Campaign Held

Ways and Means of Financing Project Come Up

Municipal and Chamber Leaders Attend

Maintenance of the work of the city forester's department, recently created by the City Council, was the subject of a conference yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce Building of members of the Park Board, the City Planning Commission and the education and art committee of the chamber, who gathered for a general discussion of ways and means to obtain funds for the use of City Forester Tibbetts.

There was some difference of opinion as to the proper place for the department, some contending that it belongs under the Park Board and others that its proper sphere is with the Department of Public Works, but it was agreed generally it should be divorced absolutely from politics before it can operate effectively to carry out a program of tree planting to beautify the city.

POLITICS TABOOED

Tibbetts pointed out the fact that there is nothing in the city charter which says the Park Department shall do anything but care for existing trees, and the Department of Public Works is charged only with the removal of trees, thus leaving his department the only agency for the actual planting of trees.

George Barnes, president of the Green Cross of America, declared the establishment of a permanent basic organization separated from politics, budget commitments, etc., is a necessity before the city can have a good street tree department.

In the absence of the present proper financial backing for the department George Stace of the city and county planning commission of the Chamber of Commerce said in his opinion the best efforts of the city forestry department should be devoted at the present time to a program of education of the public concerning the economic and practical as well as the esthetic value of trees.

WORK UNDER WAY

Tibbetts told the group that a great deal of this work already is being done through contact with neighborhood improvement associations, small home owners and district chambers of commerce, but in order to meet the demands of this phase of the work he said that at least five more men will be necessary for the department.

Robert McCourt, chairman of the education and art committee of the chamber, presided at the meeting.

BRAASCH WILL SPEAK

Through the co-operation of the University of Southern California and the Advertising Club, the Kiwanis Club has obtained for the principal speaker at the noon meeting today at the Biltmore W. K. Braasch of Chicago, president of the "Salesmanship Foundation of Chicago. His subject will be "Is Salesmanship a Real Science?" He formerly was national director of sales in the department of modern salesmanship at La Salle Extension University, and has just concluded a series of ten lectures at the University of Southern California.

SHRINE TO HAVE BUSY DAYS

Great Program of Cheer and Assistance for Poor Ushered in by Christmas Season

Vaudeville, picture shows and dances for Shriners and their families and a Christmas party for their children, the great annual Charity Ball, visits and distribution of gifts to poor crippled children in the city's hospitals, an initiation ceremony, a Christmas tree party for 8000 poor children of Los Angeles and distribution of food, clothing and necessities to hundreds of needy families, comprise the activities of Al Malaikah Temple for the balance of 1929.

A complete list of varied activities was issued yesterday by illustrious Potentate LeRoy M. Edwards, head of the Shriners and Al Malaikah Temple in Los Angeles.

VISITS TO CHILDREN

Visits to the crippled children will be an innovation this year. Hundreds of crippled, bed-confined, poor children at the General, Orthopaedic, Lutheran, Methodist and other hospitals will be visited by Potentate Edwards and other Shriners, accompanied by the uniformed organizations of Al Malaikah Temple in addition to a dozen clowns and special entertainers.

At each place Santa Claus will appear and direct the distribution of gifts to the children.

The annual Charity Ball will be the 29th inst. in the Shrine ballroom and plans have been completed to care for a crowd of 10,000 persons. Proceeds are used by Al Malaikah Temple to defray the cost of the poor children's Christmas party, and the distribution of baskets of food and bundles of clothing to worthy persons. Noble James W. Jump has been in charge of this work for years and already has completed the purchase of dolls and other toys.

POSTAL AID ASKED

Headquarters for the annual distribution of baskets and food will be opened shortly at Al Malaikah Temple and a force of investigators procured to inquire into each case. A request has again been made of Postmaster O'Brien to turn over to the organization all Santa Claus letters that go through the mails.

The final 1929 initiation ceremony will take place amid new effects at Al Malaikah Temple. The complete program for this affair cannot be made known until a short time before the ceremony as some special features are exepected to be announced.

The complete program, as announced, follows:

November 16—Picture show and Shrine family dance.

November 23—Vaudeville and picture show.

November 29—Annual Charity Ball.

December 7—Vaudeville and picture show.

December 14—Christmas party for Shriners' children between 6 and 16 years.

December 20—Christmas party for poor children.

December 21—Initiation ceremony.

December 24—Distribution of food and clothing.

During the week of December 20, the visits will be made to the various hospitals.

All the affairs, excepting the Charity Ball, are free to Shriners and their families. Noble Robert A. Heffner has charge of all entertainments excepting the Shriners' children's party, which is under the direction of Noble G. E. Nagel.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR LUNCH TOMORROW

Robert Weaver, chairman of the entertainment committee of Al Malaikah Temple's Thursday luncheons for Shriners at the Biltmore, announced yesterday an unusual program for tomorrow. Nancy Welford, musical comedy and talking picture player, will head a group to be seen and heard while Feodor Kolin, composer pianist, will find out what Nobles know about musical art through his various compositions. At least 2000 Shriners are expected.

FIREMEN GIVEN CLEAN BILL

San Gabriel and County Departments Absolved of Blame in Death of Boy and Woman

A Coroner's jury inquiring into the deaths of Arthur Staat and Mrs. Ida Ohnsorg, who were fatally burned when a house burned at 910 Longden street, East San Gabriel, on the 7th inst., yesterday absolved the San Gabriel and county fire departments of any negligence which might have contributed to the deaths.

Originally it was charged that the 2-year-old Staat boy with the San Gabriel Fire Department refused to give aid, asserting that the burning house was 900 feet outside of the city limits.

At the inquest yesterday, conduced in the Reynolds & Eberle funeral parlors, Pasadena, it was shown that the two victims had been removed from the burning house several minutes before the fire department arrived, and by that time the flames had gained such headway that it was impossible to control them.

NIPPONESE RAILWAY OFFICIALS VISITORS

H. Yamawaki (above) and H. Takada

Japan's Lure for Tourists to Be Urged

"Japan, the world's park," is the slogan that H. Yamawaki, vice-minister of the Japanese Imperial Railroads; H. Takada, general passenger agent, and M. Tsukada, general superintendent, are bringing to the Occident. The three distinguished railway officials are beginning a two-year tour of the world, inspecting railroads, and studying their operation and maintenance.

The party arrived in San Francisco late in October. They journeyed to Vancouver, Seattle and Portland, then visited Yosemite Valley, with which they were greatly impressed, on their way south. They will be at the Biltmore the remainder of this week.

While Japan has only 13,000 miles of railroad, all of which is narrow gauge because of the mountainous character of the country traversed, Mr. Yamawaki says, 900,000,000 passengers are handled every year.

"We use the compartment type of car, common in England, for first-class passengers. Pullmans, not so well equipped as in the United States, are used for second-class travel," Mr. Takada explained. "Every car carries a bulletin board on the outside showing its destination which, with us, saves confusion for the passengers.

"We want to make Japan the world's park. Our scenery is beautiful; lovely mountain views with charming lakes and streams. In our study of American and European railroads we also plan to study means of attracting tourist travel to Japan."

The party will travel eastward via the Santa Fe, stopping in Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago en route to New York. A year will be spent in the United States and Canada, followed by a year in Europe.

GERMAN DRAMATIST WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

Ernest Toller, German dramatist, who was held up at Ellis Island by immigration authorities when he landed in this country, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday. He will speak on "The New Germany" tonight at Hermann Sohne Hall, under the auspices of the Cosmopolitan Federation, a German-language organization of this city. He also will read from his dramas. He is staying at the William Penn Hotel. Toller is of Berlin, and is best known here for his play, "The Last Man," produced here and in New York by the Theater Guild.

COUNTY'S 'RIGHTS' CLOUDED

Lease Proposal Discloses Levee Railway Lines Only Partly Confirmed in Ownership

Until Los Angeles county acquires by condemnation or purchase certain property rights in the rights of way of its two "levee railroads" on either bank of the Los Angeles River between the Central Manufacturing District and the Harbor Belt Line tracks it cannot lease the route.

This information was contained in a report to the Board of Supervisors by E. C. Eaton, flood-control engineer. Mr. Eaton explained that the county had approximately a 73 per cent interest in the property. About 19 per cent of the right of way is used by virtue of an easement granting the property for flood-control purposes only, 7 per cent still is before the courts in condemnation proceedings and the title to 1 per cent of the route cannot be ascertained without more searching among the county records, it was stated.

The Board of Supervisors then voted to instruct County Counsel Mattoon to make a legal survey of the situation and report what measures are necessary to acquire a complete title to the property for the county, so it can be leased.

Leroy M. Edwards, attorney for the Montana Land Company, recently made a proposal for leasing of the county railroad to connect with the Harbor Belt Line. It was stated at the time that Edwards was acting for the Santa Fe Railroad. Later agents for the Pacific Electric called the board's attention to the application their client had made a year previously asking that the Pacific Electric be allowed the use of the tracks. The Board of Supervisors then passed a resolution to the effect that if any railroad is permitted to use the right of way all roads shall share equally, making it a union belt line.

STATE BEGINS DAM INQUIRY

Engineer Hyatt Installs Board at Canyon Site; County Slows Up on More Expenses

Declaring he will insist on original reports and engineering data at the site of the proposed $25,000,000 dam in San Gabriel Canyon, State Engineer Hyatt yesterday took a committee of six experts to the construction camp and installed them in offices and residences that will be paid for by the State to avoid the appearance of dependence on any other interest concerned with the dam site.

Engineer Hyatt's survey will take about seven days, he stated yesterday, after visiting the dam.

Supervisors Shaw and Graves objected again yesterday to expending further money on surveying the site, pointing out that the State survey will be extensive enough for all practical purposes.

This objection was occasioned by the request of J. F. Safley, one of the experts hired by the county, for the use of a steam shovel, at $65 a day, to make further excavations at the site of the west abutment of the dam, where two important geological faults are said to intersect.

The board deferred action on this request until after they can consult with Engineer Eaton. They also voted to follow the recommendations of Eaton regarding the length of the employment of the nine $100-a-day experts hired by the county.

With Engineer Hyatt "on the job" at the dam site are: Dr. George D. Louderback, Dr. Charles P. Berkey, J. L. Savage, M. C. Hinderlider, George A. Elliott and Dr. Ira P. Williams.

LAND'S SLIP REPORT GIVEN

S.C. Geology Student Outlines Point Fermin Disturbance to Faculty Science Club

"Geology in the making usually is so slow that we in our span of life cannot see any definite change, but the slip at Point Fermin is so rapid that the change can be seen practically from day to day, and is apparent to the layman from week to week," said Leslie B. Riggins, Jr., research student and assistant to Prof. Arthur J. Tieje, chairman of the department of geology in the college of engineering of the University of Southern California, who addressed the faculty Science Club of Southern California last night on. "The Origin and Result of the Point Fermin Slide."

"The first signs were evidenced on January 2, last, by cracks in the streets and the breaking of a water pipe in the Oceanview Inn. When pipes continued to break and the cracks in the street widened it was realized that the unusual had happened.

"The movement is of the hinge type, that is, the movement at the west end along the fault which extends into the ocean has been the greatest. At the east end the movement has been very slight.

"The movement seems to be entirely on the west flank of an anticline which extends out into the sea and which forms the hill at Point Fermin.

"When the slide first started the land moved very slowly; then during the summer when there were a few earthquake shocks, the movement speeded up after each of them. Although engineers consider the slip to have about stopped its action, the majority of geologists take a different view—that the danger is not over, but that at any time the area now affected might start to move extremely rapidly and be beneath the ocean within a few minutes. The slip might come to a complete halt and then suddenly start to move very rapidly and land be submerged.

"The depth of the slipping earth has been variously estimated at 300 feet to 3000 feet.

"The condition of the ocean floor off shore is something like a short flight of stairs, in that there is a cliff, or step, at the shoreline, and then another, and another, before twelve miles out is reached, where the depth is about 3000 feet.

"A possible cause is: Movement along a submerged fault or faults has released, or is releasing, a restraining wall against which the west flank of the anticline is resting, and as the fault continues to move so will the slipping area. These submerged cliffs previously mentioned are possibly scarps of faults.

"Some of the residents have attributed the slippage to a broken sewer line releasing water as a lubricant, but probably the sewer line itself was broken because of the movement of the area. Furthermore, the slipping is not confined to above high-tide mark, a condition which would give weight to this explanation, but the break extends to an indeterminate distance beneath the sea."

LIMELIGHT OF ACCIDENT SHEDS RAYS ON HOLD-UP

Seriously injured last night in an automobile collision, Samuel Oxman, 23 years of age, was identified at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital by Max Nathanson, a jeweler of 517 West Eighth street, as one of two bandits who held him up Monday night. Nathanson also identified Oxman's friend, John Wilson, 18, who had been summoned to the hospital. Both men were arrested on suspicion of robbery. They gave their address as the Wilshire-Ridgeley Apartments, Wilshire Boulevard and Ridgeley Drive.

Oxman while driving alone at Wilshire Boulevard and St. Andrews Place, collided with a car driven by C. E. McElroy and then bumped into a third automobile driven by Anson Bushnell. He damaged both the other cars and wrecked his own. He was unconscious when taken to the hospital, where Dr. Kirkpatrick discovered his clavicle was fractured.

Detective Lieutenant Ellis told Oxman he was injured seriously and asked if he did not wish to summon a friend. Oxman asked to have John Wilson notified at their apartment. Wilson responded promptly, accompanied by Alice Moore, who later said that she met the pair originally at a roof garden dance place last Friday. Ellis, watching covertly, reports that he saw Oxman slip Wilson a handful of diamond rings. The detective immediately seized these rings and notified Capt. Friedenberg.

Among the rings was found one described in a list of valuables stolen on Monday night in the hold-up of Max and Joe Nathanson, 517 West Eighth street.

The Nathansons were called to the hospital, where they identified Oxman and Wilson as the pair who held up their store. The jewelers reported losing forty wrist watches and thirty-four diamond rings of a total value of $2160.

Miss Moore promptly handed over a watch which she said Oxman gave her yesterday. Detective Lieutenants Banborn and Gorman took the girl to Oxman's apartments, where they made a search for more valuables. Oxman said he came here from Pennsylvania three months ago, and Wilson said he came from the same State a month ago.

Oxman told the details of the robbery of a haberdashery store at 111 West Sixth street on the 1st inst. Besides money from the cash drawer they robbed several patrons of money and jewelry. After the Moore girl had been questioned as to her knowledge of the men she was released.

DANZIGERS SETTLE INCOME TAX CLAIMS

Income-tax liens against Edward Danziger and Mrs. Sadie Danziger were discharged yesterday on instructions from Collector of Internal Revenue Welch. A government claim for additional income taxes for 1922 from Mr. Danziger was settled for $65,353.76 and a similar lien for 1922 for Mrs. Danziger was settled for $1802.10.

PROLONGED CEMENT MILL HEARING COMES TO CLOSE

Following a hearing that has lasted nearly ten months, arguments will start Thursday morning before the City Planning Commission on the application by Alphonso Bell, for a cement rock quarry and crusher plant in the Santa Monica Mountains. The final session of the prolonged hearing came to a close at 5:40 p.m., yesterday afternoon. The applicants used sixty-one of the ninety sessions before the commission.

A decision by the members of the commission is promised within a fortnight of the close of the arguments. Attorney Roland McNitt, for the applicants, will speak all day Thursday in the hall of the Board of Public Works of the City Hall.

Friday the arguments for the protestants will be delivered in the Board of Public Utilities room. Attorney Arthur S. Smiley, Thorwald Siegfried, Arthur Verge and others will speak. They have been allotted the hours from 9 to 12; 2 to 5 and 7 to 9. Attorney McNitt will close the argument, speaking Saturday morning from 9 to 12 in the hall of the Board of Public Works.

Charles Everson was the last witness in rebuttal. He told of real-estate conditions in the territory surrounding the proposed cement plant. Peter Hanson of Glendale was the last man to appear in surrebuttal. He is an appraiser of land and declared that the land values for miles around would be depreciated if the cement rock quarry and crusher plant were to be installed.

The fight first started April 23, 1928, when the original application was filed. On May 2 the application was approved by the City Planning Commission and on May 4 it was sent to the City Council. On May 28, the application was withdrawn.

The fight started anew February 1, 1929, when the present application for the cement rock quarry and stone crusher was filed.

February 26, a special hearing opened and the applicant continued to present testimony until July 17, using fifty-one sessions. The protestants concluded their testimony October 16, using twenty-nine sessions. Rebuttal started October 22 and used ten more sessions, closing yesterday when the protestants also finished with sur-rebuttal.

More than 100 witnesses have been heard during the hearing and more than 400 exhibits listed. Close to 2,000,000 words of testimony has been taken. By agreement each member of the commission will be provided with a copy of the arguments of the attorneys. Arrangements are being made to accommodate large crowds at the arguments.

OLD CASE TO BE RESIFTED

Asserted Bootlegger's Charge of Police Brutality to be Investigated by Commission

Commissioners Coe and Drake were appointed yesterday by the Police Commission to investigate a request of the Los Angeles Bar Association committee on [illegible] through Attorney Harry McClean that Tony Pannich, who has figured frequently in dry-law charges, was beaten by officers headed by R. F. Southard in a raid on the [illegible] home, 940 Summit avenue, several months ago.

Southard is accused of striking Pannich on the head with a gun while seeking to take an order of the Federal court from Pannich entitling him to possession of the wine.

Chief of Police Davis, questioned about the case, declared that ever since the Volstead Act went into effect Pannich has been in the bootlegging business and that he has operated at numerous places with restaurants.

"Because of our drive against his bootlegging activities," said Davis, "it is a common practice for him to charge brutal treatment. He is one of the most persistent bootleggers in this district."

SHOPPING AREA BECOMES TREASURELAND OF GIFTS

Christmas Display in Stores and Shops Downtown Presents Dazzling Spectacle

BY OLIVE GRAY

Like crystal-gazers who declare that by means of some power they can look into the future, we who gaze into the windows of the stores and shops downtown may foresee the scenes that may be ours on Christmas Day.

Looking into these displays, we may descry whatsoever we desire, whether it be something quite practical, for use in the home or for our personal pleasure or one or more of those gifts whose sole recommendation is beauty.

Within recollection, has the scope in gifts been so broad, the range so attractive. Within range to the purse, almost everything may be purchased as gifts for any purpose.

There is much to do with gift cloth as widely. Apart from the dish-mop and ornamental jewelry, but there is any loneliness by

GIFT WRAPPERS

The thing that has placed Christmas many articles above was not so classed, the smallest object, being tied in one of the ways known to modern, takes on a worthwhile appearance.

In field of gift possibilities has been greatly everything for women, in adornment in the wearing of the weapon delightful. Even as a girl, who dreamed of presenting a place of honor, she would not have—

Nothing found a place among holiday loveliness. But today, a pair of stockings in finest silk, or even a pair of service hose, finds an honored place on nearly every list.

HOME ACCESSORIES

Household accessories are quite as welcome as are those for personal use, since so many are available, both for labor-saving and for adding beauty to every room, from kitchen to boudoir.

"Occasional" furniture, as the chair or table has been so aptly named, the tea-wagon or book trough, has placed furniture among the gift articles; where, in the former times, to offer furniture might have been considered an impertinence.

And so, as we gaze into the crystal of the windows in the downtown stores and shops, there is not an article which we may not hope to find on our tree or in our stocking, on Christmas morn. And something like the first peek into that stocking, or the first look at the tree, outlined in the Christmas morning light, will be the view revealed when the veils are thrown aside and the store windows are opened for our inspection tomorrow.

A foreglimpse this will afford of the gift treasures to be found in-

Hornsby Charged With Assault to Commit Murder in Stepson Shooting

Moses W. Hornsby, well-known promoter and war veteran, was held under $100,000 bail to await trial in Superior Court on charges of assault with intent to commit murder following his preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Scott yesterday.

Hornsby, according to witnesses called by Dep. Dist. Atty. Henry Dickson, a friend of young Hornsby, was shot through the arm and Hornsby then turned the weapon on himself, inflicting a wound just over the heart.

The grand jury, according to reports, followed Hornsby's release at midnight on October 31 from jail, where he had been held on a complaint filed by Mrs. Hornsby, who declared he had on several times threatened her life.

The high bail was fixed by Judge Ballard on request of Deputy [illegible] told the court he feared Hornsby would again attempt to kill his wife if released.

SPECIALTY SHOPS CARRY WEALTH OF IDEAL GIFTS

Everything From Jeweled Slippers to Rich Fur Pieces Found on Their Counters

The mark of a city's arrival, as a metropolis, is the extent and the quality of its specialty shops. Without doubt, Los Angeles has as many, or at least as excellent, specialty shops as any city in this country. In fact, many versed in such matters have compared our city to Paris in this respect.

From the shops dispensing ready-to-wear garments of every kind to those where the offerings are distinctive, such as furs, shoes, handbags, costume jewelry, gloves or hosiery, millinery, certain weaves, laces, luggage and linens, to those wherein are shown home objects—rugs, carpets, fire-place accessories, garden specialties, certain types of furniture, paper novelties, needlework, draperies, potteries and glasswares, the variety and range of specialty shops is almost innumerable.

SHOPS ATTRACTIVE

These shops, too, are extremely attractive. Luxurious in the ultimate expression of the term, many such shops are. Some, the natural outgrowth of success in the lines represented in the larger stores, are presided over by experts who have attained to an enviable name and a large following through personal contact with a discriminating clientele, others are the result of removal to the climate of Southern California by persons from the eastern centers, or from foreign countries, seeking health for themselves or members of their families.

All these elements have brought into being here many shops which cities older and of larger growth well might envy, since rare genius has come to us in this way. Many experts in the creation of art objects and fine wares have removed to this locality, and as a result of such productions shops for the vending of these productions naturally have sprung into being.

RARE WEAVES SHOWN

Rare weaves in fabrics and in carpets, wood-carvings, painting in many forms, combining with other materials to form things beautiful, hand-forging, metallic creations—if one could follow to their source the many lovely creations offered in special shops, such a tour would surprise and entertain the visitor.

Especially favored lines in manufacture have come to us from the East, or from foreign lands, also. Among the leading specialty shops which, during the coming holiday festivities, beginning the 13th inst., will make especial displays are:

BIRCH-SMITH FURNITURE CO.

The Birch-Smith Furniture Company has prepared long in advance for the holidays, taking especial pains to think out appropriate gift objects for the home and for each member of the family, who resides at home; thus making it easy for the gift-seeker to choose without waste of time.

In the way of occasional furniture, as the odd piece for living room or bedroom have come to be called, this establishment is particularly well-fitted to supply the Christmas needs of all. A piece of unusual furniture, a comfortable chair, a davenport place before the cheery living-room fireplace on Christmas Eve. And

PRETTY GIFT WRAPPINGS ADD CHARMS

Packages for Christmas More Appreciated When Prepared Properly

Gift grappings are assuming a most important place in Christmas plans. The vogue of making the package appropriate for the gift and for the person who is to receive it is a most delightful one.

A simple gift is wrapped in a friend's favorite color and tied with a few gay artificial flowers or a spray of real pine, is lifted out of "ordinary" class.

And one of those "deadly practical" gifts for a little boy may be decidedly gift-like if it is carefully wrapped in crepe paper decorated with gay figures of Santa Claus or paper that is printed with a circus design.

Even the modern little girl will be delighted with a very serviceable gift like woolen hose when wrapped in rose-colored paper, and if a tiny lollypop is tied into the bow on top, carrying a little note "For a sweet little girl"—the gift is sure to be cherished.

Metallic paper is a beautiful wrapping for small or odd-shaped boxes. Crepe paper with its interesting texture makes beautiful wrappings, either in plain colors or in the many attractive printed designs.

Printed novelty papers of great beauty are to be had in an astonishing variety of patterns, too.

MAYOR VISIONS UNVEILING

BY MAYOR PORTER

The simultaneous unveiling of the Christmas windows is an event fraught with significance. Literally and figuratively it is the lifting of the curtain to the wonderful season of gift selection.

JOHN C. PORTER

The merchants of Los Angeles, whose reputation for enterprise, variety and style of merchandise, is favorably known far and wide, are combining to present a spectacle which advance information indicates will surpass that of any similar exhibition of Christmas gift suggestions ever shown.

The primary interest will be to the children, who regard this season as the bright radiant period of the year. I am told that the downtown establishments will outdo themselves tomorrow in revealing delightful window displays, and that there will be a succession of exhibits that will arouse thrills of pleasure in every little one's heart.

Grownups are requested to see that the children are given the best points of vantage from which to view the unveiling spectacle and the radiant window displays.

The co-operative Christmas activities of the property owners, stores, hotels, theaters and financial institutions in the central business district are helping to broadcast a message of genuine value to the community. Interest in our Christmas plans is being shown by many cities throughout the country which always look to Los Angeles for the original, spectacular and truly worth-while.

It is to be hoped that the hundreds of thousands who will crowd the downtown area for the unveiling tomorrow evening will be helpful to the children—for after all, it will be an event designed especially to gladden the hearts of our younger generation.

I am sure that all traffic will be ably handled, and the favorable manner in which our citizens and visitors deported themselves during the fall fashion unveiling, indicates we shall see a jolly, well-behaved crowd thoroughly enjoying this outstanding spectacle.

Spirit of Christmas to Be Sent Abroad at 7 o'Clock Tomorrow Evening

The Spirit of Christmas is abroad in the land.

At least it will be abroad in downtown Los Angeles beginning at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening at which time buglers on every important corner will trumpet the glad tidings that Kris Kringle is once more enthroned.

As the musical notes reverberate through the retail district window coverings will be removed and the throngs of eager sidewalk "shoppers" transported to a fairyland of beauty.

It is the first gun in the pre-Christmas campaign and decorators have been busy for days making ready a display that is expected to establish a record even for Los Angeles.

In this section of The Times an effort has been made to describe some of the beauties of the festival which will be continued throughout the Christmas season.

Never before have the stores been so completely stocked and never before have so many novelties as well as staples been so ingeniously and attractively displayed.

WINDOWS OF FAIRYLAND WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Ingenuity Exhausted in Displays of Downtown Stores to Start Off Holiday Season

Artistry, the product of rare inventive genius, will be presented to the Los Angeles public tomorrow evening when the windows of the downtown stores are unveiled to display the Christmas merchandise gathered throughout the world for the avowed purpose of making this the greatest Christmas ever known in this or any city.

Window artists have brought in an extent which places the art to being effects the consummation of which required many weeks of constant labor; scenes heretofore undreamed of, in window artistry. Magic effects with light and color have been attained which put to shame anything of the kind before attempted as the color and light effects of the new outvie such effects of the old. Inventive thought has been drawn upon to bring about harmonies and atmospheric illusions which could not have been encompassed by any save genius.

DECORATIVE PLANS

Decorative plans throughout the spacious aisles of the great department stores and on the many floors are such as only modernistic art could make possible.

The merchandise offered is such as would grace the counters of any city of the world.

The gift articles exhibited in the windows, interspersed among artistic scenes to offset them, are promises of the great groupings to be found in the departments inside the stores. Unveiling of the store windows will be a dramatic incident in the series of pre-Christmas events which began on the 2nd inst. when Merry Workers arrived in Los Angeles to arouse in the heart of every citizen the true spirit of Christmas.

These little people, silently and unseen of many, have been laboring ever since the day to make this Christmas, objectively and altruistically, one of the greatest ever known in Southern California. They will further add to the events of tomorrow when their number will be augmented by the arrival by airplane of many helpers from Santa Claus Land.

ELFLAND ECHOES

Stationed at downtown corners, these Merries will give the signal for the downtown store windows to be unveiled. A bugle note, such as might sound in the clear air of the Far North will issue forth and like an echo another will proceed from another corner, until the night air will be athrill with these clear, soft notes and at the signal all the windows will drop their shades and the assembled populace will glimpse the glories ushering in this the most exciting and most beautiful holiday season ever known to this or any other city anywhere.

BARKER BROS.

If, as some have said, this is the Age of Light, the windows at Barker Brothers well might be called the abstract of this thought, for here light has been manipulated to effects marvelous and mystical. Originality penetrating the future to

THE BROADWAY

Backgrounding these expansive windows, motiffed in Christmas emblems, modernistic panels of buffed silver serve to offset the modernistic mechanicals. These toy conceptions are extremely original, in fact, the first of their kind to be installed anywhere, it is believed.

"Black Sambo and the Tiger" from the story represents lifelike figures of boy and animal, each electrically motivated and animately regarding each other.

"Rub-a-dub, Three Men in a Tub" depicts the struggles of the trio in the waterlogged craft—a scene which will bring unrestrained delight to children familiar with the legendary catastrophe.

"Humpty Dumpty and All the King's Men" elsewhere portrays the terrible descent of the shell-shocked nursery hero, whose rehabilitation stumped the king's men and all his horses.

TRAINED SEAL

A feature of the modernistic circus is the trained seal, who balances on his nose a glass ball—a thrillingly motivated act.

Gifts, appropriate to the season, are grouped throughout the window spaces—gifts for the home, gifts for the man, for the woman and, in fact, for every member of every family here are shown.

J. W. ROBINSON CO.

The broad spaces at Robinson's will present scenes of holiday loveliness, both from a decorative point of view and from that of interest to the gift-seeker, which will make this store a magnet of charm. Against backgrounds in black, silver and jade green will be shown jade-green Christmas trees of varying sizes in groups, to lend the holiday air. The battery of windows extending from the Grand-avenue entrance to the Seventh-street entrance will be devoted to a toy parade, most unique and fascinatingly original. Led by the grand marshal—a doll on horseback—dolls in motor cars, dolls in carriages, dolls on foot—dolls of all nations in characteristic costumes will be followed by animals from the menagerie of Toyland; elephants, tigers bears—beasties from the jungle and from the farmyard. A cameraman

Group From Baby Shop

Everything For the Infant at B. H. Dyas Company

from Toyland will be busy taking pictures of the parade.

IN OTHER WINDOWS

Other windows of this great store will depict in a holiday setting gifts from every section throughout the many departments. A gift from Robinson's, where the most authentic of articles always may be found, will gladden the heart of any member of the family, from the littlest tot to the grandparents. Objects decorative or luxurious, those practical for use in the home or for personal wear are here.

COULTER'S

The windows at Coulter's on opening night will display scenes of artistic beauty.

Panels of modernistic design in various metallic colorings are in sconce-like effect, against which are set molded candles of gigantic dimensions, the flame scintillant upon the "buffed" background against which they are placed.

The entire color scheme of metallic silver used throughout the windows offsets the painted scenes, forming a rich background. The changing play of lights, red and green, enhances these delightful creations.

PRACTICAL GIFTS

Gift merchandise is shown throughout the broad spaces of the windows on Seventh and Olive streets. Appropriate numbers from the practical sections are bedding, which here is especially notable—fine blankets of well-known makes, silk comforts, spreads, pillows; sheets and pillow cases of colorful linens—any one or any set of which forms excellent gifts. Gift objects in the way of rare cabinets, smoking sets of imported design, fine potteries, art objects, ornamental cabinet pieces, glassware for table and dressing case; Mexican potteries in quaint shapes; laces for the dressing-table and for the boudoir; pewter in household and decorative numbers here are among the excellent gifts for the home.

The interior of Coulter's, always extremely attractive, for the holidays, will present for the opening many features novel and enlivening.

The broad aisles extending from Seventh street and from Olive, centering around the big clock—an art piece in itself—will present a glowing array of crimson and green lights in starry shapes. Tall vases of metallic silver will contain poinsettia in crimson and silver. Various portions throughout these aisles will be spotlighted in differing colors, bringing out the brilliance of the metallic tints.

BULLOCK'S

The first glimpse of the windows at Bullock's will start the Christmas merriment, for the most striking feature there is "Tumble-Down Town." This quaint village is a series of queer peaked-roof houses, each and every one shaking and shimmying as if holding its sides for very merriment; and you will find yourself laughing, too, as you watch the wabbling roofs and wonder, "What's the joke?"

But this quaint scene is not only merry—it is beautiful as well; for the stars are shining from a night-blue sky and northern lights are softly shedding their marvelous radiance, as stars and boreal lights only can shine on the night before the opening events at Christmastime.

IN JUNGLELAND

A scene, the opposite to this, is the one wherein a tropical jungle is presented; the jungle animals crowded around a waterhole, each seeking to obtain a drink. The tigers, elephants, lions, bears, leopards and other creatures of the wild, each after his own way, conducting himself as he might in his native habitat.

Elsewhere throughout the spacious windows of the Bullock stores and shops appropriate holiday decorations and inspiring emblems guard the gifts, which are here in plenitude.

Every one of the many sections throughout the store has contributed something appropriate, something designed especially as gifts worth while. "Gifts of Today," gathered within the store as a special convenience for patrons, seems to have yielded something of its every offering for the display in windows along Broadway, Seventh street and Hill street. Noticeable are contributions from the oriental section; rare brasses, bronzes, weavings and embroideries, ceramics and exceptional potteries, both antique and modern; carved boxes of wood and boxes of metal; basketry in fascinating shapes and weaves, smoking sets, pewters, both modern and antique; pictures and imported confections in handsome packages.

TOY SECTION HUGE

The toy section, described heretofore and receiving additions from day to day, forms a constantly gaining attraction to those looking for Christmas happiness for the little ones.

Decorations of the store, always most artistic, are this season to present features more than ever inspiring. Panels in several shades of blue, ranging from night-sky to the soft golden-jade of dawn's awakening, present glowing mountain spires, with silver reindeer leaping from peak to peak. These graceful Christmas steeds, fabled throughout Fairyland, are brought to "life" in silver replica, upon the high ledges above the aisles, where they are leashed by silvery ribbons held in unseen, guiding hands. Great urns of blue and silver, placed against the pillars, hold masses of silver foliage, fruiting in crimson lights.

WALKER'S

First to attract attention at Walker's is the "Dance of the Raggety Dolls," an amusing modern mechanical, certain to bring a smile to the most sombre lips. The Raggety Boy and the Raggety Girl dancing to jazzy measures, the while the quizzical little raggety dog, posed between the dancing partners, worshipfully eyeing first one and then the other of his raggety owners, forming a playful group. A color scheme of Christmas red and silver carried out in this store presents a distinctly Californian idea in the huge wreaths of natural mountain cherry with its shining foliage, Nature's semblance here, of eastern holly.

Gifts, especially appropriate here are the laces now so modish in the way of Berthas and other neckpieces, as well as fine lace yardage, Walker's being particularly famed for laces.

Articles selected from the many departments are grouped in the windows, each being such as might well be chosen as holiday remembrances.

STORE DECORATIONS

The interior decorations of the Fifth street, for the season, are particularly well thought out and most elaborate. Throughout the first floor each of the many columns along the aisles is faced with an immense star which acts as a frame for hand-painted Christmas scenes. These columns are backed by snow and icicles and each column is flanked by tiny evergreen trees. Shading the chandeliers along the aisles are stars in crimson and silver and from these stars festoons of Christmas crimson ropes serve to uphold myriads of Christmas bells. A further atmosphere of holiday cheer is conferred by the many tall candlesticks stationed at intervals.

The visitor upon admission to the store will find Toyland a supreme attraction. Entering through a snowy arch the scene presented will be one of unlimited suggestion in the way of gifts for the young. Here, an especially scene presenting boycraft possibilities will enable the seeker after gifts to choose the very series desired by the youthful handicrafter.

Many toys brought out for this season, games and books, everything known to toy-makers in this or other lands here will be discovered.

On Saturday afternoon all visiting children will be privileged to see, at Walker's Auditorium, a Christmas play—"The Honky Tonk Pajama Review." "Big Ben," the children's man of radio fame, will be there in person; and the merry workers will add their quota to the gayety.

THE MAY COMPANY

Special windows to be unveiled tomorrow are as follows:

Beginning with the large corner window at Broadway and Eighth street and including all the windows on Eighth street, all these windows will be devoted to a display of Christmas toys for boys and girls.

The large corner window will be devoted mainly to mechanical toys with a unique background depicting a castle and huge mechanical wooden soldiers in red grenadier uniforms. These soldiers will actually beat drums, present arms, and march on parade.

Following on Eighth street windows will be shown as follows:

WINDOWS DESCRIBED

An Alpine scene with towering, snowy mountains, mechanical ski jumpers gliding up and down the mountain slopes. This window will present sports gift suggestions.

For the little girls a huge mechanical dolly will form the background of a doll, furniture and girls' toy window. This giant doll is seated before a dressing table and powders her nose.

One of the most outstanding scenic backgrounds for a children's gift-book window is a Charles Dickens scene, a house copied directly from "A Christmas Carol," an old-fashioned English inn with lights glowing from the windows, snow and icicles hanging from the eaves, old-fashioned figures with muffs and tippets, with long woolen scarves wrapped about their necks walking in front of the house.

"Santa Claus's Workshop" is the theme of the next window with mechanical Merry Workers sawing, planing, hammering and chiseling,

CHRISTMAS TOY MARKET FULL

Old Santa Has Many Gifts for Girls and Boys

World Scoured for Trinkets to be Yuletide Gifts

Germany Leads But America Gains in Production

"Don't forget my Indian suit!"

"I want skates. Skates and a pitcher's glove and a ball and bat."

"An airplane for mine!"

"A doll, please, Santa—a doll with clothes like me."

Santa, brave in red and white, answers them all. "I will, if you're a good little girl." "Yes, I'll be sure." "Yes, siree, Christmas Eve without fail!" Then in a deep round voice: "I'll remember, children; I'll remember you all."

WEALTH OF GIFTS

Certainly with the wealth of toys at his disposal there would seem little excuse to forget. But only Santa Claus and his deputies realize all the thought and planning, all the preparation and selection, all the traveling and the buying which precede this treasure trove and which in November and December make our American stores the loveliest in the world.

All Europe has been scoured in the early spring and riches culled in every market. Austria yields knit goods and fine painted balls, England offers games and lead soldiers and all sorts of stuffed goods. Czecho-Slovakia produces machine-turned wooden toys of great ingenuity and inexpensive musical toys. France furnishes exquisite novelties, fine dolls, paint sets and well-made brushes, and Switzerland usefully occupies hundreds of her peasants during the long winter months in turning out most of the music boxes of the world.

GERMANY LEADS

But in spite of all the contributions by far the bulk of importations comes from Germany. Christmas-tree ornaments and Christmas trees made of goose feathers, inexpensive dolls and fine bisque dolls, plush and skin horses, marvelous kennels of dogs, wooden toys made by hand, and novelties large and small. A tin engine that opens its own garage door to dash to the fire; a life-size camel which breathes, moves head, jaws and eyes for eight hours at a stretch; doll vanity cases and manicure sets of incredible smallness and accuracy.

Most of these have a first showing at the annual Leipzig Fair, that gala event in Toyland at which Germany makes her finest offerings. It has its week early in March, and acts as a lodestone to Teutonic holiday-seekers, honeymooners and eager American buyers. At its close numerous choice selections are already bespoken for the boys and girls of America.

AMERICA GAINS

Before the war Germany supplied most of our toys, for her ideas were original and amusing and her labor was cheap. But when that source was temporarily closed, America suddenly found that she had a flair of her own.

Toys full of character and beauty were created at home. Old-established factories increased their output, and new concerns—between 200 and 300 of them—opened their doors and launched an attractive business. This year the industry is passing $300,000,000, and includes thousands of varieties of toys. Also both in volume and price totals the home products exceed the importations.

HOLIDAY GIFTS SEASON OPENS

carry her through the holiday social festivities, and more and more, each season, as the beauty of such raiment increases and the quantity required is multiplied, have garments, whether for outer wear or of the class termed intime, gained favor as gifts.

This store is especially noted for the loveliness of its lingerie; the authenticity of handbags, scarves and other feminine accessories of dress; and with the recently installed sections for shoes and for costume jewelry still further are the tastes of women considered here.

SWELLDOM

No one looking for practical gifts for the holiday season could fail to observe that opportunity was knocking on the windows of Swelldom, the "women's corner," as the corner of Broadway at Sixth, has aporopriately been named.

Here where "style is inexpensive"—according to the well-carried out slogan of the store—the gift practical may readily be discerned. For here, amid a setting of Christmas emblems, will be seen such accessories of feminine attire as always find a welcome on Christmas morning. Whether the gift chosen be hosiery for service or for more dressy use; or the handbag to complete the ensemble for street or for evening wear; or the final complement of such a costume, the jewelry in the color matching or harmoniously contrasting therewith, the gift chosen from this shop is certain to carry happiness.

Negligees, also, are to be found here in fine exemplification; as well as lingerie and pajamas in latest modes. Evening bags, evening slippers, and, in the newly installed gift section, many novelties such as may be acceptable for either feminine or masculine offerings at Christmas time. Sports ensembles and the accessories of such costumes here are shown in attractive modes. Sweaters, scarves, handkerchiefs and attractive single articles of attire, such as blouses, skirts for sportswear; lead thought to the fact that scarcely an article of feminine use but now may properly be considered gifts. Coats, evening gowns, dance dresses and other articles for completion of the wardrobe are this season especially permissible gifts.

PARMELEE-DOHRMANN

The great house of housewares—that of the Parmelee-Dohrmann Company at 747 South Flower street, at all times a gift shop, is at the present season a veritable bazaar of beauty through its many spacious floors.

An especially pleasing feature is the downstairs store of gifts, since here are a series of tables, each bearing an especial price mark and the price ranging from 35 cents to $10, so that at a single glance the gift seeker may choose that which he has thought about obtaining at a certain price. The range of objects here is extensive and varied. In fact, it has been said that here are "more than 10,000 gifts at or below $1."

Decorations for the seasonal greetings in this store are most elaborate, the colors chosen being black, silver, red and green—these appearing as painted panels and other appropriate features in the Flower-street windows and similarly wrought into elaboration throughout the great store.

Eh, What? A Pajama Slipper

CHRISTMAS MUSIC TO BE BROADCAST

Amplifiers on Downtown Corners Will Send Forth Yule Carols and Chimes

Christmas carols and chimes will be broadcast simultaneously throughout the major street intersections in the downtown business district during the pre-Christmas activities, according to E. C. Mitchell, secretary of the Christmas festival committee. Installation of four large amplifiers will be made on each of the major business intersections and in Pershing Square.

There will be ninety-six broadcasting horns, and in recent tests made downtown, the music proved to be very distinct, carrying for hundreds of feet in all directions, clearly heard above the roar of traffic.

The individual amplifier units will be operated from separate locations, and tied together with synchronization impulse so that the operators at the stations can play simultaneously.

One hundred and twenty snow-covered castles, more than twenty feet in height, will be placed on the thirty principal corners, and the broadcasting horns will be hidden in them.

Thirty thousand feet of electrical wire will be used in installing the equipment. Work will be done between midnight and dawn. Approximately three weeks will be required to finish the installation.

From December 1 until December 31, the broadcasts will be made daily at regular short periods. There will be no advertising on the programs.

Christmas music has been recorded especially for the Christmas festival committee by the three major recording companies, Brunswick, Columbia and Victor, assuring the correct blend of voices, chimes and Christmas carols.

Los Angeles has set a precedent for the idea, and this city is said to be the only one which has the equipment necessary to carry out the broadcasting program on such a large scale.

TOYS OF TODAY REAL REPLICAS

Holiday Devices Designed for Critical Generation

Juvenile Paraphernalia Must Follow Adult Styles

Even Dolls Modeled After Living Prototypes

With a background of motors and radios and airplanes and art, the toy manufacturers have their work pretty well defined.

Trains, for example, may not be merely clever bits of steel and tin and iron motivated by electricity. They must be modeled after fast cross-continent expresses with observation car, Pullmans, chair and mail cars, or after up-to-date freights with cattle, coal, lumber and oil cars amazingly like the larger ones.

The accessories — the stations, tunnels, crossing gates, watchman's towers, semaphores, danger signals, telegraph poles, highway flashes and even the automatic train controls which are just being introduced into certain railroad systems —must show the same faithfulness in detail—a faithfulness which is not astounding when one realizes that management subscribes to railroad magazines and maintains constant communication with the larger railroad offices and obtains photographs of the latest equipment.

As for dolls, they are a crowning achievement. Whether they are baby dolls, modeled from a week-old baby, or little girl or school-girl dolls they have poise, individuality and charm. Some laugh, some cry and some speak; some stand, some pose and some walk; some have real hair, some have dimples, some drink milk; but all alike have beautifully formed, life-like figures. The babies are chubby and precious with an infant's fat little body and legs and an infant's crumped hands and feet, and the young ladies are exquisitely slender.

Their wardrobes follow the French, as is natural with folk who maintain a resident Paris correspondent, and they display a variety that shames many a trousseau.

The new models in wheel goods, long since equipped with rubber tires and ball bearings, now show nickel fittings since automobiles have begun to boast them. Small kitchens flower in bright-colored pots and pans, refrigerators and ranges in a quick reflection of adult taste. A dozen games receive impetus because of an adroit connection with the cinema, aviation or the radio.

THANKSGIVING PARADE SET

Brilliant Pageant to Usher in Holiday Season; Downtown Decorations to Surpass Past

The series of spectacular events on the Southern California holiday program will reach a brilliant climax on Thanksgiving Day when a mile-long parade through the beautifully decorated central business district will welcome Santa Claus to his 1929 headquarters in Los Angeles.

According to Eugene C. Mitchell, secretary of the Christmas festival committee, who has been supervising preparations for the combined property owners, stores, hotels, theaters and other downtown interests sponsoring the event, the parade promises to establish Los Angeles as the center of Christmas interest throughout the country.

For several weeks a large corps of designers, painters, decorators, carpenters, electricians and other workmen have been preparing the floats, which will feature the prodession. Hundreds of costumes are being made especially for this spectacle.

FAIRYLAND THEME

A delightful fairy-tale theme is the basis for all designs of the floats and marching characters, which will bring to real life in colorful settings the favorite figures of the juvenile story books that have lived for centuries.

Among the floats will be Goldilocks and the Three Bears, Snow White, Mother Goose, the Wizard of Oz, Cinderella, the Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe and Little Red Riding Hood, together with some of more recent conception. Santa Claus will ride in state on a throne in a float radiant with snow crystals and glittering with tinsel. The parade will be led by an enormous decorated Christmas tree, built close to the ground to permit of a maximum height, and surrounded by toys and gift packages.

PAGEANT ADJUNCTS

Members of the Christmas committee, civic officials, motion-picture leaders, talented children, clowns, acrobats, carol singers and many others will be seen in the line of march, together with jesters, walk-arounds or mummers, midgets, giants and the omnipresent Merry Workers. A band will precede each float.

Designing work is being directed by J. A. Biggam, creator of the pageants and parades, who planned and constructed the recent Shrine and Elks' convention pageants.

The parade will begin at 10 a.m. at Twelfth and Spring streets, the line of march being north on Spring to First street; First to Broadway; south on Broadway to Twelfth street, Twelfth to Hill street; north on Hill to Fifth street; Fifth to Olive street; Olive to Seventh street; Seventh to Flower street; south on Flower to Twelfth street and thence to the starting point.

gireplace accessories, so very apropos for the holiday season—many of these are supremely fit for gifts. Mirrors, always complimentary to women, also should be marked well toward the top of the woman's gift list. Cedar chests, tea-wagons, footstools, rugs, pillows, bookcases for his or for her favorite volumes, pictures, no end of occasional furniture, for the wise gift chooser, is found in this extensive establishment at 737 South Hill street.

RICHARDSON MUSIC COMPANY

When the window opening takes place gift seekers will be reminded, as they feast eyes upon the handsome musical instruments at Richardson's, that no more worth-while gift can be conferred than a piano of well-known make or some other instrument, to assist with harmony in the home.

Offset by appropriate holiday decorations, the windows of the Richardson Music Company, 730 West Seventh street, will display fine examples of musical instruments in period designs, as well as those of simpler framing.

Especially noted, in addition to the pianos, will be many versions in phonographs, stressing particularly the automatic record changing Victrola, which so ably makes for convenience.

Small musical instruments, from those novelties for children's use—the playasax, and rolmonica, violins, clarinets and all kind of drums, will appear in a broad range, each and all serving well for gift purposes.

Excellent as gifts are sets of foreign records, for those widely versed in music, who delight in forming collections of important classical and popular records. Three floors in this reliable music house are devoted to musical instruments of all descriptions.

MARTIN MUSIC CO.

The Martin Music Company, 734 South Hill street, is saying "Merry Christmas" in a way of its own, stressing as the gift supreme for holiday happiness in the home the newly-popular miniature grand—the instrument which is replacing, to a great extent, the uprights formerly in general use. Not quite small enough to be placed in the Christmas stocking, this piano still is of far more comfortable proportions for small bungalows and apartments than are instruments of larger mold. Since the qualities are equal to any offered, these pianos are of continuously gaining popularity.

BIRKEL MUSIC CO

With especially spacious quarters for the display of pianos, the Birkel Music Company naturally comes first to the mind of those contemplating a gift magnificent for members of the family.

The windows at 446-448 South Broadway will depict the most superb of these gifts for the opening tomorrow, in the leading makes in these royal instruments.

Interspersed will be an interesting selection of band and orchestra instruments, from among which may be chosen the favorite one for the youthful musician who either is a member of a school orchestra or who plays for entertainment of family and friends.

Radios also are shown here in all popular makes and in cabinets to correspond with the furnishings of the home, whether such furnishings are classical or modernistic.

Noticeable here is a special feature connected with a leading reproducing piano—a feature presenting in connection with the music rolls, brief historic sketches regarding the producers of the works that are being played, together with a written appreciation of the compositions.

In the windows at Birkel's and throughout the entire store Christmas emblems and gay motifs of the season will add the holiday atmosphere.

WETHERBY-KAYSER SHOE COMPANY

In the broad windows and extensive arcades of the Wetherby Kayser Company at 727 South Broadway and 715 South Flower street, the choice of gifts for both men and women is almost an embarrassment of riches.

In addition to gifts practical, such as pumps, slippers and boudoir shoes, to be chosen through the agency of gift certificate, there are such luxurious gifts as handbags for day time and for evening use, costume jewelry, buckles and dressing table or vanity accessories in leather. Bridge slippers in novel designs, quilted slippers for tea-time comfort, lounge slippers for the man at home; any of these sure to receive a Christmas-morning welcome.

Fine enamels and crystals, carnelians and lapis-lazuli in jewelry, the outgrowth of the ensemble idea, come in necklaces, bracelets, earrings and finger rings to match the clasps of the handbags and the jewel-like buckles on pumps or slippers. And one of these or the entire sets form most tasteful gifts for Christmas.

INNES SHOE CO.

The display of the Innes Shoe Company, 642 South Broadway, comprises fine hosiery of all weights and colors, appropriate especially for feminine gifts. The newer numbers, ultrasmart, in fact, in tango net, come in black—again forging to the front in Fashion's favor—in gun-metal, beechnut and in fog. In chiffons the lighter colors are well liked for gifts, while service hose in all popular ensemble tones are, as ever, popular.

A distinct novelty here—and one certain to find instant favor among gifts—is the pajama sandal with square heel and square toe, in pastel tones of kid and also in Moroccan red and in blue. This intriguing shoe is for wear at the tea or lounging hour, when it accompanies a suit of the alluring pajamas now so generally considered chic. Bridge slippers of crepe de chine or satin come in shades of rose, blue or black, some with linings in distinct contrast and many completed by a velvet bow in a matching shade. Cocktail slippers in crepe and in silk brocade, trimmed with marabou in matching tone, proclaim the gift spirit in every trig line. From among these many striking novelties the gift-seeker may find that which is acceptable to even the most jaded taste.

PLATT MUSIC CO.

In tune with the modernistic trend in musical and radio cabinets, the Platt Music Company, 832 South Broadway, groups Christmas greetings around the many popular makes carried by this company, each offering being framed in some way distinctive of that novelty so integral a part of the present day.

New modernistic cabinets for radio sets embodying features most efficient vie with the classical.

Musical instruments both large or small, costly or inexpensive—as may be dictated by the budget of the gift seeker, may be here chosen as appropriate to the holiday season.

Both in appearance and in lasting joy for the household, a musical instrument, whether large or small, forms a gift of extremest thoughtfulness.

GUDE'S, INC.

From among the many articles appropriate to the season the gift-seeker should find no difficulty in selecting at either of Gude's shops, one at 725 South Broadway, the other at 635 West Seventh street. Whether the choice be that of the more practical offering, such as shoes or hosiery, to be chosen by the donor or—later—by the recipient, by means of the gift certificates, or if the choice is one of the more luxurious articles, such as a set of buckles, handbag and shoe ensembles, with costume jewelry to match the buckles, the scope is broad and varied.

"SOMEBODY'S BEEN AT MY PORRIDGE!" said the Great Big Bear in his great, rough, gruff voice. "Somebody's been at my porridge!" said the Middle-Sized Bear in her Middle-Sized voice. "Somebody's been at my porridge and has eaten it all up!" said the Little Wee Bear in his little wee voice. Of course, this thrilling story is quite the most interesting we can hear when we are very young, and we know that any member of the youngest (and most important) set would find Christmas just a little better than usual if Mr. Santa Claus should leave Papa, Mamma, Little Baby Bear, or delightful thought, the whole Bear family were sitting under the tree with their cunning little porridge bowls.

Special Displays Prepared For Yuletide Shopper

worn by Egyptian beauties, would form a sumptuous gift.

Here is to be found a wide choice in boudoir slippers and slippers for men, together with fine hose for men, always among the gifts acceptable.

MYER SIEGEL & CO.

The spacious arcade and broad windows of Myer, Siegel & Co., affording excellent display opportunity, will prove even more than usually attractive in their holiday dress.

Chaste decorative effects in Christmas colors, emblematic of the season, will serve to enhance the gift objects shown.

Novel costume jewelry, many of these imports, chosen with rare discrimination; accessories of the costume, such as scarves, handkerchiefs and handbags suggest the useful as well as the beautiful in gift choice.

Negligee for which this store long has been famed; fine lingerie in numbers suitable for tailored attire as well as that for more elaborate dress; corsage bouquets and other articles especially appealing to trained feminine taste all will combine to form an alluring place in which to select the gift of worthwhile significance.

ALEXANDER & OVIATT

The beautiful windows and arcades of Alexander & Oviatt need no enhancement to attract the gift-seeker; for such framing as Lalique glass, silver set in designs as rich as the facades in this establishment are in themselves suggestive of glad tidings and holiday gifts of value.

And within the store not a section but proffers something finely suggestive for the seeker after rare and distinctive gifts.

Rare porcelains and potteries; fine objects in glass by French mastercraftsmen in this material; bronzes and brasses; dressing-table accessories in sumptuous array; leather pieces, hand-tooled and colorful; boudoir pillows; games. Among the latter one will note fine chess sets of genuine ivory and other precious carvings.

For men's gifts there are preeminently luxurious lounging robes—most novel and attractive being those in the Paisley weaves with slippers to match. Men's jewel and shirt sets here are to be observed in designs and material placing them in the realm of the most rare and tasteful. Motor attire and especially good wearables for sports, when bearing the mark of "Oviatt's" will be acceptable to the most exacting of recipients.

Extension of the section for feminine apparel to include evening gowns and wraps as well as accessories provides additional opportunity of choice among these ever-desirable gifts. The costume jewelry section is without rival in the grouping of unusual pieces for ensemble wear, the most exclusive of foreign marts having rendered up their treasures for this collection. Shawls, scarves, sweaters, negligees and evening shawls—the list of gift objects here is unlimited. Desk et ceteras for both the man's and the woman's room or for bridge prizes, so different as to place them among the treasure trove of the season, are well selected if they come from Alexander & Oviatt's. For the person difficult to provide with an especial gift a merchandise bond is the solution; since thus may select their own—far from a task in this place so replete with objects desirable.

ARTHUR W. ISAACS

Furs of fine quality need no Christmas plea to place them among the most worthwhile of gifts; and furs created by Arthur W. Isaacs speak for themselves in modish, authentic lines.

The Isaacs Fur Studio in the Fine Arts Building, 811 West Seventh street, is a place so beautiful as to carry the holiday feeling at all times, and when the silver, black and crimson of this delightful salon are the setting to the superb fur masterpieces shown for the present season no one seeking a sumptuous gift can afford to pass it by.

First, on the list of the generous donor come luxurious coats and even wraps in ermine, both natural and dyed. Black caracul in many variations also is well toward the head of the list in gifts practical as well as beautiful.

Distinctly welcome to the recipient would be a neckpiece of fur. Foxes in natural white, or dyed to pastel tones to harmonize with the favorite ensemble form gifts most acceptable. Silver foxes, rare and beautiful, are flattering to the young and to those more advanced in years.

A gift from the Isaacs Fur Studios is a gift well chosen and of rare distinction.

BLACKSTONE'S

When the windows of Blackstone's are unveiled tomorrow evening there will be glimpsed many articles especially pleasing for feminine gift purposes.

Garments for both outdoor wear and for the home exercise appeal when bearing the Blackstone mark, while accessories of dress—neckwear, gloves, hosiery, handbags, costume jewelry, handkerchiefs and scarves found here are known to be selected with particular care and forethought. Fine stationery, corsage bouquets and dainty lingerie, as well as negligees and lounging habiliments from Blackstone's are sure of enthusiastic welcome from the recipient.

The gift section in Blackstone's long has been known as a department where the unusual in gift articles abounds. Many choice objects of art from foreign lands here are found, together with attractive American novelties.

Decorations suitable to the holiday season enhance the merchandise shown in the windows and throughout the various sections on the several floors.

JACOBY BROS

Black and silver will be the themes disclosed when Jabocys windows are unveiled. The background is black, against which will stand forth huge silver wreaths.

One broad window will be devoted to a display from the shop called "Gifts of All Nations." Many interesting objects have been culled from foreign lands by the Jacoby buyers, who have spent many months of travel, selecting merchandise especially for the holidays. Interesting potteries, novelties in the way of costume jewelry and peasant craftsmanship from Czecho-Slovakia, from Belgium and other countries where quaint articles are produced have been drawn upon for the many gift things at Jacoby's. The toy section contains much which is of especial appeal, being far from the usual.

Inside the store the many pillars throughout the aisles will be faced in an effect similar to cathedral windows, framed in metallic tones of red, green and silver; the colors illuminated by a play of electric lights. Roses of snowy pine will add a touch of winter to the scene, reminding of the revions legendary to the thought of Christmas time.

In addition to the articles usually thought of as especially for gifts many articles for personal use and for use in the home will attract the seeker to the many departments. Lingerie, negligees, costume jewelry, sports attire; articles of evening wear and for street, such as handbags, gloves, hosiery, handkerchiefs, all favored as gifts, here are finely tempting.

COLBURN'S

No more sumptuous gift than furs, of the better class, can be imagined; and none more to be welcomed than those from the Colburn collection. The girl or woman who is so fortunate as to find under her Christmas tree, one of those white moire boxes, with "Colburn's" traced in gold across the top, and upon peeping beneath the cover, sees a Colburn fur, will never again doubt that she is beloved of Santa Claus.

A fine neck-piece, a sable—preferably, if Santa's purse have a generous opening—or of stone marten, or of baum marten—a neckpiece fashioned from three to six skins, as goes the mode of now, will form a regal gift suitable to any feminine taste. Then, there are foxes, to draw from, in the way of gifts. The foxes dyed to tints suitable for accompanying the ensemble, or those more rare and distinctive ones, the cross foxes or the blue.

But neckpiece are not the only appropriate gifts, to be found at Colburn's. Even though the loving-purse may not accede to such lavishness as the furry-jewel gifts, ermines, sables and other rare pelts fashioned into coats and cloaks—gifts for wives and daughters and sweethearts soon to become brides, there are many sports garments in fur, most excellent for carrying the Christmas wishes, in their furry pockets.

Sports jacquettes—again high in the mode—come in the flat furs, mainly, such as caracul and barondukl. In the longer coats for sports, are the lapin in various colorings and many other examples in peltry, all builded upon authentic lines such as Coluburn's are certain to present. Any of these will form highly welcomed gifts for the holiday season, when modish dress becomes so desirable, for the gala events to be calendared.

MEHESY

The beautiful shop, of Mehesy—Furrier—so recently installed and so beautifully decorated as to need no further enchancement, nevertheless takes on a holiday air, by reason of the fine furs, especially designed as gifts.

This shop on West Seventh street, came into being for the reason that Mehesy's many patrons here and in Hollywood, requested this addition to the Long Beach store, which they habitually patronized. For, it must be known that Edward Mehesy is probably the pioneer furrier in Los Angeles—his first shop being located more than thirty years ago, on Fourth and Main streets, then the very center of the downtown shopping district. In furs, as in no other merchandise, is it necessary to rely upon the honesty of the dealer, and in this respect, Mehesy has gained his wide patronage.

This season, the especial stressing of summer ermine, is a feature at Mehesy's, this royal fur being there developed in most original ways, and combined as none but an expert can combine furs. Summer ermine, with foxes, with marten, with exceptional features by way of collar, cuffs, the modish silhouette developed in long, sweeping lines—what sumptuous gifts any one of these superb wraps will form! Black broadtail caracul, with silver fox collar, a most original coat in fitch, how father, brother or husband would endear himself by such a gift! For a neckpiece in silver fox, pointed fox, in one of the beautifully developed red foxes, or in blue, any girl would give thanks.

A brief chat with Mehesy, affords interesting information, as to furs, adding much that is new to one's fur ideals, and to the knowledge of why and wherefor, as to pelts, natural or dyed.

JAEGER'S

Jaeger's shop 713 West Seventh street, attractive in that it is the only shop of its kind in the West, having been recently installed here upon demand of a large clientele, presents particular allure for the holidays.

Attaining to international fame, through the manufacture of woolen garments and accessories, this house is known for reliability—a Jaeger trade mark being the synonym for pure woolen fabrics. This fact renders a Jaeger gift of special value affording satisfaction to both donor and recipient.

Among articles notable as gifts for men, at Jaeger's are: Camelahair lounge robes, and those for motor-car use, plaid scarfs, golf socks and sweaters to match, smoking jackets. Two-piece sports outfits, in knickers and trousers, with coats to match, are suggested for those of practical intent.

For women, such gifts as robes in camelshair and in other woolen weaves, hosiery of wool for sports, scarves in cashmere and in Shetland wool. For women and for children, any of these are appropriate; as also are boudoir slippers of leather, lined with camelshair for warmth.

NEWCOMB'S

If, for just a moment, Santa Claus paused before the Corset Shop, finger on lip, as if pondering whether or not here could be found anything Christmasy—or possibly a bit timid was he about invading so very feminine a place—Mrs. Santa had no such doubts or qualms. She knew that here she would find many of the gift articles for her pack, which are the especial delight of women. Those garments intime for which the heart of every woman yearns, whether she be rich or poor, lured Mme. Santa to enter Newcomb's Corset Shop.

Although corsets are by no means the entire stock of the Corset Shop, these in themselves, have become such articles of beauty that they would form excellent gifts. When I say "things of beauty," I mean it in a double sense; for corsets do enhance the feminine figure, as all must know; and in themselves these contour garments are as beautiful as anything worn by women, today. Of silks and satins, brocades and other rich materials, embroidered, ribboned, flower-trimmed, and in any of the many charming colors known to lingerie, a modish corset would form a welcome gift for any woman.

For those eschewing corsets, there are the many pretty examples in girdles—fashioned from silk and lace and ribbon—veritable confections, these. Garters, also, range well among the gift things; garters rounded, and those suspended from narrow, silken bells, the latter often embroidered flowerfully.

In lingerie, the choice is wide. Crepe, Georgette, woven silk—scarcely a fabric or a color which may not be found in these lovely intimate articles, which when made into Christmas packages will form truly desirable gifts for women, young or old.

In hosiery, any number from the service weaves, to those of cobweb texture, what more welcome as a gift? And the quality carried by this honorable house, is indisputable. An especially attractive line of handkerchiefs, has been brought in at Newcomb's, for the gift season. Handkerchiefs of finest linen, hand-finished and hand-embroidered and that most poetic of handkerchiefs—the one of lace—are there from which to choose, for Christmas.

BAKER SHOE CO.

Interest with Christmas greenery and brightness, such gift offerings as fine hosiery, in every weight and weave, from that most serviceable, to the diaphanous consistency of the spider-web, and in every modish color perfect fit. NEW 'TOYOUS AGE' HAILED BY LOS ANGELES CITIZENS

Mechanical Marvels Make Holiday Season One of Merrymaking for Grown-ups, Too

"The Mechanical Age," ours has been named by some, and this season the term might be applied especially to toys, for never in history have there been such marvelous mechanical toys as are in store at present for the Christmas giver.

And, we appropriately might coin a term for our present day, when as a nation, if not as a world, we are relearning play, as attested by the many amusing objects for use and for ornament throughout the home and as personal accessories. We well might ter inthis "The Toyous Age."

The very spirit of this fact is de- ner not possible to any other era. picted in the decorations of the downtown stores for the Christmas opening.

The many scenes presented, with the figures, in large and in small, many of them motivated electrically, many of them lighted in a man- spoken of as the capital of the world's playgroun', should be first so to embody the spirit of play, as now is being done, in the series of pre-Christmas and other holiday events, set in motion several weeks ago and to culminate in the great parade on the downtown streets on Thanksgiving Day.

This series, planned and carried out at great expense of thought and money, is one not alone for children, but one to be participated in by all loyal citizens.

For, it is hooed that such a series may be given annually; and that it may gain in extent and in novelty, as the seasons pass; that, as other cities and other countries have marked certain epochs and certain seasons for gala events, Los Angeles may be known far and wide, for the Christmas festivities differing from and excelling all others, as our glorious Southern California climate excels all others, making possible here, as nowhere else, such a series of downtown outdoor events.

all tend to go far deeper into the spirit of today, then do mere toys. For these present not only the playthings of childhood but the rehabilitation of play for the grown-up as well.

And, it is especially appropriate that Los Angeles, which has been

Well Supplied With Cats

It is estimated there are 1,000,000 cats in New York City. Anyway fourteen to sixteen ambulances of the Humane Society in that city are kept busy doing nothing but serving the feline population of New York.

HEARING ON DAM ENDS

Door Leaves Way Open for Final Effort at Accord With Arizona

Los Angeles Spokesmen in Clash With Edison Man on Control Plan

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
Times Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (Exclu-sive)—A two-day protest hearing on Boulder Dam power allocation was ended this afternoon with the announcement by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur that completion of contracts will be held up until the first week in December in a final effort to get Arizona to drop her fight to milk and come into the fold under an amicable agreement with California and other states in the Colorado River basin. It is reported that it "will be most unfortunate for the entire West and for many projects entailing interstate compacts" if the Boulder Dam development has to go ahead without complete accord on the part of the seven States directly concerned. Secretary Wilbur said he wants the representatives of the other states and of the municipalities and private power companies interested in Boulder Dam to assist in the attempt to bring Arizona back into the picture.

PHILLIPS TO BE NOTIFIED

The Secretary said he will notify Governor Phillips of Arizona that action on contracts is being delayed in the hope that the State will reconsider and come to join the Colorado River compact, and indicated he will suggest completion of the lower-basin agreement between Arizona, California and Nevada.

"Lower-basin negotiations have been at a standstill for several months due to the apparent impossibility of agreement between California and Arizona on how much water, power, revenue and other benefits the latter should receive from the project. But in a recent letter to the Interior Department, Governor Phillips intimated Arizona might be persuaded and abandon her opposition if the price to be charged for power is increased from the 4½ mills announced by Secretary Wilbur and the charges for storing water from 25 cents per acre foot to something in the neighborhood of $1. It seemed evident from the Governor's letter that what is needed to get Arizona into line is somewhat substantial in the way of money, to compensate for the use of her natural resources and some definite assurance that her share, or part of "surplus profits" under the Swing-Johnson act will be put money into her coffers.

COMPROMISE POSSIBLE
